BY THOMAS MORROW

The 27th annual national convention of the American Legion blared into being yesterday, complete with band music, oratory and eye piercing lights for photographers in a flag decked but sparsely filled Coliseum. An aura of past performances hung over the weary, old building.

As the convention reached midafternoon the delegates' section had filled but rows of empty seats glared back from the gloom of the balconies. Those who did attend the session heard Adm. King, commander of the navy, assert that "to carry out the proposed merger of our military services would result in a far greater national loss than any gain that might be achieved."

Truman Sends Regrets

They heard a telegram from President Truman regretting that the press of business kept him from his first Legion convention in years as a delegate from Missouri. They saw Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., dressed in naval uniform, accept the Legion distinguished service medal in behalf of his father.

They also heard a tribute to the war dead which produced a profound silence and brought tears to the delegates and audience. After taps sounded from the platform it was echoed by two muted trumpets outside the hall.

Aside from scattered bursts of hilarity, there was little whoopee in the loop. A 40 and 8 locomotive held forth in front of the Morrison hotel, two legionnaires toured the business district in an 1890 automobile, strolling bands carried on, and one entertained in the jammed lobby of the Morrison.

Dressed as Indian, Gloomy

One wag spurted streams of water on passersby in Clark st. and was still on his feet at 10 p. m., a second set off some form of explosives. For some reason one fellow had dressed up like an Indian, but he looked pretty gloomy, as though he wished he hadn't.

As Adm. King waited to be called to the microphone he carried on a spirited conversation with Arthur Wermuth, the one man army. The admiral energetically puffed a cigaret and expressed enjoyment with continued chuckles.

When he stepped to the speakers' platform, the photo lights glared on and the convention came to life with a shouted greeting. A scant haired delegate who had been sleeping peacefully in the third row awoke and participated.

"We know that our national military team as at present constituted, is a winning machine, the most powerful the world has ever seen," Adm. King told his listeners. "Certainly it would seem the part of good plain American common sense to keep that team which won so great a war."

Huge Waste in Army Radar Sets Revealed

BY GUY GENTRY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Dayton, O., Nov. 18—Radio and radar equipment estimated to have cost the government more than 2 million dollars is standing exposed to weather on the ground at the 862d army air force specialized depot, five miles south of here. Deterioration to the delicate instruments already is estimated in excess of 1 million dollars.

The radio and radar sets and parts, most of them packed in paper and boxes that will not withstand rain, have been piling up at the depot for more than six weeks. All inside storage space is filled. The deluge of equipment received to date is estimated to be less than half of that scheduled for transfer here.

The four large warehouses at the depot, the A. A. F.'s only permanent installation for air borne radio and radar storage, have been packed to the limit for weeks. All warehouse docks are loaded and the enormous piles on the ground of the 114 acre depot have been growing daily.

Equipment Not Needed

Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Knerr at Wright field, commanding general of the air technical training command and in charge of the A. A. F.'s global procurement, maintenance, and supply, admitted that most of the property has not been declared surplus. He insists the equipment is no longer needed by the air force.

The A. A. F. directive starting the flow of radio and radar equipment to Dayton was made because civilian owners were demanding release of storage space that had been rented to the A. A. F. during the war, Knerr said. Of some 400 depots utilized by the air force, Knerr estimated more than 80 per cent were leased and had to be returned.

The directive was issued soon after air force officers had taken over the 862d depot from the signal corps and the civilian staff was struggling with the new and complicated air force procedure.

Information Held Up

Anticipating heavy shipments of material, Lt. R. J. Linehan, in command of the depot's inspection section, sought in August from Knerr's headquarters information on what classifications of equipment then stored in the four warehouses could be placed outside with safety. Some of the equipment is waterproof packaged for overseas shipment.

After waiting until early October without a reply, a member of the inspection section, it was said, made a personal trip to Wright field, but failed to obtain the needed information. Maj. Harold Lane of the communications section at Wright field finally wrote a letter to the depot's commanding officer, declaring virtually all stored equipment could be moved out, if necessary.

The depot was preparing for inventory when the first shipments began arriving later in September and these were stored outside until inventory could be completed. Equipment arrived in such quantities that orderly handling later was impossible.

Arrive by Carloads

Seventeen rail carloads of equipment arrived on Oct. 1. All of this

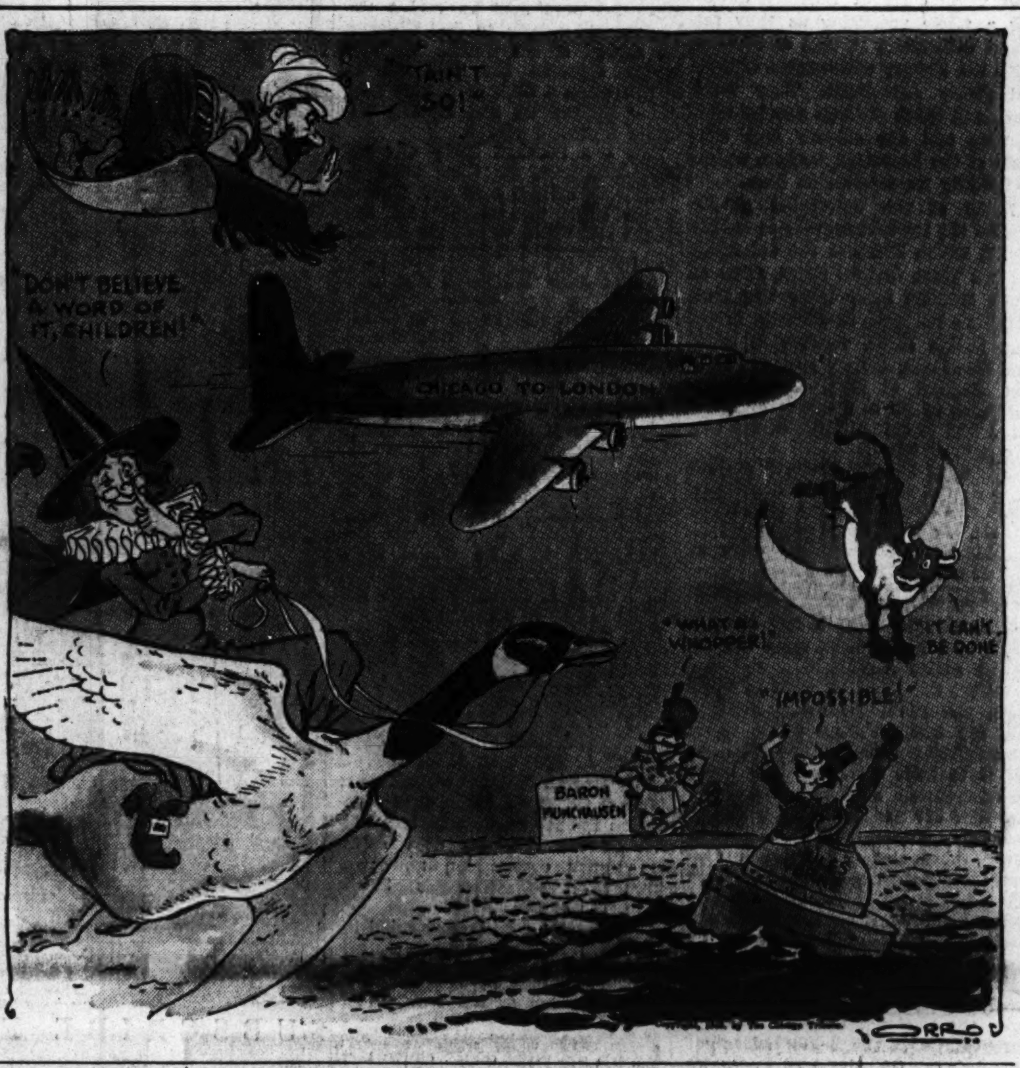
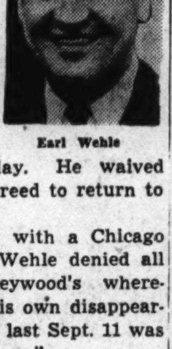
ONCE UPON A TIME A GIANT AIRSHIP FLEW FROM CHICAGO TO . . .



Seize Employe in Mystery of Vanished Boss

BY FRANK WINGE

Earl [Ding Dong] Wehle, 38, of 8027 Carpenter st., sought for more than a month for questioning in connection with the mysterious disappearance of his former employer, Edgar Heywood, 53, proprietor of an electrical shop at 1052 W. 79th st., was arrested in the Clay hotel in St. Louis yesterday. He waived extradition and agreed to return to Chicago today.



Earl Wehle

In an interview with a Chicago Tribune reporter, Wehle denied all knowledge of Heywood's whereabouts, and said his own disappearance from Chicago last Sept. 11 was for "personal reasons."

Last Seen July 2

Heywood, who also operated a speedboat service at Cedar Lake, Ind., was last seen on July 2. Shortly after Heywood disappeared, Wehle took over Heywood's electrical business.

Police, investigating Heywood's disappearance, found bloodstains on a mattress in a cabin Heywood rented at Cedar Lake, and bloodstains on a jacket hanging in the cottage. They found Heywood's spectacles near the cottage.

Wehle then told police Heywood had told him he was going to California. Wehle said Heywood sold him his electrical shop, the speedboat business, and his automobile, for $3,500. Police asked if he had a bill of sale, and Wehle said yes. That was on Sept. 10. He agreed to produce it the next day. The next day he could not be found.

Interviewed in Cell

"What happened to Heywood?" Wehle was asked last night in his cell in the St. Louis police station.

"I don't know. He told me he was going to California."

"How about those bloodstains at the cabin?"

"I don't know anything about them. That's a lot of hokum."

"How do you explain them?"

"I don't explain them."

Works as Sign Painter

"I worked a couple of weeks for the Al Fresco Advertising company, and then worked three weeks for the Mutual Advertising company, as a sign painter."

"Do you really have a bill of sale for the shop?"

"Yes. Everything's in order."

"Then why did you leave?"

"I had a little domestic trouble."

"Why did Heywood go to California when he had a good business?"

"He was in bad health. He had diabetes and gout."

"Did you ever have any trouble with him over women?"

"No. We never had any arguments all the time we were together."

Wehle said he left Heywood's automobile in a garage at Adams st. and Wabash av.

He was arrested by St. Louis police at the request of Chief of Detectives Walter Storms, who advised them Wehle was wanted here for "larceny and questioning."

He will be returned this morning by John Clark and Charles Walsh, Chicago detectives, who were sent to St. Louis for the purpose.

In Wehle's room, police found a .25 caliber automatic pistol containing four undischarged cartridges. Wehle said he bought the pistol in a Chicago second hand store.

ARMY DOCTOR FLIES TO SEE STRICKEN WIFE OF GEN. EISENHOWER

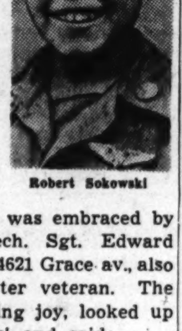
Boone, Ia., Nov. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, army medical officer and close friend of Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower, flew here from Washington today to consult on her illness while the general maintained a vigil at his wife's bedside in a hospital.

Dr. A. B. Deering of Boone, after consulting two other physicians, announced Mrs. Eisenhower was suffering from bronchial pneumonia, involving both lungs, but added "it was caught in the early stages and we feel that penicillin should control it." Gen. Snyder, who is familiar with Mrs. Eisenhower's medical history, arrived late this afternoon.

Mrs. Eisenhower entered Boone County hospital a short time after she and the general arrived here last night to spend a week-end with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joel E. Carlson. Gen. Eisenhower spent nearly the entire day in his wife's room, chatting with her and reading newspapers. Barring a setback in Mrs. Eisenhower's condition, his aide, Lt. Col. James Stack, said the general will leave tomorrow night for Chicago, where he will receive the American Legion distinguished service medal. He will reach Washington Wednesday and fly to Germany Friday.

A Veteran, 10, from Europe Rejoins Buddy

Among the passengers who disembarked from the SS James Swan from England at Portland, Me., yesterday was a small 10 year old boy wearing a cutdown GI uniform decorated with a European theater campaign ribbon with three battle stars, Presidential unit citation bar, and Purple Heart with cluster.



Robert Sokowski

On the pier he was embraced by a Chicagoan, Tech. Sgt. Edward Klonowski, 24, of 4621 Grace av., also a European theater veteran. The small boy, radiating joy, looked up at Sgt. Klonowski and said:

"Ed! I so happy!"

He's Ukrainian Orphan

The boy is Robert Sokowski, a Ukrainian orphan, whose life was filled with the tragedies of war until he was befriended by Sgt. Klonowski on a battlefield near Steinach, Austria, three weeks before V-E day.

After his parents and three sisters were killed in their Kharkov home during an air raid, the boy was forced to become a bookblack slave to a German general, whose name he said he never learned.

Escapes from Germans

One day last April Robert broke thru the German lines and, dodging machine gun bullets, ran to the American lines and slid into a trench alongside Sgt. Klonowski. Their friendship was sealed that instant, and from then until the end of hostilities, the boy "served" with Sgt. Klonowski's artillery unit.

While in combat with his friend Bobby suffered bullet wounds in the chest and left hip and shrapnel wounds in the right hip and both legs.

"Bobby earned all those ribbons and he's also entitled to wear the bronze star and silver star for gallantry in action," said Sgt. Klonowski, who made a special airplane trip from Chicago to New York en route to meet his young charge.

Tries to Stow Away

The boy was stranded in London and sent to a hospital after Sgt. Klonowski was ordered back to the United States. Immigration authorities arranged his transportation to Portland after deciding to permit him to join his GI friend.

Sgt. Klonowski, who said his parents had agreed to adopt the battle scarred orphan, announced to Bobby that the first thing he must face is a barber for a haircut.

SOME TO COST A LITTLE MORE; OTHERS LESS

Studebakers to Be Up 9 Per Cent

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18—The office of price administration today announced that, in comparison with 1942 levels, retail price ceilings of Studebakers will be 9 per cent higher; Fords will be 2 per cent higher, and Chrysler, Plymouth, and De Soto cars will be 1 per cent higher.

Retail prices of General Motors cars—Chevrolet, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, and Cadillac—will average about 2½ per cent below 1942 levels. No prices were announced for Packard, Hudson, and Nash cars.

New Designs a Factor

Price Administrator Bowles said that the higher prices were the result of new designs and engineering specifications, which will give improved styling performance and serviceability. The OPA made public its retail ceiling prices for various models of Ford and Studebaker cars and extra equipment. Maximum prices for other makes will be released as soon as they have been worked out by the OPA.

Bowles said new 1946 cars will not be equipped with spare tires.

Bowles said that higher factory prices, other than those increased production costs resulting from changes in engineering and design, will not be passed on to car buyers. He said that pre-war profit margins of automobile dealers will be reduced uniformly by 2½ percentage points, which will assure 1942 retail prices on the average for all makes of 1946 cars. He added that dealers actually will realize profit margins higher than those before the war because of the elimination or reduction of losses which they were formerly forced to take on used car trade-ins.

First Ceiling Prices

Here are the retail ceiling prices for 1946 models of Fords and Studebakers. The ceilings do not include excise taxes, transportation, or preparation and handling charges.

Ford De Luxe Eight
3 passenger coupe	$834
Tudor sedan	882
Fordor sedan	931
Ford Super De Luxe Eight
3 passenger coupe	$891
Tudor sedan	940
Fordor sedan	989
Sedan coupe	977
Studebaker
4 door cruising sedan	$967
2 door club sedan	918
5 passenger double dater coupe	916
3 passenger business coupe	875

Bowles reported the following findings for the various automobile manufacturing companies:

General Motors—No across the board increase is required above 1942 factory levels, altho it is possible that minor adjustments may be made on a few models, principally in the higher price ranges. Retail prices will average about 2½ per cent below January, 1942, levels.

The Ford Situation

Ford—Factory prices are being raised on the average by slightly less than 6 per cent, which will result in a 2 per cent increase in retail prices. Retail prices also will reflect changes in engineering specifications, which include improved braking and cooling systems and redesigned springs and shock absorbers. These retail increases will range from $27 to $32.

Chrysler—A preliminary study indicates that average factory prices will be increased about 4 per cent over 1942, which means a 1 per cent increase at retail.

Studebaker—Factory price increases average 12 per cent. This will result in retail increases averaging 9 per cent.

Open Chicago to London Air Service Today

BY WARD WALKER

With all the preliminaries out of the way, mechanics last night were swarming over the American Airlines flagship Chicago, grooming her to perfection for her special Chicago-to London flight scheduled to start at 9:45 a. m. today.

Lucille Schroeder

The giant luxury air liner—a far cry from her workhorse twin, the C-54, which won its reputation in the battle theaters—was formally christened in the afternoon by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor. Mrs. Kelly took three lusty swings to break the bottle of American champagne, but the ship took it patiently.

Tells of Preparations

At the christening ceremony, directed by Lewis King, vice president of American Airlines, C. R. Smith, chairman of the board of the air line, told of the work and preparation for the regular weekly flights, now starting, covering the 4,000 miles to London in 21 hours and 5 minutes.

"In 1941, American Airlines first started talking with city officials about this Chicago-London flight," Smith said. "Our men worked out the techniques during the war. We've covered every possible angle. And now Flagship Chicago is ready to go!"

Kelly Heads Passengers

Mayor Kelly, who with his son, Joseph M., 19, heads the passenger list of 15 on the initial flight, said he felt it was his duty to go—first, to help emphasize Chicago's position as the transportation hub of the world; and, second, to push in London, Chicago's bid as the capital of the united nations' organizaton.

Before and after the christening ceremony, the Chicago spread her long slender wings over the loop, the factories, the warehouses, and the homes of the Chicago area on which her first flight will have such far-reaching effect. For, as emphasized by the speakers, it is but a question of time until Chicago has direct air connections with all the capitals of the world and commerce, and stimulated by rapid communication, will increase by bounds.

A Grill for Steaks

Several hundred persons watched the ceremony, in addition to those who made the courtesy flights above the city at the invitation of the air line. Luxurious reclining chairs have replaced the bucket seats, which were a pet hate of air borne troops all over the world. The plane is air conditioned, there is a galley which includes a grill for steaks, and there are curtains on the windows.

Among the passengers scheduled to make the flight are Lt. Gov. Cross; King, of the air lines; Louis E. Leverone, Chicago business man; Frederick Kraft, president of Kraft Foods company; Robert Stearns, president, University of Colorado; James McVittie, Chicago business man; six newspaper men, and a radio commentator.

Chicago Nurse Is Stewardess

The crew of seven includes Capt. Robert Hixson, First Officer John Willmott, Engineer Floyd P. Stout, Navigator Marion C. Smith, Communications Officer Thomas H. Coiro, Third Officer Samuel King, Purser William Scouler, and Stewardess Lucille Schroeder, formerly a Chicago nurse.

Flagship Chicago is scheduled to land at London at 12:50 p. m. tomorrow, London time.

GRAVE DIGGERS' STRIKE ENTERS ITS TENTH DAY

Sixteen grave diggers who have been on strike at the St. Casimir's Lithuanian Catholic cemetery, 11100 S. Pulaski rd., since Nov. 9 were expected to resume their picket line today as cemetery officials searched for means of burying the 16 persons whose funerals have been held up and whose coffins are stored in the receiving vault. The grave diggers, members of the Cemetery Workers and Greens Attendants union [AFL], have prepared no graves since they went on strike. On Saturday the picket line attempted to halt the funerals of five persons, but in one case three former service men drove the hearse across the line and in the others the pallbearers carried the caskets to the receiving vault. The union is asking recognition and increased wages.

TOLL WORKERS SET TO LEAVE JOBS AT 6 A. M.

Assign Pickets to Main Offices

BY CHARLES BALLENGER

Approximately 8,700 Illinois telephone operators, including all Chicago toll operators handling suburban and long distance calls, will go on strike at 6 a. m. this morning. All other telephone service is expected to be disrupted during the day as local and commercial operators refuse to pass picket lines.

The strike, announced by Edwin R. Hackett, attorney for the Illinois Telephone Traffic union, will tie up service in 115 communities thruout the state and in Lake and Porter counties, Indiana. Emergency service established by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, the only telephone exchanges affected, will attempt to take care of vital calls dealing with public health or safety.

Form Picket Lines at 6 a. m.

At 6 o'clock, Hackett said, picket lines will be established around all main offices, starting in Chicago with the main company exchange at 212 W. Washington st. Every four hours thereafter, he said, the lines will be extended until they cover all telephone exchanges in each city or community.

The National Federation of Telephone Operators, representing nationally nearly all other telephone unions, has promised to respect the picket lines, Hackett declared, and will order their members not to pass them. The national federation represents the Chicago Telephone Traffic union and the Federation of Long Lines Operators, members of which operate local and commercial services.

Plan Emergency Service

Hackett estimated that by midnight tonight at least 50 per cent of the telephone service in the city will be paralyzed unless terms are met.

Emergency service will be established as soon as operators leave their switchboards, telephone company officials said.

Calls from dial telephone to dial telephone will not be affected by the strike, they said, but calls on manual exchanges or from dial telephone to a manual exchange will have to be handled by emergency operators drawn from the company's force of switchboard supervisors or other officials.

As soon as the strike spreads to local operators the company plans to place into operation a recording device which will inform the telephoner that labor difficulties have halted service and unless the call is imperative to hang up.

Recorded Voice Tells Trouble

The following is the message which will be transmitted:

"Because of labor difficulties we are able to render only emergency service. If your call is an emergency please signal operator."

All telephones from hospitals, doctors' offices, or other health services will be marked. Police and fire department lines will be given a special operator.

The following are the dial exchanges which may be called even tho the strike spreads to all exchanges:

AMBassador, ANDover, ATLantic, BAYport, BITtersweet, BOUlevard, BRIargate, BUCkingham, CALumet, CANal, CENtral, CHEsapeake, DEArborn, DELaware, DIVersey, DRExel, FRAnklin, HARrison, HAYmarket, HOLlycourt, KENwood, LAFayette, LAKeview, LINcoln,

ORATORY, BANDS OPEN LEGION'S FOUR DAY MEET

Adm. King First of Many Noted Speakers

of World War II., Adm. King held that one reason that the question of command unification has become so controversial is that it has not received the searching study required.

"I submit," he said, "that the best approach—and the only one—that will bring the desired result is a complete, thoro and unbiased study of the entire question of unification and related national security by a specially appointed board of civilian and military leaders.

"We would not build a building without a blueprint. Nor would we expect to achieve a satisfactory compromise between architects by combining two conflicting plans. Yet congress and the public are being asked to decide on our future military establishment on such a basis. Our future national security is so vital that we must not gamble with it. Yet, without a thoro comprehensive study, that is what hasty action, or even a compromise among conflicting points of view, would amount to."

Army Used Navy Bombs

He said that the incidents where coöperation was absent have been given more prominence than cases where coöperation has resulted in outstanding achievement. He recalled an incident during the war when the navy developed a powerful pressure mine. Army planes, the speaker said, delivered the navy bombs with the result that the Japanese lost 300 ships, many of them loaded with vitally needed cargoes.

As another incident of coöperation he cited the joint army-navy board in operation for 40 years. The speaker pointed out that rivalry between army and navy in trying to outdo each other in developing weapons had reacted to the national good.

Tells of Nazi Mistake

This same spirit of rivalry, Adm. King said, was carried into aviation while in contrast, the English air force, which is a unified separate entity for all branches, used a high percentage of American planes on its carriers. When the Germans froze the designs on some of their plane types, he pointed out, they found they had made a costly mistake.

"In speaking of rivalry between the services, however, I do not intend to give the impression that a greater measure of coöperation is not desirable," the admiral continued.

"I am equally convinced that the only efficient way to fight a war is with a unification of field command when forces of more than one service are involved. A field operation is always predominantly a land or a sea operation. It is therefore possible to select a commander—an admiral or a general—who knows what he is doing. However, the over-all command in Washington, involving as it does the strategic planning of both land and sea operations, is best implemented by a group of army and navy leaders, working together in an organization such as the joint chiefs of staff."

Mystery of Hammering Noise

One inexplicable incident rose to puzzle delegates and visitors during a speech by Rear Adm. Thomas, chief of naval chaplains. There suddenly rose a great pounding as tho some one had decided to erect a house in the Coliseum. Eventually it stopped, the hammerer went away to do something else, and was never identified.

It was 1:31 p. m. when National Comdr. Edward N. Scheiberling rapped the gavel to send milling delegates to a sparsely filled floor. Scattered among the World War I. delegates, graying and thickening in the middle, were a few streamlined lads newly back from the recently ended conflict.

Before Scheiberling went to work with the gavel, he posed beneath the eye extinguishing lights while photographers burned enough flash bulbs to heat a home. The usual preconvention activities had filled the time for the half filled galleries.

Bands blared, Man Mountain Dean, perennial and bearded convention attender arrived, and a man from Wisconsin said that there was a beautiful WAC in the Wisconsin delegation. After the invocation by the Rev. Dewitt C. Mallory of Florida, national chaplain, Miss Lorraine Rich, official convention soloist, sang the National Anthem.

At this point the Legionnaires got themselves thoroly and verbally welcomed by Gov. Green, Arthur E. Canty, Illinois commander, Philip Collins, chairman of the convention committee, and Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, national president of the Legion auxiliary. Milo J. Warner, past national commander, responded.

Speech of Gov. Green

Green told the convention:

"It has been my steadfast position from the very outbreak of the hostilities that, not only on our plans of service to the veterans but on every basic question of future American policy, we should consult the men and women who were winning the war, for they speak with a special knowledge and a special right."

He pointed out that in 1946 it is estimated that 110,000 veterans in Chicago will be seeking homes that do not exist today. The governor said the shortage is similarly acute in smaller towns and villages.

By the time Mayor Kelly stepped to the microphone to receive a plaque from the Legion, the delegates' section had filled, but rows of empty seats glared back from the gloom of the balconies.

Awarded Second Plaque

In accepting the Legion thanks, the mayor verbally hoped for a lasting peace and said he hoped the Legion will return to find Chicago the capital of the world. He had hardly digested the first set of thanks when a Chicago Legion post leader popped up and handed the mayor a second plaque.

This one thanked Kelly and his wife, Margaret, for their work in welcoming service men and women in the city. The mayor took the plaque and again voiced his thanks.

Service Men Guests of Legion

Legion Dines 45,000

Forty-five thousand service men and women forgot military duties for a while yesterday as they set about consuming 15 tons of chicken with the hungry enthusiasm of typical young Americans. They were guests in three Chicago service men centers and one officers' club canteen of the American Legion, which is holding its convention here.

Many of the uniformed guests passed the 115 foot counter in center No. 2, which occupies the old Auditorium hotel, several times, some of them stowing away three and four complete helpings of chicken, dressing, potato chips, vegetables, cake, and ice cream. Others accepted only one helping of food, saying they intended to go to a movie or for a walk and to return later in the day for another meal.

Marks of courage were in abundance in the centers. Medals brightened the chests of most uniformed diners. At least nine congressional medals of honor winners were in the throng of chicken eaters.

NIMITZ ARRIVES BY PLANE FOR LEGION SPEECH

Adm. Nimitz, naval hero of the Pacific, arrived at the United States naval air station at Glenview at 4:32 p. m. yesterday in a DC-3 navy transport plane from Washington, D. C. With a friendly smile, the admiral held off newsmen with the announcement that he would meet them at a press conference and speak at 11 a. m. today before the American Legion convention.

Gov. Green headed a group of dignitaries of the Legion, who joined ranking navy officers at the Glenview reception. In the group were Philip W. Collins, chairman of the Legion convention committee; Capt. Edward A. Hayes, U. S. N., retired, former Legion national commander; Clarence Cross, chairman of the convention finance committee, and William Devine, secretary of the Illinois liquor commission and past commander of Chicago's South Shore post of the Legion.

Adm. Nimitz was accompanied by J. L. Sullivan, navy undersecretary for air.

GUNMAN ROBS DRUGGIST OF $40

A gunman robbed him of $40 in his drug store at 8058 Racine av., late Saturday night, and then fled in an automobile driven by a confederate who waited outside, Charles Lenz, a druggist, told police.

LEGION WOMEN OBSERVE THEIR SILVER JUBILEE

Resume Full Pageantry at Convention

BY IRENE STEYSKAL

State banners and national flags appeared at an American Legion auxiliary convention last night for the first time since the war. In celebration of victory and in observance of the silver jubilee of the auxiliary, full pageantry reminiscent of pre-war meetings was resumed by the women of the Legion at their opening ceremonies in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

The formal opening followed the first session of the Legion's 27th convention, which officers and delegates of the auxiliary attended in the afternoon in the Coliseum.

Predicts Big Increase

Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert of Norwich, Conn., national president, noted the growth of the women's organization from 130,000 to its present 623,000, and predicted large increases this year with the admittance into the organization of wives, mothers, sisters, and daughters of the veterans of World War II.

Almost every unit of the auxiliary, those in the territories as well as in the states, had contributed to the national president's project this year, Mrs. Gilbert announced. Close to $98,700 was received. Mrs. Gilbert originally had asked for $10,000 for rehabilitation work. The president's project is a special program undertaken by each president for her year's administration.

Benefits are Reported

Under the project, Mrs. Gilbert reported, $10,000 was made available for research to improve prosthetic appliances for amputees; three greenhouses are under construction, one at the Madigan hospital at Fort Lewis, Wash., one at Mayo in Galesburg, Ill., and the third at Cushing in Framingham, Mass.; dual control training cars were given to naval hospitals at Mare Island, Cal., and Philadelphia, Pa., and it has been arranged to give two station wagons for the use of veterans and other patients at the leprosorium at Carville, La.

Anniversary ceremonies brought into the spotlight last night Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Cincinnati, O., who was one of the founders of the auxiliary and its first president. Mrs. Gilbert presented her with a special service pin. Mrs. Hobart, 76 years old, is the only woman who has served both as president or the Legion auxiliary and as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

W-G-N TO CARRY HIGHLIGHTS OF LEGION PARLEY

Highlights of the American Legion convention today and tomorrow at the Coliseum will be broadcast over W-G-N - Mutual and other Chicago stations. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who is to accept at the morning session the distinguished service medal awarded postumously to her husband, Brig. Gen. Roosevelt, will be interviewed by June Baker on W-G-N at 10:15 a. m. today.

Morton Downey

A Spotlight Bands program will be broadcast for the Legionnaires from 8:30 to 9 tonight over W-G-N-Mutual from the Coliseum. Morton Downey and Martha Tilton, popular radio singers, and Gene Krupa's band will be heard. Medleys of tunes from both World wars will be included. Adm. Nimitz will be heard over WCFL-ABC at 12:30 p. m. today.

Gen. Eisenhower's address before the Legion will be broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N and WBBM. Other highlights of the convention will be taken on the wire recorder and included on W-G-N newscasts today and tomorrow.

THIEVES LOOT HOME

C., and Harry P. Burum, Jr., Augusta, Ga., gardes de la porte; Phil E. Clements, Indianapolis, Ind., historian; the Rev. H. H. Block, Tacoma, Wash., aumonier; A. H. Heller, Omaha, Neb., drapeau; Charles W. Ardery, Indianapolis, correspondent, and Hugh Torbert, Highland Park, Mich., avocat.

LEGION PARADE WILL BE STAGED IN LOOP TONIGHT

Tonight's American Legion parade will start at 6:45 p. m. from the lower level of Wacker dr. It will move up the east ramp to the upper level, then west to State st., and south on State st. to 7th st., where it will disband.

George Rohde, parade marshal, said the procession will include the largest massing of colors ever seen in Chicago, more than twenty-five 40 and 8 locomotives and box cars, and more than 12 drum and bugle corps and bands.

The massed colors will be escorted by the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps. The line of march will include more than 100 state policemen and two platoons of Chicago mounted police.

FOUNDERS CLUB OF LEGION PICKS NEW PRESIDENT

John Black of New York City was named president of the American Legion Founders' club at a dinner in the Edgewater Beach hotel last night. Present were 30 members of a group who attended a caucus in Paris 27 years ago, at which the groundwork for the organization of the American Legion was laid.

At that caucus, Theodore Roosevelt was elected to organize the Legion in the United States, and he called the first American caucus of the organization May 10, 1919.

Last night's meeting adopted a resolution asking the support of Generals Marshall, Eisenhower, and MacArthur, and Adm. King, in furthering the activities of the Legion.

KURUSU CLAIMS U. S. AID SOUGHT TO BLOCK WAR

Cites Cabinet Member, and Influential Man

KARUIZAWA, Japan, Nov. 18 (AP)—Saburo Kurusu, Japan's special envoy to Washington before Pearl Harbor, said today a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet and another influential but unofficial American worked closely with Japanese diplomats in an effort to prevent the war.

Saburo Kurusu

Kurusu, in an interview, declined to reveal the names of the men. He said they were principals in conversations behind the "front negotiations" with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

Kurusu said the Japanese embassy in Washington asked Tokyo to maintain secrecy concerning the parallel conversations to avoid giving the United States state department the impression that "we were going behind its back."

He reported the backstage peace efforts closely paralleled the official negotiations and were designed for the same purpose—to prevent or postpone war.

[Japanese code messages sent to Tokyo from Japanese representatives just prior to Pearl Harbor said that "in addition to carrying out front negotiations with the President and Hull, we have worked directly thru cabinet members having close relations with the President and thru individuals equally influential." These messages were revealed Thursday at the congressional Pearl Harbor inquiry in Washington, D. C.]

Withholds Names

Kurusu said that the two Americans who worked with the Japanese in the behind-the-scenes negotiations to forestall war were "very influential" but "I don't feel free to reveal their identities without their permission."

He added it was his opinion that President Roosevelt was the principal policy-maker for the United States at that time, and he [Kurusu] enlisted the aid of the "influential" men because of the necessity of reaching the President thru various sources. However, the support of the "influential" men was "not much help," Kurusu asserted.

Kurusu also claimed that Tokyo's declaration of war arrived at the Japanese embassy in Washington before the time it was scheduled to be announced, but was so badly garbled it was impossible to decode it before the Pearl Harbor attack began.

Says Message Was Delayed

Fleet Adm. Osami Nagano, who gave the order for the blow at Pearl Harbor, said in Tokyo recently that the formal declaration of war was to have preceded the attack by one-half hour, but "for some unknown reason" the message was delayed in Tokyo.

Kurusu said he did not believe the message was intentionally garbled, but he remarked that the militarists attempted to "shave the time to a minimum between the declaration of war and the attack."

Details of the war declaration timing, the departure of the Japanese fleet on the Pearl Harbor mission and the attack itself were unknown to him until he returned to Japan, the diplomat said.

"The militarists decided those things," Kurusu explained.

Plans "A" and "B"

Commenting on other portions of the decoded Japanese messages submitted to the congressional Pearl Harbor committee, Kurusu said:

Plan "A" called for attempts at complete settlement of American-Japanese problems. Plan "B," which had been rejected in the United States memorandum to Japan on Nov. 26, had been an offer to withdraw Japanese troops from southern Indo-China. It was submitted merely to keep the door open for future negotiations.

Kurusu said he was convinced that both President Roosevelt and Hull sincerely attempted to prevent, or at least postpone, war with Japan, knowing that the United States was militarily unprepared for such a struggle.

"I am sorry to read reports that Hull is being criticized as negligent," Kurusu said. "He certainly wasn't."

When asked his opinion of the reason the Americans presented the Nov. 26 memorandum—which Tokyo officials called an ultimatum—Kurusu replied:

"Well, perhaps you had to satisfy public opinion in your own country, too. I gathered the impression that Hull didn't like it very much."

War Sentiment Waxes

Kurusu said the Japanese foreign office appointed him a special envoy to Washington and that he met Premier Tojo only briefly before leaving Japan, where "a great tidal wave of war sentiment was growing."

He said his major gamble was that the mission would attempt to find some formula whereby Japanese troops could be withdrawn from China with "the militarists saving face."

His second gamble, he said, was that the resurgent strength of the Russians might "be a deterrent to hot headed Tokyo younger officers, if the Pacific war could be postponed."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 19—Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech

EDWARD EVERETT, eminent scholar, orator, and public servant, finished a fervent and masterly two hour address. The 15,000 or more persons gathered on the battlefield of Gettysburg for the dedication of a national cemetery applauded him enthusiastically. Then an ode was sung and the President of the United States was introduced.

Abraham Lincoln arose, holding in one hand two sheets of paper. As soon as the welcoming applause subsided he began to speak in a clear, high voice.

His text was substantially as follows:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place of those who here gave their lives that this nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here thus far so nobly advanced.

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

The unpretentious speech later was attacked in some newspapers as "silly" and in "exceeding bad taste." THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, however, predicted that it would "live long among the annals of man."

The date of the dedication was Nov. 19, 1863.

PROBERS PLACE PEARL HARBOR BLAME AT 'TOP'

White House Is Accused in Army Report

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18—Blame for the Pearl Harbor disaster is placed squarely on the shoulders of the high command in Washington in the suppressed portion of the report of the army Pearl Harbor board.

This was learned tonight by THE TRIBUNE as the joint congressional committee investigating the military and naval debacle prepared to resume its inquiry tomorrow morning.

The suppressed pages of the army report level the finger of guilt at the White House, state department, war department, and navy department for failure to advise Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel, commanders at Hawaii, of the gravity of the Japanese situation and failure to issue directives instructing them to prepare for war.

Suppressed as "Secret"

The sensational pages of the army report were not released at the time President Truman made the bulk of the report public on Aug. 29. They were suppressed on grounds of military security as a "top secret."

Now that the top secret of Pearl Harbor—United States knowledge of Japanese war plans—has been published with the release of decoded Japanese messages, it is expected the suppression will shortly be lifted.

The suppressed pages state "higher ups" in Washington neglected to pass on the vital information contained in the decoded messages to Short and Kimmel.

White House Cited

The White House is brought in for a share of the blame, altho President Roosevelt is not mentioned by name, in a statement that all the vital intercepted messages were sent to the White House by the navy.

The suppressed pages were the consensus of the three members of the army board, Lt. Gen George Grunert, Maj. Gen. Walter H. Frank, and Maj. Gen. Henry D. Russell.

"Washington was in possession of the essential facts as to the enemy's intentions," the generals said in the long suppressed pages. "This information showed clearly what was inevitable and late in November absolutely imminent."

Little Sent to Hawaii

The generals said only a small portion of the essential information was sent to Hawaii by either the army or navy and that no directions were given the Hawaiian commanders on the basis of the information altho this could have been done safely.

"The department had the information," it was said. "All they had to do was either to give it to Short or give him directives based upon it."

It was emphasized that all the information was supplied the "higher ups" in Washington. It was said that army and navy intelligence divisions were forbidden to send this type of information to Hawaii.

In this connection the generals noted that the army war plans division ignored intelligence recommendations, citing G-2 [army intelligence] recommendation for the occupation of the outer Aleutians ahead of the Japanese.

"The war plans division took no action upon the estimate and recommendation, with the result that we later had to fight two costly campaigns to regain Attu and Kiska," the generals noted.

It was disclosed that United States forces bombarded Kiska by air and sea for two weeks at a cost of several hundred million dollars before discovering that all Japanese troops had withdrawn from the island.

Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then chief of the war plans division, was signaled out for criticism in the report as released by President Truman, altho the full reason for censure was not apparent because of the suppression.

The three generals discussed at length the disappearance of the now celebrated "east wind, rain" message which gave the signal for the Jap attack, noting that the original message and all copies have disappeared and that radio station logs showing receipt of the message have been destroyed.

Critical of Marshall

The contents of the message survived only because the message was submitted to the commission headed by former Supreme Court Justice Roberts, which commission first investigated the disaster. It was incorporated in the commission's record.

The suppressed pages are critical of Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Adm. Stark, then chief of naval operations, both of whom came in for censure in the body of the report as released by the White House.

The three generals said Marshall "knew everything that the Japanese had been proposing between themselves for a long period of time and knew their intentions with respect to war" and he, therefore, could have sent instructions "in the clearest sort of language and direction to the Hawaiian department."

Richardson Due Today

The generals mentioned that Stark on Nov. 27 said he was sending no further messages to Kimmel but asked Gen. Marshall to "inform the navy at Hawaii thru Short."

At the resumption of the hearing tomorrow, it is expected the investigators will end the survey of the situation and the attack which has been under way three days and bring the first major witness, Adm. Richardson, former commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, to the stand.

The admiral disagreed with President Roosevelt on Pacific naval policy, protesting against basing the fleet at Pearl Harbor and against sending large segments of the fleet to the Atlantic for convoy duty. He was forced out for this opposition and replaced by Adm. Kimmel.

It is expected that under questioning that the admiral will resolve a question which has long been discussed in Washington—who ordered the fleet based at Pearl Harbor. Observers believe he will supply the answer of—President Roosevelt.

Yank and Japanese Girl Found Clubbed to Death

OSAKA, Japan, Nov. 18 (AP)—The bodies of an American soldier and a Japanese girl, evidently beaten to death with a club, have been found near a stream here, United States 6th army officials reported today. A public relations officer described the deaths as double murder, altho investigation has not been completed. He did not name the soldier.

BODY FOUND IN VACANT LOT

The body of a man about 40 years old, clad in blue overalls and a blue shirt, who had been dead about six months, was found yesterday in a vacant lot at Ernest st. and Pacific av., in Franklin Park.

Suburban Dial Offices

Suburban offices with dial service are: Tinley Park, Gary, Evanston, Wauconda, Lake Zurich, Zion, Winthrop Harbor, Grayslake, Round Lake, Lake Villa, Fox Lake, Aurora, and Joliet.

There are 1,188,000 telephones in service in the city and another 700,000 in suburban areas. About 50 per cent of these are dial phones.

Efforts of a three man mediation panel appointed by the United States conciliation service failed to induce the parties to meet at the conference table. A. H. Mellinger, president of the company, invited Mrs. Anne C. Benscoter, union local president, to meet with him and a member of the panel last night.

Mrs. Benscoter refused, however, because Mellinger, she said, refused to permit Atty. Hackett and members of the union negotiating committee to attend the conference.

Union Asks $6 Raise

The union has asked for a blanket $6 a week raise. The company has offered a $4 weekly raise, which was approved by the telephone panel of the war labor board.

Negotiations have been going on between the two groups since the union contract expired on last May 9. Last week the national war labor board held a strike vote at which union members voted 6,293 to 996 for the walkout.

Starting wages in Chicago are now $20 a week with an additional $1 weekly after the employe has been with the company for five weeks. Downstate and in Indiana the starting wages range from $16 to $19.

Of the 8,700 union members scheduled to strike, 1,800 are toll operators handling originating long distance calls in Chicago, while the remainder, 6,900, are in other Illinois and Indiana offices. They handle both local and long distance calls.

The picket lines will attempt to stop an additional 6,000 local operators and 1,400 long line switchboard operators, all of whom have accepted the $4 weekly wage increase.

Poland to Restore Cable, Radio Links with U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Warsaw radio said tonight that radio and telegraph communications between Warsaw and the United States would be restored within two weeks.

"Nice going, Barlow, but did you happen to see anything of the escaped prisoner?"

UNION OFFERS COMPROMISE IN WARDS DISPUTE

The United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes of America [CIO] announced last night in New York that it is willing to withdraw its demands upon Montgomery Ward & Co. for a union shop and checkoff of dues, provided the company will agree to arbitration of other points of difference.

The offer was reported to be contained in a letter written Sewell S. Avery, Ward's board chairman, by Samuel Wolchok, president of the union. Company officials last night declined to comment on the offer until after examining the letter. In the past the company has held to the position that it would not discuss with the union the union shop or dues checkoff issue, but would negotiate on other differences.

The union described its effort as a "final" one to avoid a strike. Irving Abramson, the union's national director of organization, announced a press conference for Wednesday morning in New York to disclose the union's plans, which he said, "will depend, of course, on the acceptance or rejection of our offer."

Chinese Traffic to Shift to Right Side, They Hope

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 18 (AP)—Chinese traffic is scheduled officially to switch from the left to the right side of the road on Jan. 1. The new law was to have taken effect more than a month ago, but at the last minute it was decided that more time was needed to get used to the idea. Some chauffeurs, however, already had heard the word. Coupled with the customary system of driving on whatever part of the road looks smoother—usually the middle — an automobile ride even now has certain nightmare qualities.

50,000 BURMESE HEAR DEMAND TO SET THEM FREE

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 18 [Reuters]—Maj. Gen. Aung San, president of the Burmese "Peoples' Freedom league," and former commander of the Burmese patriotic forces, called for a non-British Burma and an amnesty for political prisoners at a meeting attended by 50,000 here today.

"We want a national provisional government," Aung San said. "We are not satisfied with the governors' executive council, which falls far short of our national aspirations, but we are prepared to coöperate with the governor if he forms a council comprising national leaders, who truly represent the people.

"We will not resort to physical force, but our peacefulness must not be misconstrued as cowardice."

ARMY REPORTS PROBLEM OVER ARTIFICIAL LEGS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP)—The army's output of artificial limbs is threatened by the demobilization program.

A report by a civilian consultants' committee on army amputation service, released today by the war department, said that the work of the military shops making artificial legs and arms "is now seriously threatened by the imminent discharge of many of the enlisted personnel either because of age or points."

Some of the men may be retained on a civil service basis, the committee said.

REPORT REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN NORTHERN IRAN

Hear Separatists Rebel; Ask Reds to Explain

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 18 (AP)—An Iran government spokesman said tonight seven persons were killed in two days of fighting in the northern Iran province of Azerbaijan. The spokesman said members of the Separatist Democrat party, armed with rifles and machine guns, already had captured the railway town of Mianeh and were marching toward Tehran, 250 miles to the southeast.

The occupation of Mianeh, the spokesman continued, was reported in a cable to Tehran Friday by the governor of Zenjan in Khamseh province, 75 miles south of Mianeh on the Tehran railroad. The governor said telephone communications were cut between Mianeh and Tabriz, about 110 miles northwest of Mianeh.

Use Guns Given Reds

The spokesman said advances of the insurgents had isolated three towns where there were Iran garrisons. He said insurgents were dressed in civilian clothes and were advancing toward Zenjan and Kazvin.

It was understood that the weapons wielded by insurgents were considered part of 100,000 Iranian rifles and machine guns handed over to the Russians when Red troops entered Iran in 1941.

The outbreak occurred in the area in which Iranians say their gendarmes have been barred by Russian forces.

The council of ministers met in an extraordinary session and instructed War Minister Gen. Riazi and Chief of Staff Gen. Ibraham Arfa to ask the soviet military attache for an explanation. The Russian charge d'affaires is ill.

[The Azerbaijanians, who speak a Turkish dialect, are at present divided between the soviet republic of Azerbaijan, in which about three million of them live, and the northwestern Iranian province of the same name, where there are about one million. It was reported last July that a "committee for the liberation of Azerbaijan" had been set up in northern Iran and was demanding union with the soviet republic.]

See Soviet Challenge

LONDON, Nov. 18 [Reuters]—News of the Separatist outbreak in Iran has caused serious concern here tonight. The outbreak is seen as something far bigger than a purely internal Iranian affair—possibly a challenge by the Soviet government to Turkey and also Britain to put their cards on the table.

Cause for this soviet action, it is believed, is the recent reaffirmation by Turkey, Iraq, and Iran of their non-aggression pact. It is thought soviet authorities might be making it clear they will tolerate no attempt to form a "little eastern bloc."

Substitution of a pro-soviet government in Tehran would isolate Turkey strategically and diplomatically in the middle east. It also would compel the British and American governments to come into the open about their middle eastern policy—whether they would recognize the Iran government, whether they would cancel the agreement for withdrawal of troops by the end of February, and to what extent they would be prepared to support the Turkish government.

Ezra Pound (left) in custody of a United States deputy marshal last night in Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP)—Ezra Pound, 65 year old Idaho born poet charged with treason by broadcasting axis propaganda, was flown here tonight by the army from Rome and handed over to the department of justice. At the District of Columbia jail, Pound commented:

"There is an idea afloat here that I have betrayed this country. If that damn fool idea is still in anybody's head I want to wipe it out."

Pound said he understood the department of justice had about 450 of his broadcast manuscripts "but I haven't any earthly idea what they will find in them."

Pound was indicted in July, 1943, with seven other Americans as having made broadcasts from Rome designed to undermine support of the war in this country. He was seized in Italy last May.

NEW PROBE HITS AUSTRALIAN WHO FLED SINGAPORE

LONDON, Nov. 18 [Reuters]—J. B. Chifley, premier of Australia, announced today that Justice Ligertwood of New South Wales will open a new inquiry into the departure of Lt. Gen. Gordon Bennett, former commander of the Australian 8th division, from Singapore in February, 1942, Melbourne radio said.

Chifley said Ligertwood and two assistants will inquire whether it was Bennett's duty to remain with the forces under his command, or whether he was justified in relinquishing his command and leaving Singapore.

REPORT ALLIES WILL GIVE 20 SHIPS TO IRAN

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 18 (AP)—Reports circulated in Tehran today that the allies had agreed to transfer 20 ships from the Japanese and Italian fleets to build up the Iran navy. These reports followed an announcement by the Iran government that it had decided to reinforce its naval forces and patrol the nation's northern and southern shores, in an attempt to halt an increase in the illegal export of food.

In London a British admiralty spokesman said he had no confirmation of the Tehran report.

BRITISH TROOPS GAIN 1,000 YARDS IN JAVA FIGHTING

Soerabaja Battle Goes Into Eighth Day

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 18 (AP) — British forces, opposed by Indonesian tanks and mortar fire, advanced approximately 1,000 yards in one sector of Soerabaja today as the eight day battle for the Dutch naval base continued.

Premier Sutan Sjahrir of the Indonesian republic, pledged to the task of restoring peace in Java, rushed a three man committee to Soerabaja to investigate the fighting in the hope that a solution could be found.

His action came after a meeting of Indonesian, British, and Dutch leaders last night failed to find a formula for settling the dispute growing out of Indonesian demands for independence.

Disorders flared in at least two other areas, leaving two British officers dead, a British officer and a Dutch woman wounded and 13 Dutch Amboinese troops wounded.

"Spokesman for Dutch"

The British view, after the failure of last night's conference, was that there is no power in Java today capable of exercising sufficient control over the country to restore order. They expressed disappointment that Sjahrir came to the meeting unprepared to make any commitments and seemed loath even to enter discussions.

Sjahrir, on the other hand, said M. E. Denning, British foreign office adviser to the Southeast Asia command, became "the spokesman for the Dutch in attempting to high pressure us into accepting Dutch proposals."

"Denning questioned us like a policeman questioning small boys," he said. "I told him I had my own opinions, but would not express them. All his questions will be submitted to the full cabinet and in due time Mr. Denning will receive our answer."

The conferees agreed to hold another meeting within five days, after Sjahrir had an opportunity to discuss the situation with his newly formed cabinet.

By that time Sjahrir will have had a report from the committee he sent to investigate the Soerabaja fighting. He gave the committee three days to complete its inquiry.

Chinese Ask Protection

Sjahrir, who has been critical of the previous native government's handling of the Soerabaja situation and of placing the entire blame on the British, said, "there is much to be investigated as to our part in this affair."

The Chinese chamber of commerce in Soerabaja appealed to the Chungking government to take urgent steps to protect the 60,000 Chinese residents of the naval base from British shells and the Indonesian scorched earth policy.

Chinese casualties have been heavy and the fighting appears unlikely to end soon, the organization's chairman, Mei Chiao Liong, said.

His appeal came as British Indian troops were clearing Indonesian extremists from a congested area between the Semampir canal and the Sidotopo rail lines largely inhabited by Chinese. It was estimated by Chinese informants that 100 Chinese had been killed and 500 wounded in this area.

DEMANDS AUSSIE ACTION TO HELP DUTCH IN JAVA

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 18 [Reuters]—Robert Gordon Menzies, leader of the opposition, today demanded a statement from the Australian government on its Java policy, and charged it with not giving any aid to "our Dutch allies."

"The government is taking no action to rescue the Dutch, including women and children in the area," he said. "Many of us are heartily sick of that constantly aggressive, crude and ill-balanced foreign policy which certainly does not represent real Australian opinion. The government freely allows the Communists and other windbags on the Australian waterfront to hinder and frustrate our Dutch allies, while giving brotherly assistance to a revolutionary Indonesian body reasonably suspected of Japanese influence or control," Menzies said.

REDS CONCEDE CHIANG'S HOLD ON MANCHURIA

Admit Retreat from Border Town

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 18 (AP) —Chinese Communists conceded today that the Nationalists had seized a foothold on the border of Manchuria, but the Reds were reported tightening their own grasp on the heart of the state in the wake of Russian withdrawals.

Arrow indicates Nationalist drive

Chinese Nationalists announced Friday night that they had occupied the strategic border city of Shanhaikwan, north of the great wall, in an almost bloodless coup.

The Communists confirmed today that they had abandoned the city, asserting that it was only after "severe fighting," and said they also had been forced out of two nearby townships.

60,000 in Force

The Communist announcement said 60,000 to 70,000 American equipped Nationalist troops brought in by sea had attacked their positions in overwhelming strength, forcing the evacuation.

Gen. Tu Lin-ming, commander of Nationalist forces for Manchuria, said he had asked the Communists to withdraw 50 kilometers [about 31 miles] from the Tientsin-Mukden railroad and had made his sudden thrust when they failed to comply. He said the stroke would obviate the necessity of any amphibious operations along the Manchurian coast.

Despite this acknowledged communist setback, the return to Chungking of Chiang Ching-kuo, son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, signified the sharpening nature of the Manchurian crisis.

Young Chiang had gone to Changchun, Manchurian capital, as special commissioner for foreign affairs, but he and other officials fled to avoid the danger of being caught by any sudden withdrawal of the Russian occupation forces.

Fear Separatist Move

The press here said young Chiang hrd resigned his appointment and would not return to Manchuria, while scheduled departure of various other officials for Manchuria had been postponed indefinitely.

One of the nine Manchurian provincial governors returned here with young Chiang, and nationalist quarters said the remaining eight provincial governors were expected here soon. Nationalists attributed the situation to steady seepage of Chinese communists into areas evacuated by the Russians, while the Nationalists are unable to enter in any force.

One Chungking paper said the situation was "critical," while some observers predicted that unless the Nationalists managed to establish themselves in Manchuria soon, a separatist movement might develop in that territory. Despite Chungking pessimism, the Central News agency reported that the Nationalists and communists had resumed their peace talks in friendly fashion.

LASKI ASSAILS BRITISH ROLE IN JAVA BETRAYAL

BY JAMES SLOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 18—Britain's intervention in the Indonesian revolution was attacked by several quarters over the week-end.

Use of British troops ostensibly to restore law and order in French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies was condemned as a tragedy by Prof. Harold Laski, Labor party chairman. Writing in the Sunday paper, Reynolds News, Laski said British forces are establishing a "bridgehead whereby the French and Dutch can return to the relentless exploitation of many millions of people, most of whom have shown by the depth of their resistance their hatred of regimes we are, however unwilling, protecting."

Branding the sole Dutch preoccupation in Indonesia as one of profit, Laski said British actions are making the Indonesians "return to a virtual peonage in which they merely exchange a ruthless oriental master for a ruthless European."

Sincerity Questioned

"It makes the British claim to have been engaged in a war for democracy and freedom seem hollow mockery all over southeast Asia," he charged. "We have earned enough ill will in Rhodesia, Kenya, and the rest of our imperial slums without adding to it by making possible the maintenance of slums of other empires."

Use of Indian troops in Indonesia, Laski said, is making it hard to convince India that Britain's new Labor government is sincere about promises of self government for it because it is using "troops of a nation aspiring to freedom to crush two groups of people with the same aspiration."

Britain cannot "suppress freedom abroad without grave risk of becoming habituated to its suppression at home," Laski declared.

American's Attacked

A charge that American big business is playing a sort of vulture role over the Indonesian crisis was made by The Week, a communist pamphlet.

Citing "very substantial economic interests of the United States in the produce of the Dutch East Indies," such as tin, rubber, quinine, and a very large reciprocal export of American consumer goods and machinery to the Dutch East Indies. The Week said it is unlikely that the United States will not take advantage of the opportunity to "break British and Dutch monopolies in these products, which were a thorn in the side of American economy before the war."

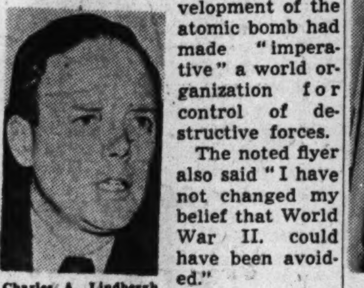
WORLD CONTROL OF ATOM URGED BY LINDBERGH

Organization Imperative, Says Flyer

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh asserted today that development of the atomic bomb had made "imperative" a world organization for control of destructive forces.



Charles A. Lindbergh

The noted flyer also said "I have not changed my belief that World War II. could have been avoided."

Lindbergh made the comments in a statement concerning what he described as "an inaccurate account" of remarks he made at a private meeting of midwestern congressmen in Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.

Text of Statement

The text of his statement follows:

"An inaccurate account has been printed describing my remarks at a private meeting in Washington. [He was not referring to the Associated Press.] These times are too critical and too dangerous to justify unnecessary division of opinion among Americans on vital international policies. I have not changed my belief that World War II. could have been avoided, but the issue between so-called interventionists and isolationists is past, except from an academic standpoint. We fought the war together and we face the future together as Americans—a future that is more fraught with danger than the war itself.

"Fear and Chaos"

"In an era which has developed the atomic bomb, and which will develop trans-oceanic rockets capable of carrying atomic bombs, the necessity for world organization for the control of destructive forces is imperative. The only alternative is constant fear and eventual chaos. I believe that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, have, in principle, taken a wise and courageous stand—a stand based on the preservation of our civilization, offering justice to all nations and asking only justice in return.

"So long as I believe that the policy of the administration is to the best interest of my country, I shall give it my utmost support."

Two Congressmen Quoted

The Associated Press story from Washington on Nov. 14 quoted two congressmen as saying Lindbergh had been invited to the meeting to express his views on atomic energy and other scientific matters. They said the flyer asked that his remarks not be given out for publication.

Lindbergh, today, did not elaborate on his reference to the "inaccurate" reports, other than to say he did not mean the Associated Press.

The famous flyer telephoned his statement to the Associated Press. It was one of the few he has made on public issues since before the war.

REACH LONDON TO BRING WORLD CAPITAL HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 18—Chicago's four man delegation arrived in London last night on their mission to make their city the permanent headquarters of the united nations organization. They will present their case to the delegates of the preparatory commission of the united nations, which convenes here Friday.

The four Chicagoans are Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, William L. McFetridge, labor leader, Leverett Samuel Lyon, executive director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Curtis MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern university. They enjoyed a smooth flight over the North Atlantic.

The four men are armed with considerable data on Chicago's advantages. Tomorrow they will deliver copies of an elaborate presentation of their story to the representatives of all 51 nations which signed the united nations charter at San Francisco. They also expect to see American Ambassador Winant and Gladwyn Jebb, executive secretary of the united nations executive committee.

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—Canadian Ambassador Dana Wilgress left Moscow for London by air today on a mission reported to be connected with Anglo-American-Russian questions, including the atomic bomb. Wilgress planned to visit London for about 30 days.

PALESTINE JEWS TO KEEP ARMS, SAYS BROADCAST

JERUSALEM, Nov. 18 [Reuters]—Palestine Jews will not give up their arms, a broadcast by the secret Jewish radio declared today. "Each Jew will prefer to suffer the death penalty rather than leave his people without defense," the speaker asserted. Jews in Tripoli were slaughtered despite British military protection, he pointed out.

Palestine generally was peaceful today. At Mount Scopus, Hebrew university, British paratroopers who formerly were students, attended an international students day celebration.

After visiting the scene of the Tel Aviv riots today, the acting high commissioner for Palestine, J. V. W. Shaw, told Mayor Israel Rokach and the municipal council, "acts of sabotage in the city were without justification."

HUNGER, DEATH RIDE ON GERMAN REFUGEE TRAIN

91 Corpses Among 909 Reaching Berlin

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 18—Nine hundred and nine German men, women, and children dragged themselves and their luggage from a Russian railway train at Lehrte station today, after 11 days traveling in boxcars from Poland.

Red army soldiers lifted 91 corpses from the train, while relatives shrieked and sobbed as their bodies were piled in American lend-lease trucks and driven off for interment in a pit near a concentration camp.

British military government officials picked up the 909 survivors and drove them to a rehabilitation camp, to be fed, washed, and rested for a week to gain strength for the last lap in their migration.

Like Noah's Ark

A week hence this batch will be placed aboard a British train for Gifhorn, near Hannover, where they will be distributed to their former home towns—Hamburg, Bremen, the Ruhr, and other localities in the British zone.

The refugee train was like a macabre Noah's ark. Every car was jammed with Germans who were evacuated from western Germany during the air raids in 1943 and 1944 to Poland and western Russia. Now the Russians and Poles are expelling the intruders, and the British organize an "operation Jericho" to repatriate those originally domiciled in the British zone.

The families carry all their earthly belongings in sacks, bags, and tin trunks, also food for the journey, invariably insufficient. The refugees are always too famished and exhausted to continue the journey to their destination, and require an average of a week or 10 days to recuperate for the last lap.

Try to Hide Dead Babies

Nursing infants suffer the most, as the mothers are unable to feed them, and frequently go insane as they watch their offspring slowly die before their eyes. Today four screaming, violently insane mothers were bound with rope to prevent them clawing other passengers.

"Many women try to carry off their dead babies with them," a Russian railway officer said. "We search the bundles whenever we discover a weeping woman, to make sure she is not carrying an infant corpse with her."

The refugees often make fires in small stoves they carry in the boxcars, and occasionally all the occupants of a car are roasted alive. This happened last week, before the engineer discovered the blaze and stopped the train.

The British provide soup kitchens along the line, serving hot stew and tea every six hours, and they maintain an elaborate delousing and recuperation center at Gifhorn to clean the refugees of vermin and infectious disease, before distributing them to their former homes in the British zone. They handle an average of 1,000 a day.

British Deduct Union Dues from Nonanion Men

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 18—The British miners' union has won the mine owners' approval of a form of membership extortion, it was disclosed today, as 20 cents per shift is being deducted by the employers from the pay of all miners who refuse to join the union, even from the wages of boys drafted into the mines instead of the armed forces.

100,000 GREEKS IN MASS PROTEST AGAINST ALLIES

Threaten to Fight Albania for Epirus

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 18 (AP)—More than 100,000 Greeks jammed historic Constitution square today in a mass demonstration against British and United States offers of recognition of the Albanian government and shouted in unison, "We are going to fight" over northern Epirus.

Territory [black] claimed by Greeks

Greek Orthodox Bishop Panteleimon of Argirocastro, Albania, told the multitude that recognition of Albania was "ridiculous" and "if the allies do not give it [northern Epirus] to us thru justice, we shall take it by strength."

The crowd took up his words and chanted "ridiculous."

Northern Epirus is the border area now a part of Albania which Greeks claim is historically, culturally, and ethnically theirs. It has been a part of Albania since 1914, was taken by the Greeks in their fight with the Italians in the war just closed and reöccupied by the axis when the Germans overran Greece.

Charge Allied Desertion

Seven streets leading to Constitution square were packed with Greeks in what observers described as the biggest mass demonstration in modern Greek history. Leaders of professional, labor, and scientific organizations charged the allies were deserting their ally Greece.

Half a dozen crippled veterans of the Albanian-Italian campaign were lifted to the shoulders of the crowd amid shouts of "Let the allies see it."

At mention of Albanian Premier Enver Hoxhas, the demonstrators roared "Down with Hoxhas . . . death to Hoxhas."

Protest Allied Recognition

Others who joined in addressing the demonstrators were L. Plionis, president of Greek ex-service men, and Photios Macris, chief executive of the general federation of labor.

An organizing committee adopted a resolution protesting against recognition of the Albanian government before settlement of the northern Epirus question. Other resolutions adopted contended that holding of elections in northern Epirus was inadmissable under any Albanian regime and demanded occupation of the province by Greek and allied troops to protect the lives of the population until the question is settled.

ARMY CHECKS PRO-JAP ACTIVITIES OF GIRLS OF SHANGHAI YANKS

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 18 (AP)—Any army man who suspects his Shanghai girl friend of collaborationist activities during the war can drop in at headquarters now and get a full report on her past just for the asking.

The army staff arranged it, because to have Americans dating known collaborationists "just doesn't look so good, you know," an intelligence officer explained.

None of the GIs seem to want any of the reports, however.

Two Men Try to Invade Italian Cardinal's Home

ROME, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two men, one dressed as a priest, attempted to force their way into the apartment of 75 year old Cardinal Carlo Salotti yesterday but were driven off by servants. Police said the intruders struck one servant with pistol butts but fled when other domestics raised an outcry.

PISTOL STOLEN FROM AUTO

Maj. Len S. Marshall, 7650 S. Kreiter av., told police an automatic pistol and a flashlight disappeared from his car in a parking lot at Dearborn and Clark sts.

3 PARTIES FAIL TO MEND RIFT OVER DE GAULLE

Assembly Will Vote on Resignation Today

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 19 [Monday]—The bitter dispute over the composition of the interim government that will rule France for seven months while a new constitution is being drafted will come to a climax this afternoon when the constituent assembly votes to accept or reject Gen. de Gaulle's resignation as provisional president.

Felix Gouin

Meanwhile, the meeting of 15 representatives of France's three main parties broke up early this morning without having reached any decision. The representatives will meet again before the assembly votes.

The Communist party, which polled the largest popular vote and has a shade more assembly seats than any other party, already has indicated it will oppose De Gaulle.

The Socialists, after a caucus last night, reiterated their refusal to join any government unless Communists and Popular Republicans [MRP] were represented. The Socialists said they would abstain from voting today.

The Catholic MRP attitude is that they will enter no government that is not headed by De Gaulle.

Public Remains Calm

While awaiting the fateful assembly meeting the public remained impatient but calm. De Gaulleists staged a few minor demonstrations in Paris, and others were reported from scattered points in the provinces. There were no incidents.

One fact that emerged over the week-end was that by going over the heads of the elected representatives to address the nation directly on the radio Saturday night, De Gaulle apparently talked himself out of the office he wanted to keep. Altho it pleased the politically feeble right, the general's speech spilled fat on the fire by antagonizing the left and moderate parties and completely alienating the Communists.

Furious at De Gaulle's "partisan harangue," the Communists decided to vote against him. The politically astute Communists went a step farther by proposing at a meeting with delegates of the Socialist and MRP parties that Felix Gouin, president of the assembly, who is nominally a Socialist, be put up as a candidate to succeed De Gaulle.

Socialists Are Embarrassed

No proposal could have been more embarrassing for the Socialists. Having gone on record as being willing to accept leadership of the new government, they could not gracefully refuse to vote for one of their star members. On the other hand, since Gouin was proposed by the Communists rather than the Socialists, themselves, the latters' agreement would mean they were joining the Communists in a two-way government, leaving the third member of the Big 3, the MRP, out in the cold.

As the strong center party the Socialists should, theoretically, be in the most favored position but actually they are caught between two fires. They are not a closely united party like the Communists but depend for much of their strength on the fringe voters in the provinces. A move either toward the Communists on their left or the Popular Republicans on their right would be almost certain to lose them many votes in the provinces in the next elections, seven months hence.

One unexpected result of the political tangle is that a tiny group of neo-Royalists, which calls itself the Socialist-Monarchist party, gathered courage to start a membership drive.

"You can't expect a man to phone you every night. You know Mom allows me only five calls a week."

PRESS SEARCH IN MACHINE GUN DEPOT HOLDUP

Police and special agents of the Railway Express agency were searching yesterday for an express safe containing $6,700 which was taken Saturday from an electric baggage truck on a platform of the Grand Central frate station by four masked men carrying submachine guns.

O. F. Karbusicky, chief special agent for the express company, said the safe, in addition to the money and $3,000 in checks, contained memorandum records of great value to the express company, but worthless to the bandits. He expressed hope that the records would not be destroyed.

The masked bandits compelled A. H. Walters, 13 S. Central Park av., a special agent for the company, and Amleto Landi, 2346 Thomas st., driver of the baggage truck, to deliver the safe to their car, driven by a fifth man. The car was parked near the platform.

ENGINEER DIES AT WORK

William Povilaitis, 55, of 3437 Morgan st., died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, while at work in the refrigerator car shop of Armour & Co. at 816 W. 47th st., where he was employed as an engineer.

ECONOMIC CRISIS WORSE IN SPAIN; FRANCO BLAMED

Lawlessness Increases; Face Dread Winter

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 18—Spain's economic situation worsened abruptly this autumn. The whole country is facing winter with dread, and those who can are laying in supplies. The prices of jewels and gold have skyrocketed. A month ago in the black market traffic at this frontier town, the peseta was valued at 17 to 18 French francs; today the peseta brings only 9 francs [about 18 cents since a franc is quoted at about 2 cents].

Generalissimo Franco's adherents try to cover up the uneasiness by saying everything is going well. But not only the underpaid workers but also the industrialists, whose factories are faced with a shut-down because of the crisis, are voicing discontent and blaming the situation on the Franco regime.

Lawlessness and armed attacks on the streets and roads are increasing everywhere during the last few weeks, according to reports reaching here, with begging, prostitution, and thievery augmenting.

40 Attacks in Day

The armed attacks, called "atracos," amounted to 40 in one day last month in Barcelona. Persons coming across the frontier tell of street cars being held up in towns and passengers robbed. The police have difficulty in getting any information about those who stage these holdups.

In the Spanish towns and cities the shops and stores seem to be full of goods and produce, but at preposterously high prices. Travelers say there is the curious paradox of stores and markets plentifully stocked and at the same time two-thirds of the population going hungry. The falangist [fascist] censorship tries to suppress information about this situation reaching outside Spain.

It is estimated that since 1936, when the civil war broke out, the cost of living has increased about four to five times, while wages have increased only 30 to 50 per cent.

Food Crisis Is Grave

The food problem is described as grave. Essential food items can be bought only by the privileged. Only rationed products are obtainable by the poor, such as bread, oil, sugar, and dried vegetables.

Rations are small—150 grams [100 grams equals 3.53 ounces] daily of bitter, indigestible bread made out of chestnuts, and half a liter [1 liter equals about 1 quart] of oil and half a pound of unrefined sugar twice monthly. From time to time consumers get two or three pounds of potatoes, and half a pound of rice and dry bread.

Food gets onto the free or black market, but at a fearful price. Meat, which cost 2½ pesetas in 1936, now costs 15 pesetas per pound. A bottle of wine, which cost 60 centavos in 1936, now costs 3 pesetas, and the price of fish is five to six times more.

Above this small ration quota, basic foods such as bread, rice, and potatoes, are found on the black market, with bread at 6 pesetas a pound compared with half a peseta in 1936, oil at 12 pesetas a quart instead of 2 pesetas, rice at 10 pesetas compared to 1 peseta, and sugar at 25 pesetas instead of 1 peseta.

The Franco partisans declare the situation has become worse recently because the allies decided at Potsdam to put economic pressure on Franco Spain. On the other hand, French observers say the British are buying large quantities of sardines in Spain, and are sending the Spanish big consignments of cotton and gasoline from Haifa, and that the United States also is sending cotton to Franco Spain.

This is cited by those who say the western allies are allowing Franco to hold on until it is determined what the Russian position in the new European set-up is to be.

Reveal 2,500,000 Indians Joined British Forces

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 18—India contributed 2½ million men to the forces Britain raised in the war, it was disclosed today by F. W. Pethick Lawrence, secretary for India. Quoting Viceroy Wavell as saying it is uncertain if the battles of North Africa could have been won without the help of the Indian soldiers, he added, "in Burma Indian troops formed the great majority of the forces," and expressed the hope that India soon will get the self-government to which it is entitled.

POPE THANKFUL HORRORS OF WAR SPARED SPAIN

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 18 (AP)—Pope Pius XII., in a radio address today to a celebration in Madrid of the first centenary of the apostolate of prayer, said that Spaniards should be grateful for being spared the horrors of World War II.

"In some dark hours of history, God lifts His almighty hand and lets the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse ride thru and crush everything under the bronze hoofs," the pope said. "Thus God punished those who have transgressed."

The pope praised Spanish "religious zeal" and Spain's contribution of saints to the Catholic church.

British Men Want Women to Have Own Train Space

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 18—British men think British women ought to travel by themselves on the railways. The London and Northeastern railway, announcing the result of a poll among 17,000 passengers, on future railway car designs, said the men showed a two to one preference over women for "ladies only" compartments.

EXPECT COUNCIL TO VOTE MILLION FOR HOUSING

The city council will meet today to act on Chicago's housing crisis, which will be reported by a committee as growing more desperate day by day. Before the aldermen will be a proposal to appropriate a million dollars as a starter to provide portable houses and trailers and resolutions to seek aid from every possible source for further emergency shelter.

Use of city money, which will be taken from unused funds, was asked by Mayor Kelly, and the aldermen are expected to approve it without question. It will be loaned to the Chicago housing authority to meet the cost of setting up pre-fabricated houses and trailers obtained from war plants and to convert suitable factory buildings into living units.

Ald. Moss [5th], chairman of the committee on emergency housing, said yesterday that Chicago is sure of getting the 2,000 portable houses for which the mayor asked when in Washington, D. C., 10 days ago. A report that other cities had been allotted all these houses was misleading, Moss said.

FORRESTAL AID AT TSINGTAO TO VIEW CONDITIONS

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TSINGTAO, China, Nov. 18—Undersecretary of Navy Artemus L. Gates flew into this North China trouble spot today, but if he had in his brief case an answer to why United States marines are in North China and how long they are to be kept here he didn't divulge it.

Instead Gates said he was here to make a survey of the China situation and report to Secretary Forrestal. He said the views he takes back undoubtedly will influence the position Forrestal will take in deciding what the future role of the marines and navy in China is to be, but added that the decision will also be influenced by the views of the state and war departments.

Gates, accompanied by Edwin W. Pauley, United States reparations commissioner, landed at an air port five miles from Tsingtao, which a few nights ago was under Chinese communist artillery fire. At Shanghai, he and Pauley conferred yesterday with Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, United States commander in the Chinese theater.

Make Yourself A $2,000,000 HIGHBALL

Know how to make a correct highball? Lots of people don't, so we're giving you the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so good!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND
THEN DO THIS!

1 Place the ice cubes in an empty 6 or 8-oz. glass. Connoisseurs say the ice must go in first!

2 Then, add 1½ ounces of delicious Fleischmann's Bond. A good highball needs Fleischmann's smooth creaminess!

3 Fill with club soda or ginger ale. For a perfectly mixed drink, place ingredients in glass in the order given!

260 COMBATANT SHIPS STILL ON DUTY IN PACIFIC

765,000 Men Manning Units of Fleet

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18—(AP)—Twelfth naval district headquarters said today about 260 combatant ships still are on active duty in the Pacific, as compared with 800 when the Pacific war ended. Approximately 765,000 officers and men are manning the fleet units, as compared with 1,015,000 two months ago.

Outlining the Pacific fleet's current tasks, the navy said in a press statement, the primary job of the fleet "is to assist in the execution of United States government policy with special emphasis on the important task of transportation and supply of United States forces assigned to occupation duty in Japan and its former possessions." A second primary job is moving high point service men from ships and bases to staging areas where they board ships returning home.

Some 600 ships with 37,500 officers and men, aided by 100 Japanese ships, are "engaged in the largest minesweeping operation in history," the navy said. The area to be swept extends from the Gilbert Islands to the East China sea and Japanese home waters. It is believed, the navy said, at least 115,00 mines are in the Japanese-Chinese area alone.

Pressing Problems

The statement said the fleet's "pressing problems" include movement of Chinese troops into newly-liberated areas; occupation of Japan with American military forces; provisioning and redeployment of United States forces thru the orient and strategic areas and disposal of United States government property abroad and the windup of military and naval bases and installations.

The Pacific fleet service forces are handling the redistribution, preservation, and disposal of millions of dollars worth of material and equipment, the navy stated.

A state department agency, the army-navy liquidation commission, is supervising disposition of three types of material:

1. That which is surplus to the needs of a base or area, but which can be returned to the United States for sale.

Sales on "As-Is" Basis

2. That which is surplus but cannot profitably be returned for sale. This material will be redistributed to service installations where it best can be utilized.

3. That which is surplus but which is needed neither by other armed services nor in the states. This material will be sold to foreign governments, or abandoned according to rulings of the commission.

"As far as is practicable," the navy said, "all sales to foreign governments are being made on an 'as-is' basis, with the buyer supplying the shipping."

Over 2,200 amphibious craft are listed as on active duty, together with more than 700 auxiliaries. Seven hospital ships are attached to the fleet and eight assigned to carrying home sick and wounded.

COL. L. H. WEISSMAN KILLED IN AIRPLANE OVER GERMANY NOV. 8

Lt. Col. Leonard H. Weissman, 36, formerly assistant medical superintendent of Cook county hospital, was killed in the crash of a reconverted army bomber over Germany Nov. 8, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weissman, 909 Foster av., were advised by the war department yesterday.

Col. L. H. Weissman

He had been serving as chief of hospital inspections, attached to the United States surgeon's office in London, and was returning to London from Stockholm at the time of the crash. He enlisted in the army in June, 1942.

Mr. and Mrs. Weissman immediately notified Col. Weissman's widow, Mrs. Eleanor Butts Weissman, who, with the couple's son, Leonard Arthur, 2, has been living with her parents in Cedar Rapids, Ia. They immediately left for Chicago. At the home of her husband's parents, the widow said she received a cable from her husband in Stockholm Nov. 6, which told her he planned to be home Dec. 1.

A brother of Col. Weissman, Louis Weissman, navigator on a bombing plane, was reported killed in action over Hamburg, Germany, Dec. 31, last year.

LAST OF 33D DIVISION MEN ARE RELEASED

For the first time in years, 1,100 members of Illinois' 33d division ate dinner as civilians last night. In between bites, they worried about whether the moths had got into their blue serge suit hanging in the closet at home.

The men were rushed thru the separation process at Fort Sheridan in time to be guests at a chicken dinner provided by the American Legion and a committee headed by Mayor Kelly at the service men's center at 430 S. Michigan av.

The first man thru the line on an A to Z basis, was Corp. Emil A. Adams Jr., 23, of 820 E. 47th pl., who was inducted with the national guard in 1941. The last man was Pvt. L. Zellers of Raleigh, Tenn., who took his discharge with a crisp salute at 10:30 p. m. No one explained how a Tennessean got into the Illinois national guard outfit.

About 50 per cent of the men were met by families or relatives.

KRAMER AND GRESE TO APPEAL BELSEN HANGING VERDICT

LUENEBURG, Germany, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two women and one man sentenced to hang for the tortures of Belsen and Oswiecim have accepted their fate, but eight others facing the gallows, including Commandant Joseph Kramer, Irma Grese, and Dr. Fritz Klein, will appeal, it was disclosed today.

Maj. L. S. W. Cranfield, defense counsel, said appeals will be lodged with Field Marshal Montgomery by 26 of the 30 defendants given sentences of death or imprisonment. They will contest both the convictions and the sentences.

The three resigned to die are Elizabeth Volkenrath, 26, head women's supervisor for the SS [elite guard], Juana Borman, 42, religious fanatic who gave up missionary work to join the SS, and Franz Hoeszler, SS member who aided in picking victims for the gas chamber where thousands died. Herta Ehlert, 40, SS guard, who received a 15 year sentence, also decided against making any appeal.

COLDEST SPOT ON EARTH FOUND RICH IN JEWELS

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—Soviet geographers back from four years' exploration of the coldest place on earth—the Yakutsk region in Siberia—today reported vast gold fields, precious stones and valuable mines are under the frozen soil 1,000 miles north of Manchuria.

The explorers told strange tales of the little known land where the temperature is 94 below zero in winter and 95 above in summer. The summer heat thaws the earth only on the surface.

Geographer Dimitri M. Kolosov told the Moscow press that gold fields along the Lena river, already acknowledged as among the most important in the world, are capable of great expansion. Mining of precious stones and various ores also could be developed, it was reported. The explorers said winds of colossal force can stop an automobile dead in its tracks.

CHICAGO—WORLD AIRPORT

Thanks to the initiative of American Air Lines, whose first Chicago-to-London plane takes off this morning, Chicago becomes a center of international air traffic today.

A generation brought up on Mercator's projection and Messrs. Rand and McNally's railroad maps is slowly and confusedly learning to think in the more accurate terms of a global world and great circle routes of travel. For instance, Chicagoans traveling to Europe have for more than a century gone thru New York. Mayor Kelly and his party for London will miss New York by a thousand miles or more, leaving America from a Newfoundland airport. A true great circle route would take them still farther north, across Labrador.

Therein lies the importance of Chicago as an originating point for future air traffic from the middle west. The old ocean ports of entry and exit are often far off the great circle routes of international air traffic. Now that we are in possession of Japan, air routes from Chicago to Tokyo and Manila should be established soon. Seattle and San Francisco are far off this line of travel. The direct route, as the B-29 flights demonstrated recently, is thru Edmonton and across Alaska. San Francisco, on the other hand, lies almost directly on a great circle route from Chicago to Hawaii and on to Australia. Direct flights from Chicago on such a schedule would depend upon sufficient traffic originating here to fill a plane without picking up passengers on the Pacific coast.

Chicago expects to be a center of international trade with South America. A great circle route from this city to Panama and the west coast of South America does not miss by much Miami, which expects to be the air gateway to Latin America. But the direct route from Chicago to Venezuela and Rio de Janeiro would leave the American coast line in the vicinity of Charleston and make Puerto Rico an intermediate point.

Chicago was made as a railroad center. The city's commercial and industrial progress was checked by the construction of the Panama canal, which deprived the western railroads with their terminals here of much of their transcontinental traffic. By assuming the lead in air transportation, which ignores coast lines and ocean ports, Chicago can expect to regain much of what was lost.

This city's ability to win that leadership is going to depend to a large extent on the speed and vision with which the new airport at the Douglas war plant site is developed. A recent flight to New York demonstrated the wisdom of the selection of the Douglas site, which is in the quarter of the city best protected by prevailing winds from the city's murk.

La Guardia airport in New York has one advantage, reasonable proximity to the center of the city it serves. But on an otherwise clear, sunny afternoon west winds were carrying the smoke from industrial Brooklyn over La Guardia field so that it could not be distinguished from the air. Incoming planes had to follow the East river or go in on instruments. The new Idlewild airport, farther from the center of Manhattan, was also partially obscured by the same smoke pall. That kind of flying doesn't encourage passengers.

"BRITAIN CAN MAKE IT"

London is planning an exhibition of industrial design next summer, the title of which will be "Britain Can Make It." This is a project which Americans ought to favor heartily.

The London News Chronicle, asserting that during the war the British proved that they could produce equipment second to none, says that to win post-war trade both at home and overseas British craftsmanship must show itself to be equally flexible and up-to-date. Americans should be for this program, even at some expense to themselves, because it is by just such activities that the British are going to get themselves out of their present difficulties, if they ever do, and not by the gimcrackery of intergovernmental loans, gifts, and an international WPA at the expense of American taxpayers.

So far Great Britain has been devoting about 10 times as much attention to American benevolence as to increasing its own industrial efficiency. British industry does have an efficiency of a sort, which is too little appreciated in this country, particularly by the export divisions of our mass production industries. The British have been world traders of manufactured goods for more than a century, and the British manufacturer has a healthy feeling that the customer is usually right, particularly when he has a fistful of money. The British exporter is willing to make what the customer wants, instead of trying to sell him what he thinks he ought to have. American export trade has suffered to some extent from the fact that our industries have been quite willing to sell products which, because of the huge domestic market, can be made economically in this country, but unwilling to take small orders for products more suited to use in other countries.

But in the actual manufacture of goods the British lag far behind us, as they have shown by some of their own surveys. With unimportant exceptions, British industry has never got the idea of American mass production. This idea goes far beyond any mechanical conception of interchangeable parts and simplification of workers' tasks. The fundamental objective of mass production is, by the use of labor saving machinery and managerial planning, to achieve high production per worker, which in turn produces high wages and a low unit cost of the product.

British industrial labor is paid far less than American industrial labor because it produces less. It produces less for several reasons. It does not have the machinery, and because it lives under a caste system which denies working classes the education to develop their intelligence, it is less adaptable. Frequently labor saving machinery is made uneconomical because trade unions demand that any men whose jobs would be destroyed by the machine be hired to man them unnecessarily.

In taking this attitude the British unions are only aping the practices of their employers, who rather than improve their plants reduce their costs and compete for markets, have adopted the cartel system to divide markets, fix prices and protect investments in obsolete plants. In this respect British labor and British industry are both fit disciples of Henry Wallace, the pig killer. They see only so many jobs, only so large a market, and their whole effort is to divide this static world, rather than to expand it.

If Britain is really going to prove that it can make it, it must abandon this whole vicious circle of the caste system, limitation of worker production and cartels. If it does this, it won't need a dole from the United States. If it fails to do so, it won't be worth one.

TORPEDO 8

Mr. Parrish's Navy day cartoon and Mr. Avery's hymn to the valiant men of Torpedo Squadron 8 memorialized one of the most heroic episodes of the war. The action of this squadron at the battle of Midway as reported in the navy's communique No. 97 was as follows: "Fifteen torpedo planes from this group, therefore, located the enemy to the westward and proceeded to attack at once without protection or assistance of any kind. Altho some hits were reported by radio from these airplanes and altho some enemy fighters were shot down, the total damage inflicted by this squadron in this attack may never be known. None of these 15 planes returned. The sole survivor of the 30 officers and men of this squadron was Ensign G. H. Gay Jr., U. S. N. R., who scored one torpedo hit on an enemy carrier before he was shot down."

These planes of Torpedo 8 attacked from the carrier Enterprise on June 4, 1942. Six other planes of the squadron's reserve, flying from Midway Island, had made an earlier attack with equal determination and disregard of cost—six planes and 12 Americans sailing into 67 Japanese warships, manned by perhaps 100,000 men and further protected by probably 100 fighters. In no action in any war has greater sacrifice been asked of men than was demanded of the carrier and land based planes of this one squadron. Of the six planes which flew out of Midway, only one returned. One hit was registered in this attack.

The planes of Torpedo 8 which went out to attack from the Enterprise were led into action by Comdr. John Charles Waldron of Pierre, S. D. His last message in the ready room to his men was this: "Just a word to let you know that I feel we are all ready. We have had a very short time to train and we have worked under the most severe difficulties. But we have truly done the best humanly possible. I actually believe that under these conditions we are the best in the world. My greatest hope is that we encounter a favorable tactical situation, but if we don't, and the worst comes to the worst, I want each of us to do his utmost to destroy our enemies. If there is only one plane left to make a final run-in, I want that man to go in and get a hit. May God be with us all. Good luck, happy landings, and give 'em hell."

There were no happy landings. There is only the memory among the countrymen of these heroic airmen of a deed of courage and absolute devotion to duty which forever will stir American hearts. The sacrifice of Torpedo 8 was matched by other brave flyers at Midway. Only 12 of the 25 planes of marine Fighting Squadron 221, flying ancient Brewsters, returned to Midway. More than half of the 16 dive bombers of marine Scout Bombing Squadron 241 were lost. Of 41 American torpedo planes that left the carriers June 4, only six got home.

In other actions, both in the Pacific and in Europe, the same terrible demands were exacted of American flyers. We have some knowledge of the cost. In Europe we lost 18,418 planes; in the Pacific our army losses alone exceeded 4,000 aircraft. In the 21st air force, which sent its Super Fortresses against Japan, only 1 per cent of crew members air borne on bombing missions were counted lost, yet the losses amounted to 359 ships, 212 highly trained crew members killed, 2,279 missing and presumed to be dead, and 397 seriously wounded.

America honors all of these men, but their courage and tenacity are perhaps best exemplified by Torpedo 8, and Comdr. Waldron symbolizes them all. The victor of Midway, as far as any one man was the victor, was Waldron. It was he who, after the Japanese had changed their course and thus avoided the American planes sent to intercept them, had the imagination and determination to locate them. Waldron had lost contact with the rest of our planes among the flying clouds of the weather front near the target. Unable to find the enemy, and convinced that the course he had flown should have brought him to intercept the Japs at the point where they were last reported, he reasoned that there was only one explanation for missing them—the Japs must have turned back whence they had come. He turned northwest, therefore, and, shortly after 11 a. m., found his quarry spread out on the Pacific below him. He called in his other planes to the target, and, altho all were short of gas by now, they unhesitatingly carried out their orders to attack.

There is no way that such heroism can be repaid, but, at least, a statue commemorating Waldron and his sacrifice in behalf of his country would be a tribute to him and to all his fellow aviators.

We don't suppose the crown would let the duke of Windsor take up sociology again. And yet at one time he was considered the best dressed inquirer into the tribulations of the poor.—Detroit News.

A DASH OF PROPHECY

In 1917 an English writer named Arthur Machen, who had a strong streak of Welsh mysticism in his temperament, seems to have become slightly clairvoyant. He wrote a passage in a short novel called "The Terror" which plainly foreshadowed the career of an obscure soldier in the German army. There is no reason to believe that Hitler ever read this book, but his methods in seeking and nearly achieving the domination of Europe followed Machen's prescription.

One of Machen's characters in this strange tale, which deals with a mysterious panic that swept the England of World War I., speaks of a Swedish philosopher named Huvelius who was believed to have given Germany a plan of conquest. A passage is quoted from the writings of this cynical savant:

"War, which is one of the worst of evils, will always continue to exist. But a wise king will desire a brief war rather than a lengthy one, a short evil rather than a long one. And this is not from the benignity of his heart toward his enemies, for we have seen that the human heart is naturally malignant, but because he desires to conquer without a great expenditure of men or of treasure."

"And how," asks Huvelius, "are such wars to be waged? The wise prince will begin by assuming the enemy to be infinitely corruptible and infinitely stupid, since stupidity and corruption are the chief characteristics of man. So the prince will make himself friends in the very councils of his enemy, and also amongst the populace, bribing the wealthy by offering to them the opportunity of still greater wealth, and winning the poor by swelling words."

* * *

The background of the collaborationist trials in Europe after World War II. proves that the dreamer named Arthur Machen was dreaming true when he wrote his passage about the imaginary Huvelius.

YANKS IN CIVVIES

They change into soft tweeds and patterned ties.
They eat from flowered china, just as tho
They'd never heard of mess kits thick with flies.
So much the same they seem, you'd scarcely know
Their feet trod blood-stained beaches under skies
Hot-bright with thundering fire, scant months ago.

They talk of better jobs and latest trends.
They answer questions with well-mannered tongue,
Inquire about their neighbors and old friends,
But we, the crowds they lose themselves among,
See wounds that only time and love will mend,
In eyes that are too tired for men so young.

How to Play the Saxophone

First, obtain instrument. This is simple. If you hear weird noise resembling fire siren, it's a saxophone. Determine location. Contact neighbor. He'll steal it for you.

Buy sheet music. Get difficult compositions. You won't be able to play them, but they'll look professional on the music stand.

Insert instrument in mouth. No, no, no . . . the small end!

Depress keys. Blow. That strange sound isn't the 5 o'clock whistle, it's you. If tenants in your building hammer on water pipes, it's probably because they want to keep time with music. Blow louder.

After you get out of hospital, saxophone may be straightened out and used as a calabash pipe. Or perhaps you have nephew living next door to income tax collector.

IT NEVER MISSES

The telephone is a useful thing,
But why, O why, does it always ring
At those inconvenient times when I
Am manufacturing an apple pie,
Boiling the currant jell "just so,"
Or elbow-deep in cooky dough?
When cozily snuggled down to slumber
I go clumping out to hear "wrong number."
I get in the shower and beyond a doubt
That pesky bell will yank me out.
I drip to the phone and a saccarine voice
Desires to sell me something choice—
An insurance policy, like as not,
Or a lovely cemetery lot!
Please, darlings, call me after three,
When I won't be scrubbing the floors—or me.

Lore of Tramp Printers

When an old-time tramp printer was hired, he lettered his name on a piece of oblong cardboard and hung it on a nail on the "slipboard." That board told a story. Printers whose cards faced out worked that day. If cards were faced in—no work.

When a printer dropped a cut or pied a galley, the foreman said not a word. Quietly he walked to the slipboard, grabbing a pig of metal on the way, and drove the nail flush into the board. The card would flutter to the floor. That would be all.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

P. F. asks: "If I obtain a government guaranteed loan under the GI bill's provisions am I free to obtain any other loan I can obtain? If I do get the maximum possible under the GI bill to enter business I still will need an additional loan."

There is no restriction on the number of loans a veteran may obtain. If, for example, you obtain a loan of $4,000 from one bank with the government guaranteeing half of it you then may contract another loan in any sum a second bank is willing to advance.

Mrs. L. G. writes: "My son has been in the army since last May. I am a widow and have three more minor children. He has not made a monthly allotment for me and I do not wish to ask him for any money. Where can I write to the government to get the allotment paid by the government to a soldier's mother?"

Before you can obtain dependent's allowance from the government it will be necessary for your son to make an allotment of $22 from his monthly pay in your favor. If it can be shown that prior to entering service he contributed to a major part of your support or to your chief support then the government will make an allowance in favor of yourself and your minor children. If you apply directly to the office of dependency benefits for the allowance it still cannot be made without consent of your son so you might as well ask him to make the application.

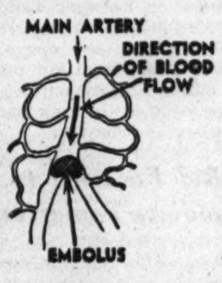
AN EMBOLUS MAY PLUG A VESSEL

NORMALLY, the circulatory pathways contain blood and are free from bacteria and other materials. Should microörganisms enter, they are scattered thruout the body and set up infection elsewhere including the valves of the heart. If a foreign substance—an embolus—is present it travels downward until it is caught either at the fork where the vessel divides or in a passageway too narrow to afford transit. This plugs the channel and the vital fluid can no longer carry nourishment to the regions supplied by that conduit. Lacking blood, the structures become gangrenous or die.



The effect depends to a great extent on the organ involved and the amount of tissue destroyed. The condition is naturally more serious should obstruction occur in an artery going to the pumping machinery, brain, or lungs; and equally dangerous anywhere when a large area is deprived of nutriment.

An embolus can appear within the vascular system in many ways. The blood may clot along the wall of an inflamed vein and, if a piece breaks off, it journeys thru the heart and finally lodges in one of the lungs. This is noted occasionally one or two weeks after pelvic or abdominal surgery or following childbirth. The victim usually becomes short of breath, experiences pain in the sternum, and may cough up small bits of red streaked sputum. Symptoms soon subside but the physician, for some weeks afterward, can observe abnormal findings by means of X-rays and the stethoscope.

These fragments can also form in the heart itself, especially when it is impaired or during periods when the beat is irregular. A thrombus of this type can pass thru the channels to the brain, limbs, or abdominal organs. Congestion may also take place about the roughened surface of a hardened or injured artery and, if the particle is dislodged by the current, it will drift along the stream. Should infected growths or vegetations appear on the valves of the pumping apparatus they, too, can be broken off and sent elsewhere.

But there are other types of emboli. Should a bone be broken, particularly in an obese individual, droplets of fat may slip into the circulation. Air can also be responsible, being forced into the vessels during an accident to the chest wall or lungs.

Many times an artery is thrown into a state of spasm when an embolus bursts upon the scene and the constriction further reduces the circulation. Heat and papaverine hydrochloride are useful in relieving this state. Now and then the mass can be removed surgically from an extremity, if discovered early.

Prevention is the order of the day and drugs, such as heparin and dicumarol, are employed to render the fluid temporarily incapable of coagulating. This may not affect one which has already developed but it will keep it from enlarging and new ones from being produced. Sometimes these preparations are given after operations to discourage embolus formation.

Symptoms are alleviated as they arise. With modern therapy, much can be done to minimize the damage and restore function. Most individuals survive the ordeal altho some tissues may be lost, especially if gangrene ensues. New vessels often bridge the gap and take over the work of the old.

BURNED OUT

Mrs. V. H. writes: Is it possible for a man to drive and work himself so hard when he is young that later he loses the ability to think?

REPLY

This is possible but obviously not the rule. One must also exclude other factors. The aging process is capable of producing this symptom and there is a certain type of mental disorder in which something within forces a person to work day and night without regard for the health. In later years, it may be discovered that insanity was responsible for such frenzied activity.

The Social Climber

Behold the British working man,
Who toiled in days of yore
To get the chores of England done.
He does such things no more!

For he's taken off his overalls
And donned a morning coat;
He owns the British parliament,
And all he does is vote.

And yet some one must labor still
[As living costs go higher]
And so the erstwhile toiler sings:
"God save our Great Empire.

"God save our far-flung colonies,
Whose millions meekly wear
The livery of servitude
That once was ours to bear.

"Tho horny-handed once we were,
A new day's dawned since then;
And we are now The Government—
We're English *Gentle*men.

"The glory of our new estate
All others' fame surpasses,
To find her Lower Classes."

Semper Paratus!

A gentleman in Hollywood who takes a month's trip out of its jungles once a year in an effort to save his sanity dropped in yesterday, very upset at being in Chicago at this time. It developed that every year, no matter when he takes his run-out, he lands in the city where the American Legion is holding its annual convention. If he emerges in September, the Legion is meeting in September. If in October, the Legion is meeting in October. This year he chose as late a date as possible; he and the Legion arrived in Chicago on the same day. Very sad about it all, he recalled the year, four or five years ago, when he landed in Boston the day the Legion left. That is, he arrived there the day the Legion was supposed to leave, for only because the Legion was supposed to leave was he able to get a reservation at the Copley-Plaza. He went to the hotel only to find that his room had not been vacated. A Legionnaire had it.

That was at 10 a. m. At midnight he managed to get in and fell right asleep. Half an hour later the telephone rang. "Hello, John" boomed an alcoholic voice. "This is Joe, Pittsburgh post." Our friend told him he was not John, was not from Pittsburgh, and was not a member of the Legion. Joe was insistent. He called again in an hour. He called again in two hours. He called a fourth time in three hours. "Well, where is John?" he demanded this time. Our friend said he had no idea and did not care. "Shay," cried the other, "who are you, anyway, if you don't know who John is?" The irate gentleman from Hollywood racked his brain in an effort to get rid of the insistent one. He recalled that Fritz Kuhn had just been sentenced to prison. "I'll tell you who I am," he yelled back. "I'm Fritz Kuhn, and I'm up here conferring with Hitler, Goebbels, and Goering, and if you don't quit ringing this room we're going to blow out the brains of every Legionnaire in this town!"

With that, quite proud of himself, he turned over and went to sleep. A few minutes later he was aroused by a banging on his door. "Who's there?" he croaked. "Open and see, or I'll shoot thru this door," a man's voice boomed back. He opened. There, Legion caps on their heads, were six representatives. The leader thrust a snub automatic in his stomach. "Fritz Kuhn!" he exulted. "We got you now!" The Hollywood vagrant protested that he was not Kuhn, never had been, and never had seen him. The six were adamant. They searched the bathroom, the closets, beneath the bed. "I was joking," he protested meekly and uncomfortably. "Wise guy, huh?" yipped the leader, staggering a bit with drink. "Well, listen, here, I'd just as soon bash you in the nose for causing us all this trouble, and let me tell you, if you were Fritz Kuhn, I certainly would." All then turned and solemnly stalked out.

A TALE OF TWO OBJECTORS

Chicago, Nov. 10—The conferring of a congressional medal of honor on the conscientious objector, Pvt. 1st Class Desmond T. Doss, for selfless devotion to duty and intrepidity under fire serves to underscore the vicious and capricious nature of the military mind. According to his commanding officer, Brig. Gen. Edwin H. Randle, "Pvt. Doss was and still is a conscientious objector. He refused to carry arms or even touch a weapon. His organization commander transferred him to the battalion medical detachment, where he was made company aid man because he wanted to be forward with his men."

Henry Weber was also, and still is, a conscientious objector. Like Pvt. Doss, he refused to carry arms or even touch a weapon. Again like Pvt. Doss, Henry Weber asserted his willingness to perform noncombatant duties. "I do not mind being in the medics or any other place," he said, "as long as I do not have to learn to hate and kill other people." Had he been given duties as a company aid, Henry Weber might also have shown the same self-abnegation and sheer courage in easing the pain and saving the lives of wounded men.

Instead, for his refusal to bear arms, Henry Weber was hailed before a military court and perfunctorily sentenced to death. Subsequently, the sentence was reduced by stages to five years. Today Henry Weber languishes in the United States disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

MAROONED IN INDIA

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 6—All but six men in our unit have 60 points or more. Day by day we sit, watching truckload after truckload of other troops from points thruout India and China being hauled to the docks. Many of these troops have very few points and little overseas' time. We take our legitimate complaint to the I. G. [he is the man who is supposed to rectify wrongs], and he tells us we are being held up by the shipping situation. After waiting a while longer and seeing more troops leave, we inquire again of higher headquarters. We were told that all railroad men were vitally needed in the states and they must go home first. Then we were told that all men from the China theater had a higher priority. All this may well be true but explanations like this do not boost our morale and above all, do not get us home. And how about the promise of having us home by Christmas?

"A SEAT FOR EVERY RIDER"

Chicago, Nov. 11—'Way back in 1916 the Voice of the People published many letters and bits of verse relative to the effort to obtain motor buses for Chicago. The idea then was that with a 10 cent fare every rider should have a seat. Now the buses are so jammed that it is with difficulty that the driver can get the door shut.

I am not surprised at the three accidents of the last few weeks. Can't something be done about this dangerous over crowding?

OUR GUARDIANS

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 4—Not long ago, certain pundits in Washington were warning us solemnly about the dangers of inflation if the stock market went up and urging the usual New Deal cure: To tax profits in such a way as to discourage all buying and selling—which, of course, would result in even thinner markets and more violent fluctuations, and probably even higher prices. After Mr. Truman made his mildly astonishing speech in which he advocated higher wages, lower prices, harmony between management and labor, and reconversion all at the same time, the stock market has indulged in a really violent rise on larger volume of transactions.

The explanation for this found in the columns of the financial writers is that Mr. Truman's speech was taken as meaning sure inflation, which by a coincidence happens to be the very bogeyman our heroes in Washington are out to eliminate, especially in the stock market. What puzzles me is the silence, in the face of this renewed and more violent upsurge in stock market prices, of those vocal elements who just recently were in favor of choking off this very manifestation in the name of "holding the line" and protecting the public against itself.

AN AMERICAN MOTHER

Varna, Ill., Oct. 31—I too, would like to know why we can't help our relatives in Germany. I heard thru an American soldier that my brother, 67 years old, lost his arm and his wife was killed when a bomb hit his house in Bremen. One of my sisters had her house bombed three times in Hannover and lost everything.

We did all we could for this country. Our fine young son [not of age then] enlisted in the marines. We had two farms, gave one up, and proudly signed the papers so he could go. He went thru hell at Tarawa and is now buried in the 2d marine division cemetery on Saipan. Who is a real American? I, a German born mother, who gave all she could give for this country, her son, or the farmer who was born in this country and got more land so he could keep his son at home?

Sometimes I wonder.

EVICTED

Chicago, Nov. 14—1. We were evicted without proper notice by the landlord. 2. We were kept in court from the time our rent was cut May 2 by OPA until September. 3. We went to court but the landlord never would let it go to trial. 4. We had a lawyer in each instance. We have papers from the OPA which the lawyer obtained. 5. How long do we have to wait to sue for our overcharge? Can't we sue for being evicted? We were put outdoors in the rain and both my child and I were ill as a result of not having a decent place in which to live.

1. If you mean that a judgment for eviction has been entered, this settles the controversy unless you appeal from the judgment.
2. We assume that you mean that there were continuances of the case.
3. You were entitled to insist on trial, unless he has good grounds for continuance.
4. He is in a better position to advise you than we are.
5. We cannot advise without knowing the reasons for the continuances.

COURT TOLD HOW JAPS BURNED 150 YANKS TO DEATH

Men Escaping in Flames Are Shot Down

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 19 [Monday]—The slaughter of nearly 150 American prisoners of war was told today at the trial of Gen. Yamashita, former Japanese commander in the Philippines accused of war guilt.

The massacre occurred when the Japanese garrison on Palawan Island received word a large American convoy was heading in their direction last December, altho the convoy instead made a landing on Mindoro. The whole prisoner camp was herded into air raid shelters Dec. 14, then gasoline was poured into these, set afire, and prisoners who ran out—some aflame—were shot down.

Escapers Shot Down

A few managed to reach a beach over a steep cliff. Most of these were hunted down and slain. Only a handful managed to get away. As far as is known only nine survived of the 150 soldiers, sailors, and marines.

Pvt. Glenn W. McDole of Des Moines, Ia., one of the lucky few, had his statement read to the court by Capt. William N. Calyer of Newburgh, N. Y.

Many Are Bayoneted

"Immediately after the Japs began pouring gasoline and throwing blazing torches into the shelters, the men began pouring out, some on fire," he stated. "They were being shot at with rifles and machine guns and many were bayoneted.

"A number of them attempted to scramble thru small holes in a fence. I with about 17 or 20 others escaped thru a concealed escape hatch that led to the outside from our shelter. About 30 to 40 men succeeded in getting down an embankment for the purpose of hiding among the rocks."

Read Chicagoan's Story

A deposition from a Chicagoan who was a Japanese prisoner after the capture of Bataan was read into the record. According to the statement, Corp. Harold William Memmler, 1523 N. Long av., Chicago, and others were held at Cabanatuan from July 19, 1942, till their liberation last February. Their quarters were bamboo shacks and their food was half a canteen of rice three times daily, with occasional sweet potatoes or beef. His weight dropped from 151 to 61 pounds.

Memmler's statement said he saw many Americans beaten into unconsciousness and sometimes, in reprisal for real or fancied offenses, Americans were lined up and forced to slug each other. The defense objected to the final sentence in his statement, which read: "Yamashita, Philippines Japanese commander, visited the camp twice, saw the conditions there, and did nothing to improve the situation."

Two Jap diaries also were introduced. One, under date of Dec. 15, said in part, "It seems the prisoners of war were killed yesterday, and the vicinity of the mess hall was unsightly with the prisoners' blood."

"Died a Pitiful Death"

The other, written by a sergeant major, says, "One hundred and fifty prisoners were executed, and those who escaped were shot. Tho they were prisoners, they truly died a pitiful death. From today on I will not hear at the repair shop the familiar greeting, 'Good morning, sergeant major'."

The prosecution says the unit involved in the slaughter was composed of army troops, altho the defense will undoubtedly allege that the killers were of the air force, and not under Yamashita's control.

The massacred personnel included 12 sailors, 33 marines, and the remainder army men. The dead included four officers, including one lieutenant commander. Those who escaped did so by hiding until after dark, then swimming five miles across the bay, where natives picked them up and took them to guerrillas, who arranged their rescue.

MAC ARTHUR ORDERS SEIZURE OF 11 JAP MILITARY LEADERS

TOKYO, Nov. 19 [Monday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur today ordered the arrest of 11 Japanese war leaders, including militarists most prominently associated with the imperialistic decade and civilians linked with drawing Japan into the tripartite pact. Among those named were Yosuke Matsuoka, former minister, and Toshio Shiratori, one time ambassador to Rome—both instrumental in tripartite negotiations—and such internationally notorious generals as Sadao Araki, former war minister; Kuniaki Koiso, former premier, and Jiro Minami, once known as the brains of the militarist clique.

Wipes Out Jap Air Lines

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Japan's civil aviation industry must be wiped out by the end of the year, allied headquarters decreed today. The directive forbade private flying, pilot training of any sort, ownership of flyable planes, and any aerial research.

Another order instructed the Japanese government to restore to individuals the 4,000,000 radio receivers which were confiscated, wrecked, or otherwise rendered inoperable during the war, when the government was fearful that its people would hear allied broadcasts.

The sweeping aviation order, which headquarters said was designed to prevent any possibility of Japan preserving an air force nucleus for future aggression, outlawed all operation of private aircraft. All organizations interested in commercial aviation must be dissolved by Dec. 31.

STALIN PICTURE GRACES PAPERS ON BIG GUN DAY

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin's picture appeared today on the front page of all newspapers in connection with the observance of Russia's artillery day, but the significance was not clear.

There was no announcement whether he had returned from his vacation The official order of the day marking the celebration was signed by Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky, deputy commissar of defense.

Twenty volleys at 7 o'clock tonight from the guns of the garrison of Moscow and other big cities reminded the nation of the war time achievements of its artillerymen. A Red Star editorial said as many as 20,000 guns had participated in a single operation during the war and that the Stalin artillery plant alone produced 100,000 guns during the war.

AAF EQUIPMENT WORTH MILLIONS ROTTING IN RAIN

Costly Radar, Radio Sets Piled in Field

was stored outside. Eight carloads arrived the following day, four on the third and 10 on Oct. 4. Thruout the month shipments ranged upward to a peak of 26 cars on Oct. 8 and the same number on Oct. 15. During the month 156 carloads of this costly equipment, some of it still marked "secret and confidential," were added to the mounting pile on the depot grounds. In addition, 370 trucks brought in more equipment during the month.

Most of the equipment received by truck was piled on the warehouse docks. Some shifting of equipment from inside the warehouses made room for a small part of that arriving by train and truck but most of it suffered repeated rain soakings. Inspection of boxes move inside shows much of this was damaged during the time it was exposed to the weather.

Radar Sets Damaged

Limited inspection of the material disclosed that 24 radar transmission and receiving sets have been damaged by rain. These were sent to the maintenance section in an effort to retrieve part of this loss. Radio manufacturers estimate the cost of such sets about $15,000 each. There are scores more in the long piles on the depot grounds.

In three rows nearly 150 feet wide, more than 1,000 feet long, and ranging as high as 20 feet, are boxed radio and radar frequency units, modulators, transmitters, receivers, vacuum tubes, dynamotors, and other parts needed in modern warfare's complex communication system. Some of the material is so new it has not yet been disclosed to the public.

Boxes containing sensitive parts and with large markings outside giving directions for handling have been piled with little regard for instructions. Some are in waterproof overseas packing but the large percentage is in wooden boxes, packed in excelsior. Cardboard boxes, in which some parts are packed, already are disintegrating under the rains and repacking will be necessary before the parts can be moved.

Fewer Workers Now

Altho the depot is confronted with a task far greater than any encountered during the war, the force of civilian employes has been reduced from 1,950 of last April to less than 1,500 now. German prisoners of war also helped out during war time but are no longer used. Military personnel at the depot is confined to supervising officers.

Gen. Knerr admitted that the 2 million dollar estimated value of the exposed equipment is probably low, but insisted this was "merely a fly speck on the window pane" compared with the total equipment of the AAF which he valued at more than 50 billion dollars.

In anything of this magnitude there are bound to be examples of neglect," Gen. Knerr said. "And if you use a magnifying glass you can find them."

He said the AAF has safely stored sufficient material to fight another war any time in the next five years, and that after that time all present equipment will be obsolete.

Nearly 7 Million Dollars Work Done by Prisoners

Prisoners of war under the control of Fort Sheridan did $4,333,500 worth of work for contractors in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan from January thru October this year, and $2,287,000 worth of work at military installations, Brig. Gen. John T. Pierce, post commander, said yesterday.

PROTEST BY U. S. FAILS TO DELAY BULGARIA POLL

Sofia Says All Have Equal Rights

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 18 (AP)—The election of a national assembly—first held in Bulgaria since 1940—went forward quietly tonight, with indications of a large vote.

The government submitted to the people a single slate of candidates representing the communist dominated Fatherland Front.

The voters thus were given two choices: They could vote for the Fatherland Front candidates or they could abstain from voting. Opposition leaders boycotted the elections and urged their followers not to go to the polls. They also had demanded a postponement.

Sofia offered a typical Sunday atmosphere, with only a normal number of people on the streets. Loudspeakers thruout the city blared music and intermittently urged people to vote.

Sofia, a city of some 700,000 people, has 84 voting districts, and the flow of voters in each appeared to be constant.

Militia on Guard

Militiamen with bayoneted rifles guarded voting rooms, and identification was necessary. In one voting room picked at random four men sat behind a long table. The voter entering first presented a certificate showing his right to vote, and the number on the certificate was checked against a list of voters.

Then he was handed a small blue envelope which was initialed by the president of the voting bureau, in the presence of the voter to insure its authenticity.

Prior to the start of voting the Bulgarian government replied to a note of warning from the United States.

The contents of the Bulgarian note were not made public, but unofficial sources said it merely was a re-statement of the Fatherland Front contention that full democratic rights exist in Bulgaria.

The United States note said "there is no reason to believe the results of an election under [present] conditions will reflect the Bulgarian people's choice of a representative democratic government."

The statement added that "no steps have been taken since August to reorganize the present Bulgarian government to make is truly representative of democratic opinion."

Truman's Aid Reports

The United States note was based upon a report from Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher, who spent two weeks here investigating the situation as a personal representative of President Truman. Ethridge's findings were made available to Russia and Britain, it was disclosed, but neither of them joined in the protest.

Britain and the United States both had sent protests against original plans to hold the elections Aug. 26. After the protests were received the date was postponed to Nov. 18.

The opposition said the government was using force and terror to turn out a large vote and with this large vote on record, the government would go headlong into making Bulgaria a communist state.

Portugal Votes Quietly

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 18 (AP)—Delegates to Portugal's new national assembly were chosen today in a quiet election after a 40 day political campaign in which Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar heard his regime criticized by the opposition for the first time in 18 years.

Opposition leaders presented no candidates against Salazar, contending they did not have sufficient time to prepare for the election. The assembly, therefore, will be strictly a one party body.

SANTA'S AGENTS SHOW MANY NEW TYPES OF TOYS

Santa Claus' pack will bulge with toys in more plentiful variety this Christmas than in any year since before the war, Chicago store managers who are acting as his unofficial advance agents said yesterday.

Children already have begun to get previews of what they can expect to find in their stockings or under their Christmas trees in visits to loop department store toylands, where many favorite toys which disappeared during the war have reappeared in stock.

Metal toys are back on the shelves. Toy furniture, complete to kitchen sinks with running faucets, is being displayed in both metal and fiber board. Some miniature stoves have burners which light up with concealed flashlight batteries. Dishes are in plastics, as are many toy animals.

PREDICT BRITAIN WILL END BAN ON GENERAL STRIKE

LONDON, Nov. 19 [Reuters]—The British government has decided to repeal the whole of the trades disputes act passed in 1927, which made illegal a repetition of the 1926 general strike, the newspaper "Daily Express" said today.

This means, the paper continued, that as soon as the repeal is passed—probably early in the new year:

1. A general strike once more will be legal.

2. Trades unions will be able to take compulsory political levies from all members who do not deliberately "contract out."

3. Civil servants will be able to join trades unions affiliated with the trades union congress and will be able to join in industrial strikes.

4. Local authorities will be free to refuse to employ anyone who does not belong to a trades union.

Hairbreadth Harry Careless Charlie
Long-Chance Louie
Beat-the-Train Bennie
Wrong-Side Willie
Hit-and-Run Horace and Speeding Sam
they all are back on the road

DID they learn anything about careful driving during these past years when patriotic motorists were living up to the spirit of the times?

The answer, America, is definitely "No."

The only difference today—their cars are even older, even less trustworthy, and a lot more dangerous, to others, unfortunately, rather than to themselves alone.

Battle headlines were scarcely out of the papers, and the last gas stamp had hardly become a memento, when these familiar headline acquaintances were back in force throughout our newspapers:

TOT KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

TRAIN BEATS CAR TO CROSSING—FOUR DIE

Auto Kills GI In Safety Zone

The reckless driver is feeling his oats again. His tank is full of unrationed gas. His foot is heavy on the throttle. The old gleam is in his eye and it's "Scatter, chickens, folks and cars—here I come and I'm comin' hell-bent!"

The fact is that each month since March shows an increase in the number of fatal automobile accidents over the corresponding month of 1944, and the accident rate has increased alarmingly since the end of gasoline rationing.

In a world forward enough to split the atom, we are still backward enough to smash people and property to atoms by twos and tens and twenties every day of the year on every road of the nation.

The kind of drivers we are pointing at will never read this message.

It is not for them.

It is for the great rank and file of American motorists who have enough mathematical sense to realize that a car going much above thirty-five miles per hour is a projectile!

. . . who have a heart to understand what the loss or crippling of a child can mean to that child's mother.

. . . who have a respect for the other person's property as well as for their own.

. . . who know why traffic lights and railroad crossing gates are installed and maintained.

. . . who have figured out why traffic flows one way on the right side of a road; the opposite way on the left.

. . . who are old enough and smart enough and "fair-play" enough to deserve to drive a car.

There is one big way through which you, as a responsible driver and citizen, can start the sentiment rolling up against "that man who's here again"—the reckless driver.

You have a standing in your block.

Your opinion is regarded with respect among the people you live with and the people you work with.

Why not plant some thoughts like these and watch them grow into safer driving:

"I seldom find any call to drive over fifty."

"Anyone who drives with bad brakes is asking for trouble."

"Why not let the stimulant of just driving again be stimulant enough when a person is behind the wheel?"

"Passing cars on a crowded highway isn't only silly—it's often suicide —and homicide."

Public opinion grows. Public opinion molds. Public opinion is one weapon that can work against reckless driving.

We've won the war.

Let's get back to winning some of the fundamental things like a better chance for human life and property on the public highway—something that should have been won many years ago.

FRANCE TO TRY NEW MANEUVER TO INDICT KRUPP

Reds Will Ask Delay at Nuernberg

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 18—Prosecutors of four nations will meet tomorrow morning in an attempt to remove discord among them 24 hours before the major war crime trials are scheduled to open before an international military tribunal. The only assurance against postponement was the court's refusal to include Alfried Krupp as a defendant on the British ple.. against the delay that would ensue.

France, which joined with Russia in an 11th hour support of America's motion to amend the indictment to include the munition manufacturer with the 21 military and political leaders of the Nazis, will ask the support of other prosecutors in a new move against the president of the German arms company. France will suggest to the prosecutors that they indict Alfried separately and then ask for joiner of his trial with that of Hermann Goering and his score of fellow prisoners.

Delay to Be Asked

Col. Yuri Pokrovsky, assistant soviet prosecutor, said he would ask for a postponement of the trials because of the illness in Moscow of the chief soviet prosecutor, Lt. Gen. Roman A. Dudenko. Pokrovsky said Rudenko was suffering from malaria and would not be able to come to Nuernberg for 10 or 12 days.

French assistant prosecutor Charles Dubost said he would support Pokrovsky's request "as a matter of international courtesy."

Justice Robert L. Jackson, America's chief prosecutor, announced thru his office that he had not been informed of the French move to indict Alfried Krupp and therefore had no comment. British executives could not be reached and were reported to be on a deer hunt.

Hess Decision Today

The four nation tribunal was to meet tomorrow afternoon for further motions preliminary to the trial. One of these will decide whether Rudolf Hess, former No. 2 Nazi, who dropped from the skies into Scotland in May, 1941, will be in the prisoners' docket with the others. Psychiatrists have been observing his real or pretended amnesia.

ZIONIST RIPS TRUMAN STAND ON PALESTINE

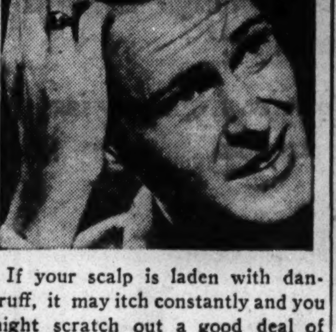
Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18 (AP)—Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, elected president of the Zionist organization of America today at the annual convention here, charged, "We have underestimated British imperial cynicism and overestimated the determination of the President."

Referring to President Truman's recent suggestion to Prime Minister Attlee that 100,000 Jews be transferred from Europe to Palestine, and the subsequent British-American agreement to set up a joint commisssion of inquiry to study the Palestine problem, Dr. Silver said in a speech:

"He [President Truman] was persuaded to accept the shoddy substitute of an investigating committee, that very hoary device for delay and circumvention, against his own better judgment. Why, in the matter of Palestine, does our government always yield? The joint commission of inquiry is a disastrous substitute for imperative immediate action."

Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York said British Foreign Secretary Bevin "elects Ibn Saud [Arabian king] in Hitler's place as a kinglet to be appeased."

DON'T SCRATCH YOUR HAIR AWAY



If your scalp is laden with dandruff, it may itch constantly and you might scratch out a good deal of hair each day. Or, if your hair is dull, drab or dingy, these conditions can be caused by improper scalp hygiene—You should consult us.

No case is ever accepted for treatment unless we feel confident that you will be satisfied with the results obtained.

There is no charge or obligation for a private scalp examination and consultation. Fees for treatment are moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There are separate departments for men and women.

Sing Sing Death Chair Idle Now a Full Year

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 18 (AP)—For the first time since it was installed 56 years ago, the death chair at Sing Sing prison has been idle a full year. Previously an average of 9 persons were executed in the chair every year and once the total hit 36.

URGES LARGER LOAN TO RUSSIA THAN TO BRITAIN

New York, Nov. 18 [Special]—If the proposed loan of several billion dollars to Great Britain is granted, "the American government and people should have sense enough and self-interest enough to make an even larger loan to the soviet union," Edward C. Carter, national president of the American Society for Russian Relief, Inc., said today. He said he favored a loan to Great Britain "provided it is not used partly to keep the American people in partnership with the imperialistic side of English life."

Carter spoke at a conference of the greater New York committee of the Russian relief agency which was known as Russian war relief before its withdrawal from the national war fund in July, 1945. The conference was attended by 1,500 persons, and was called to launch the society's campaign for food, clothing, and medical supplies for Russia. No quota was set for the drive.

Parolee Admits a Killing and Denies Another One

Wendell Stanford Coffman, 25, of 65 E. Harrison st., a paroled convict, admitted yesterday at a police showup that he killed Carl Ritzman in a holdup in Gardenia, Cal., a suburb of Los Angeles, Oct. 23. He denied a holdup murder in Portland, Ore., on Nov. 10, altho police said Portland authorities are seeking him in connection with the crime. Coffman, who is being held for California authorities, was arrested Friday at State and Oak sts. by Detective James McGrath.

How much can you pay?

What would you think if the clerk at your favorite store asked to see what you had in your wallet before he decided what to charge you for a shirt?—

Or if, just because you happened to have some money saved up, you were asked to pay more than other people for a haircut, a movie ticket, or even such important items as rent, food and clothing.

That's exactly the kind of reasoning UAW-CIO leaders are using in their wage demands on General Motors—

They point to funds we have saved up over the years to expand and improve our plants and provide more jobs and more production. They say, "Give us that in higher wages."

General Motors does not go along with that kind of reasoning. People should not have to pay more just because they have a savings account—

For many years we have used our savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values.

And we intend to keep on doing just that. We are, at present, embarked on a very important reconversion and postwar expansion program. Our objective, now as always—to produce more and better things for more people.

DELAY DOSTLER FATE TO ASSIST NUERNBERG AIDS

Execution May Wait End of Trial

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, Nov. 18—Final ruling on the fate of Gen. Anton Dostler, convicted German war criminal, is being delayed so that the trial proceedings may be studied exhaustively by officials who will be concerned with the prosecution and defense of other German defendants at Nuernberg, Germany. This was indicated today by American army authorities who suggested there is a possibility that Dostler may be called as a witness at Nuernberg.

Dostler, who commanded the German 75th corps in Italy, was the first high ranking enemy officer to be tried by the Americans for offenses against the rules of war. On Oct. 12 a military commission in Rome found him guilty of ordering the execution of 15 American soldiers and sentenced him to be shot. The 15 were put to death at Punta Bianca below Genoa on March 26, 1944, after their capture while trying to demolish a railroad tunnel behind the enemy lines. Dostler's defense was that he was following a Hitler directive in the matter.

McNarney Shifted

The military commission's verdict and the entire transcript were forwarded to the theater commander for review. It had been understood then that the ultimate decision would be forthcoming in a few weeks.

Some delay was entailed because Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean theater, left for a new post and Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway came in as American chief in the area.

But even that change in command would not cause so long a postponement—more than five weeks—in the ruling.

All paper work in the case is completed and it is believed that the sentence of execution by a firing squad has been upheld. But the legal staffs at Nuernberg are querying continually on points of procedure in the trial before the military commission. The fact that Dostler had served as a German commander on other fronts besides Italy is a reason why he might be wanted as a witness at Nuernberg.

Conference Canceled

A press conference had been scheduled yesterday in Rome and the public relations officer forecast an important announcement. More than that was not said but it was strongly suspected that the announcement would concern Gen. Ridgeway's finding on Dostler.

At the last moment the conference was canceled and it is unlikely that the Dostler ruling will be disclosed or that he will be executed—if that is the decision—before the Nuernberg trials which are scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Dostler is at the Aversa prisoner of war camp near Naples and still enjoys the privileges of a captive of his rank. Reports are that he maintains his stoicism and continues talks with his defense counsel.

Strauss says: "INDIANAPOLIS...THE HEART OF THE U. S. A."

THIS IS THE INDIANA WORLD WAR MEMORIAL PLAZA

The Plaza covers 5 blocks in the heart of the city. In the foreground are The American Legion Buildings—4 monumental structures—in twin pairs. (There is at the present time the one unit—the 3 additional buildings are to be erected beginning this spring.)

The CENOTAPH—immediately in the foreground—and the OBELISK—add a touch of sublimity.

And beyond—occupying a city block—is the MEMORIAL BUILDING—a vast stately building of surpassing grandeur—on the east and west side is a grand staircase leading to the SHRINE ROOM—an exalting experience for everyone who visits it.

It is not only a memorial to those who died in the service of the country—but a memorial to the living—an inspiration to the citizenry!

Greetings to American Legionnaires all—from the Legion's National Headquarters...

"Indianapolis...the Heart of the U. S. A."

—This is the most momentous Convention in the history of the Legion!

—It is attended with ranks reinforced by millions (and more to come) of veterans of World War II.

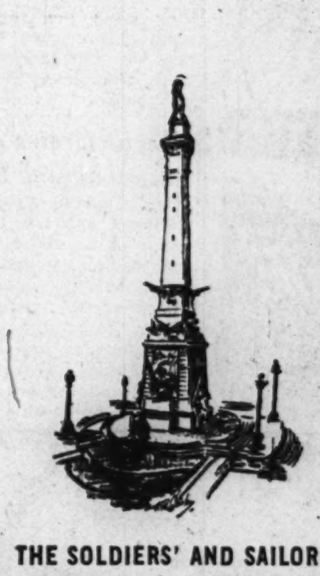
—It is confronted with problems such as Peacetime America has never faced—veterans' problems—Uncle Sam's problems (they are inter-related)—demanding serious and far-sighted consideration and solution—including that which is uppermost in all hearts.. and prayers—to perpetuate the peace—that was so dearly bought with millions of lives—with blood and sweat and tears.

—The American Legion brings to its labors and its deliberations—a long and distinguished record of achievements—not only through its great works among veterans' groups—but in general welfare work, educational projects, civic enterprises—that strengthen the American fiber.

—Perhaps it is not too much to say—that some of the Legion's strength of purpose—its vision and its Will—issue from the good Grass Root soil of Indianapolis—the Legion's home town!

—Here, in the heart of the U. S. A., is integrity—is clarity not muddled by political flurries—not swayed by coastal currents.

—Perhaps much of it is inspired by the moving grandeur of The American Legion Home Site—Memorial Plaza—with the lofty black granite obelisk gold-tipped—the towering Memorial Hall—and the classic monumental character of the Legion's buildings.



THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT...on the Circle

Experienced travelers pronounce it "the greatest achievement of architectural and sculptural art in the world." Designed to commemorate the valor and fortitude of Indiana's soldiers and sailors in the War of Rebellion—and other wars. (It was completed in 1901.)

To The American Legion ... Greetings ... Salutations

and may your deliberations be blessed with Providential aid!

LUKE LEA DIES; EX-CONVICT, WAR HERO, SENATOR

Led Famous Attempt to Kidnap Kaiser

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 18 [Special]—The fabulous career of Luke Lea, senator, war hero, publisher, financier, political boss, ex-convict, and leader of the famous attempt to kidnap the German kaiser from Holland after the close of World War I., ended today with his death in a hospital here.

Lea, who was 66, suffered an attack of indigestion, attributed to stomach ulcers, last week and was removed to a hospital from his home. He had lived here quietly with his family since his release on parole April 1, 1936, from the North Carolina state prison at Raleigh where he served slightly less than two years of a 6 to 10 year sentence for violation of the state banking laws.

The colorful Lea was a dominant figure in Tennessee politics for a quarter of a century after 1907 when, at the age of 27, he seized the gavel in a riotous state Democratic convention and dictated a compromise which led to the nomination and election of Malcolm R. Patterson as governor.

Elected Senator in 1911

Thereafter, until the power of his political machine was broken in 1932 after the collapse of the financial empire which he and Rogers Caldwell had built thruout the south, no governor was elected in Tennessee without Lea's support.

In 1911, when he was 31, the Tennessee legislature elected Lea to the United States senate. He served a 6 year term, his only public office.

At the outbreak of World War I., Lea organized a volunteer regiment which became the 114th field artillery. He was commissioned a lieutenant colonel and later promoted to colonel. He was in France for 10 months, saw service in the St. Mihiel and Meuse Argonne offensives and won the distinguished service medal.

During the enforced idleness of most American troops after the 1918 armistice, Lea led a group of Tennesseeans — some accounts said there were 10 in the party—in a spectacular automobile trip into Holland, where they called at Amerongen, then the refuge of Kaiser Wilhelm.

Balked by Dutch Guards

Lea never talked about this exploit, but legend has it the Americans were bent on kidnaping the former German emperor and were frustrated only by the arrival of Dutch guards in force, and retreated with a purloined imperial ash tray as their only souvenir of the visit.

A furor in army and diplomatic circles followed, and Col. Lea and his comrades were confined to quarters for a month until the case reached Gen. Pershing.

After the war he built up a chain of five newspapers in Memphis, Nashville, and Knoxville. With Caldwell, he acquired interests in many banks and financial institutions.

The failure of Caldwell & Company in 1930 toppled Lea from his financial eminence, and he was indicted for banking law violations in Tennessee and North Carolina. With his son, Luke Jr., he stood trial in Asheville, N. C., and both were convicted. His subsequent fight to stay out of jail went to the state and the United States Supreme courts, and lasted 3 years. The Leas entered prison May 10, 1934.

Seize Brothers in Navy Suits on Check Charges

Altho not in the navy, Frank Bader, 19, and his brother, Richard, 17, of 6717 Oshkosh av., wore sailor uniforms to help them cash bogus checks in taverns, police said yesterday. The brothers were arrested last week by the shore patrol in Fort Wayne, Ind., and returned to Chicago when it was discovered they were not sailors. Six complaints have been made to police that the pair cashed checks which were worthless. The Baders said they bought the uniforms in a store.

She is survived by two sons, Dr. Elmer B. and Dr. John P., and a daughter, Dr. Grace Mason, and by five grandchildren. Services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. in St. Catherine's church, Washington and Austin blvds.

YEGGMEN BLAST SAFE BUT CAN'T OPEN INNER BOX

Yeggmen blew open a large safe in the office of the E. C. Schneider Motor Sales company, 4511 Madison st., early yesterday, but were unable to open the inner compartment.

Schneider told police he was unable to tell immediately whether anything had been taken. One of the safe blowers stood guard over Frank Tomasek, 78, of 112 N. Cicero av., night watchman, while the others worked on the safe.

Tomasek said he heard three explosions, but was unable to tell how many men were involved in the robbery attempt, because the safe was in another room.

6 DEAD, 27 HURT AS BUS BURNS AFTERUPSETTING

Wendover, Utah, Nov. 18 (AP)—Six men were killed and 27 persons injured today in the crash and burning of a Pacific Greyhound bus bound from San Francisco to Salt Lake City.

The dead were not immediately identified. Their bodies were burned badly by flames which swept the bus after it skidded off the ice-sheathed highway and turned over on its top. Sheriff Alma White said five of the dead were military personnel. Catherine Hulett, 38, of Lemont, Ill., suffered cuts and bruises.

COLOMBIA READY TO SELL PART OF EMERALD HOARD

Reveal War Time Tussle for Platinum

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON

[Chicago Tribune reporter who has just returned from a tour of South and Central America.]

Colombia, the world's largest source of emeralds, is preparing to sell part of its accumulated stock of the precious stones. The Colombian government, which has a monopoly on the mining of emeralds, has made a deal with the Central Bank to put $700,000 worth on the market.

The green stones were put away in the bank's vaults in the early days of the war when the government slowed up their production. The gems, unlike diamonds, have no industrial uses and the war disorganized the market in jewels.

The Central Bank intends to dispose of some of the emeralds abroad and the rest will be put on sale in the Latin republic as an attraction for tourists.

Mined by Spaniards

When the Spaniards came to South America the Incas were using emeralds in jewelry. Records show that the Spaniards mined emeralds early in the 16th century. The stones were found in craters of long extinct volcanoes in Colombia.

The jewels Colombia will put on sale were cut and polished there. Until a few years ago the raw stones had been sent to Europe for cutting and polishing, but then the government hired European experts who came to South America and taught Colombians the art of turning out a finished stone.

Colombia is also rich in platinum and the third largest producer in the western hemisphere. Two thirds of the supply is obtained thru dredging operations in the streams of northwest Colombia. The other third is gathered by about 30,000 Colombian prospectors in panning operations. The washing of gravel in rivers by entire families in quest of platinum is a common sight.

Valuable in War

It has just been disclosed that Colombia was the scene of a tussle between the axis and the allies early in the war to get hold of the country's platinum output. German agents secretly bought the mineral—vital for war—from prospectors and smuggled it out of the country. In 1942 the black market price was $97 an ounce inside Colombia. After being smuggled to Buenos Aires the price rose to about $190 an ounce.

The Colombian government quickly stamped out the smuggling and the United States received the country's entire export.

Tho rich in petroleum, platinum, and gold resources, Colombia is the second largest coffee producer in Latin America. Brazil is the first. Colombia supplies 21 per cent of all coffee exports from the Americas. It is the country's chief export item.

Colombia is proud of the quality of its coffee and has developed its production carefully. Unlike Brazil where coffee is grown on huge plantations, small landowners produce the crop in Colombia.

Approximately 600,000,000 coffee trees grow on the slopes of the Andes, yielding a type rich in aroma and flavor. To prevent soil erosion, the mountain slopes are terraced. Shade trees are grown alongside the bushes to protect the coffee bushes. They are put in the ground a year before the coffee bush is planted. The shade trees are kept trimmed in order to give the coffee berries the right amount of sunlight. Coffee experts say that too much sun produces a heavy crop one year and a light crop the following year.

Colombian growers pick only ripe coffee berries instead of stripping the bushes as in Brazil and other countries.

Colombia's rapid stride in coffee production began in the '30s when Brazil started to burn its excess supply in an effort to create a shortage and thereby obtain higher prices. Colombia and other Latin nations increased production, relying on a superior quality to get a higher price.

Brazil's production of 24 million bags a year fell to less than 10 million bags. [A bag holds 132 pounds.] In the last eight years Colombia's output has increased from less than 3 million to 6½ million bags. The Inter-American Coffee board allots about 80 per cent of Colombia's production to the United States on a quota basis.

Visit the Postwar Electric Appliance and Radio Show in the Edison Building

Come soon—see the electric ranges and the scores of wonderful postwar appliances on display at 72 West Adams Street. Sponsored by the Electric Association of Chicago, here's a super show—free of charge—well worth seeing!

CHICAGOANS CHEER THE RETURN OF ELECTRIC RANGES!

Report record attendance at Postwar Electric Appliance and Radio Show in the Edison Building

"What a beauty!"

"I'd love this range in my kitchen!"

"Why, cooking on this would be fun!"

These are the things thousands and thousands of visitors are saying about the streamlined electric ranges! And they're right—the new electric ranges are beauties! They're time-saving; work-saving—wonderful in every way.

Automatic time and temperature controls make quick, easy work of cooking. Turn a dial—instant heat is ready to start foods cooking immediately. Electric cooking is easier, too—makes every dish taste better—makes it more healthful for your family. Big, roomy ovens cook foods to perfection while you're busy in another part of the house. Heavy oven insulation lets you work in a cooler, more comfortable kitchen in the summer—when you're canning—all year 'round. And thrifty, deepwell cookers cook whole, delicious dinners without watching or stirring.

Electric cooking is flameless—so it's far cleaner! No soot—no smoke—no grime means cleaner walls, woodwork and curtains. Utensils will sparkle—you'll save heaps of scouring time.

So if you haven't already been down to the amazing Postwar Electric Appliance and Radio Show—get in on the excitement! Have the fun of seeing the new electric ranges and postwar appliances!

Children Lose Baby Ways at About Age of 5

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Altho most of our children's changing behavior is a sign of their growth, it helps us to have some basic idea of what to look forward to.

Recently we discussed the ways of children during the first 3 or 4 or 5 years. But now we'll begin to notice a rather rapid shedding of baby ways.

Little children have become pretty capable physically by that time. They are seeing more of the world outside their home, in other children's homes, and from playing together outdoors. And at school, if they are in kindergarten or first grade, their contacts are much more varied. So, some of that sweet docility may vanish and an independent air take its place.

Being almost like little monkeys in their imitativeness, children begin to amuse or annoy their parents by coming home with all sorts of ways and words, appealing to them because of their novelty. Swashbuckling airs, expressions verging on the impudent, slang, and the sort of language we classify as "bad words" all sprout vigorously at this time.

I know how you feel, but what you have to do is to accept the phase, ignore some of the new ways, provide outlets for others, and occasionally be very firm. Knowing what to expect helps a great deal.

Altho baby ways disappear around the ages of 4, 5, and 6, your child still is a little boy, still a little girl. But a few years bring them both to that in-between stage which is as interesting and important as it is misunderstood. Knowing what to expect of these boys and girls tends to create an attitude, on the parents' part, of tolerance and understanding.

Thru the Looking-Glass

More help for the dry skinned women whose bleats are becoming louder as the weather gets colder. We can appreciate all the nasty things biting wind and heated rooms do to supersensitive skin and we know how reluctant a person can be even to cleanse such a skin when it feels sorely thin and dry. But grime aggravates the condition and the thing to do is to find a cleanser which not only gets rid of dirt, but lubricates as well.

Thinking of this type of cleanser, an outstanding one comes to mind. It's a liquid cream, thick and heavy and full of rich oils which act as balm to thin skins. Before using it you should shake the bottle well to mix the oils thoroly, and then pour a bit of the cream into the cupped palm of one hand and spread it with the other. This isn't a quick cleanser at all. It's to be used with deliberation, massaging it about, and you might even let it stand a few minutes before tissuing it off if you can spare the time. The delicate skin relaxes and softens under its soothing ministrations and when the cream is removed it leaves the skin perfectly clean. Not only is it well cleansed, but it has a nice, moist feeling which is a pleasant contrast to the hard, parched sensation it had before the treatment.

It takes a lot of doing to preserve the texture and firmness of dry skin, but it will respond to consistent care. Just remember to choose everything for its lubricating quality and take advantage of every opportunity to soothe and soften it. Since in the course of an ordinary day the skin must be cleansed several times, a cleanser such as this which both chases dirt and lubricates is a wise choice for the sensitive skinned woman.

'On Approval' Is Bea Lillie in Light Comedy

"ON APPROVAL"

Produced by English Films, Inc., directed by Clive Brook, featuring Clive Brook, Beatrice Lillie, Googie Withers, Roland Culver, O. B. Clarence, Lawrence Hanray, Elliot Mason, Hay Petrie, Marjorie Rhodes, Molly Munks. Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée

This is a veddy, veddy light English comedy from the pen of Frederick Lonsdale. It has Clive Brook and Bea Lillie, a great deal of dialog, some of which is excellent and occasionally funny, much of it merely conversation.

Miss Lillie is a shrewish and dominating widow, Mr. Brook a dissipated and completely selfish duke. They're both intent on matrimony —he reluctantly deciding to favor an American heiress for financial reasons only, she in businesslike fashion selecting a mousey little man. The widow wants to be sure of a good bargain, and decides to hie her victim off to her Scottish home for a month—strictly as a try-out. He is to spend the nights at a near-by hotel. His friend, the duke, plots to have the hotel filled; the American heiress decides she might as well look over the duke, so all four end up in Scotland. The virtuous servants leave—and under pressure of providing for themselves—true characters are revealed.

Mr. Brook does excellent work as the spoiled and sniffy duke, and the war of wills between him and Miss Lillie provides the real comedy of the film. However, I could stand a lot more of Bea, and a good deal less talk.

Plans for the national assembly March 24 to 26 at Atlantic City, N. J., will be made. Mrs. J. Birdsall Calkins, president of the national Y. W. C. A., will address tomorrow's session.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 18—Clark Gable is set to do "Christian of the Bounty," sequel to "Mutiny on the Bounty," in which Clark gave such a fine performance ten years ago. This story will deal with the adventures of Christian when he leaves his island hide-away to return to England and face trial for mutiny. Producer Carey Wilson and Clark will work with Author Charles Nordoff in preparing the screen play for Metro. . . . With Michael Curtiz directing "Life with Father," I'm hoping Warners will do the unexpected, but, what to me, would be perfect casting, and give the two lead roles to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Crouse, who originated them. They've lived these parts for five years now—they've become the people. Visitors to New York all try to buy seats for the play, and those who have not been lucky enough to land them would be delighted to see the originals on the screen. I know it will be said, "They're not known to screen fans." But, heck, neither was Helen Hayes when she came out here and took the Academy award for her first picture. I've heard that Metro's begging her to do some more.

I'll Bet You for Popularity

Fred Astaire's article on "Defense of the Race Horse" is bringing him in more fan mail than he ever received from his dancing. He'd get even more fan mail if he'd write one defending the guys who bet on 'em. . . . Barry Sullivan, who's now in "Glamour Girl," has formed a square dance group which meets at West Hollywood's Plummer park. With thirty top picture names in the club, they do everything from the Virginia reel to—so help me—one called "Duck the Oysters; Pass the Ham." . . . Jack Carson is assuring himself that a third generation of the family will go to St. John's Military academy in Delafield, Wis., by establishing a trust fund for his son's education there. . . . In the Dead End Kids' next picture, "High Gear," Leo Gorcey, toughest of the lot, comes under the influence of a priest and ends up a philanthropist. The crusade against juvenile delinquency is now complete. . . . Anne Gwynne and Attorney Max Gilford are so close that she's been hostess at his parties. . . . Sylvia Sidney and Hat Designer Walter Florell have become so chummy that when he throws his hat show at the Beverly Wilshire she'll do the modeling, and Joan Crawford will help. Incidentally, Joan's stock has taken such a rise since "Mildred Pierce" that she now has to choose from offers by three major studios.

It Happened One Night

Pamela Britton went east to meet her husband, Capt. Arthur Steele, just out of the army. Spending their first night in a Pennsylvania hotel, he left the room for cigarets and returned to find the lock had jammed. Not prayers nor swears could budge the thing. So—but naturally—he broke the door down. . . . Just as I was leaving Walter Pidgeon's dressing room, Ilona Massey reminded me that they were to rehearse a Viennese waltz for "Holiday in Mexico" the next day. Said Walter, "Now, dear, just forget about it. We'll run over the dance before they make the scene. Remember what happened when I rehearsed the dance I had to do with Greer Garson. Mervyn Leroy said I did it so badly he'd just leave it in the picture to get a laugh." . . . Leon Ames, whom you see in almost every M. G. M. picture, has just signed a new contract with that studio. He'll come into his own when "The Postman Always Rings Twice" is released. Believe it or not, Leon comes from Kokomo, Ind., and that ain't no vaudeville joke either.

Harpo Marx's Missing Link

If you have a print of "Humoresque," first picture made by the Marx Brothers, Harpo's offering $10,000 for it. It's the only one missing from his private collection of 16 mm. films, which will include the one he's making now—"Adventure in Casablanca." . . . Rudy Vallee will pinch hit for Ken Murray in "Blackouts" while Ken takes a week's vacation. After four years, it's due. . . . Frank Morgan, back to his old singing days, is making recordings for Decca with Al Sack and his orchestra. . . . Now that the war has released many of them from service, there seems to be a race on here to get English actors. Latest was Twentieth's signing Ralph Richardson, England's Clifton Webb, and three studios are bidding for Britain's top glamor girl, Ann Todd. What? More lend-lease? . . . "Abie's Irish Rose" will bloom before the cameras in January.

Household Forum

Mrs. Margaret S., Chicago — If you are new at curtain making and plan to make some curtains of ninon or other sheer material, play safe and make them with a triple fold of fabric in their heading. This permits let-down in case they shrink at cleaning time.

Mrs. Ed A., Evanston — A little starch in cotton curtains is certainly worth the extra time it takes after washing them. It keeps dust from getting imbedded in the fibers and dirt comes out more easily—at the next washing.

Mildred S., Forest Park—It took me some years to learn how to remove pin feathers from a turkey in fairly effortless fashion. Now I put my turkey in the oven and start roasting it. After a half an hour I remove it and pin feathers come out very easily with tweezers.

Cold Weather Brings Plea for Warm Clothing

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Today our attention is focused on the clothing requirements of several needy persons unable to adequately fortify themselves against the coming winter.

Miss P., living in a near north side rooming house and dependent upon an old age pension for support, has appealed for clothing of all kinds, particularly a heavy coat, dress and warm robe, size 44, and shoes, size 5½D. What few things she has are shabby and thin and do not afford sufficient warmth in her present state of health. Some months ago she was hospitalized and since has undergone extensive post-operative care. She is without means of telling the time, and the days drag slowly. Perhaps some one has an extra watch or clock in running order, which he would be willing to let her have.

The M. family comprises eight members, parents and six children, ranging in age from two months to seven years. The father is unable to work a full week because of a serious heart ailment. Consequently his earnings cannot cover essential household needs, such as blankets. Neighbors have passed on outgrown clothing to the children, but infant's wear and women's clothing, size 20, are urgently needed.

The income of the S. family cannot keep pace with rising living costs, and its members suffer proportionately for lack of warm clothing. Offers of women's apparel in size 18, boys' in sizes 8, 6 and 2, and girl's, size 9, will aid them immeasurably.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. E. R. Kreger, Neenah, Wis.]

THE QUESTION

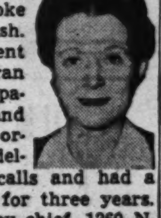
What necessity have you experienced which proved to be the mother of invention?

WHERE ASKED

167 E. Ontario st.

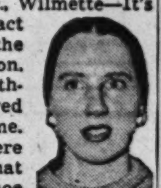
THE ANSWERS

Maid Marion Montgomery, business executive, 947 E. 87th pl.—I've always been on and off diets. I used to carry around several large books to keep track of calories. A friend suggested I write a pocket size calorie book. After months of research I finished a pocket guide called "Calorie Counters."

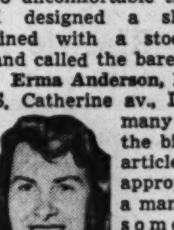


Constance Park, account executive, 443 Wrightwood av.—When I was going to high school I went broke and needed some cash. A friend and I went into business. We ran an ad in the newspaper—"Sandwiches and salads made to order." We were deluged with phone calls and had a profitable business for three years.

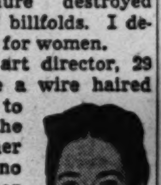
Sally Cheney, copy chief, 1260 N. Dearborn st.—My husband was stationed in Atlantic City when we were first married. Like all the other army couples, we traveled with very little baggage. I discovered that you can press your husband's trousers if, thru necessity, you must use a wedding handkerchief as a pressing cloth.



Nadine Brown, production manager, 1514 Maple av., Wilmette—It's a well known fact that necessity is the mother of invention. The fad of going without stockings inspired an invention for me. Foot stockings were so uncomfortable that I designed a shoe lined with a stocking-like fabric and called the barefoot original.



Erma Anderson, layout artist, 437 S. Catherine av., La Grange—Like many other fashions, the billfold is a man's article that women appropriated. When a manufacturer makes something for a woman he makes it small and dainty. This procedure destroyed the practical use of billfolds. I designed a big billfold for women.



Catherine Spies, art director, 29 E. Ohio st.—I have a wire haired terrier that used to pull me down the street. Talking to her or spanking had no effect. So I took her leash and looped it around her stomach. Now the dog walks ahead of me at a comfortable distance like a well behaved dog.

The Fur Lined Coat Is Smart and Practical

BY REA SEEGER

Extra warm winter coats with such interior decorations as fur are becoming more popular with shrewd shoppers every winter season. Far from being bulky, they are surprisingly svelte, and provide just as much weather insurance against wintry blasts as fur coats. They are the special delight of career girls, since most of the fur linings are of moderately priced pelts that include natural and dyed muskrats, sheepskin in white or yellow [used almost exclusively in active and spectator sports coats], caracul, dyed squirrel, civet cat, and lapin—the last in all shades and tricky dye jobs.

The black or deep brown or dark gray fabrics lined with fur make the smartest all-purpose coats, many doubling handsomely for party or evening clothes. Stunning contrasts are available, brown fur with black exteriors, brown with beige or gray, black with the dramatic marked black and white civet cat skins, classic all-black wool coats lined with striking contrast of white caracul or lapin, and, of course, the costlier coats of black lined with white ermine, definitely a dress parade model.

High colored wools of emerald, and scarlet, a few bright blue shades and coppery-gold tones, together with natural beige tones and many neutral grays make the best warm winter fur lined coat collections ever unpacked. You'll find them with and without snug fitted collars, a few with cuffs [the sleeves are not lined with the fur], and many made with the fur linings extending to the very edges so that turn-over lapels of fur can be managed. If you shiver over the prospect of penetrating winter weather and are out every day, a fur lined coat is the answer!

Families Again United Look to Thanksgiving

BY JUDITH CASS

PROSPECTS for Thanksgiving day family reunions are brighter than they have been in several years, with the steadily increasing arrival of ships at east and west coast ports bringing homecoming members from overseas. Here from her home in Oslo, Norway, for her first visit in six years, is Mrs. Johannes Zimmer, the former Margo Siqueland, who will be having Thanksgiving dinner in the Wilmette home of her mother, Mrs. Jens A. Paasche, and Mr. Paasche. Mrs. Paasche and her other daughter, Mrs. Ditlef Knudsen, met Mrs. Zimmer's boat in New York.

Mr. Knudsen will join his wife and two little boys in Wilmette for Thanksgiving, arriving from Montreal, where he was attached to the Norwegian legation. He now is being transferred to Oslo and will sail for his new post early next month, but his family will remain in Wilmette until next spring. Mrs. Zimmer is hoping that her husband, Dr. Zimmer, caught the last civilian boat which will leave Norway for some time for this country. He plans to take a year of advanced medical study here.

The Ernest S. Wauds' Thanksgiving will be made brighter by the return of their son, Morrison Waud, and his wife and their four children, who have bought a home in Lake Forest. Mr. Waud served in Dayton, O., as a major in the army air forces. His brother, Lt. Col. Sidney P. Waud, is expected the first of next month from Burma, where he has been in command of an army hospital since the beginning of the war. Col. Waud and his wife and their children, who have been living in Rumson, N. J., probably will be here by Christmas.

The David Danglers have welcomed home their son, Lt. Henry A. Dangler, who has been discharged after serving with the army air forces in Europe. Here possibly until Christmas will be Lt. [j. g.] Emerson Chandler, who is spending a 30 day leave with his parents, the Kent Chandlers, in Lake Forest. Capt. Kent Chandler Jr. of the marines, however, is in Japan, and another brother, Ensign Henry Chandler, is on duty in the Atlantic.

Lt. Comdr. J. Philip David, who is being released from the navy, and his wife will share Thanksgiving dinner in Hinsdale with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Brinkman, with whom they will spend the winter. Capt. Howard A. Brinkman of the air transport command will be released from the service later this month, when he returns from the C. B. I. theater of operations.

Presbyterian Hospital Teas

At this time every year Presbyterian women of the city and suburbs are occupied with a series of Thanksgiving teas to raise money for Presbyterian hospital. One of the most festive parties will be given in Hubbard Woods today in the beautiful colonial lakefront home of Mme. Robert Stuart, formerly the home of the late Mrs. Robert Cluett. Mme. Stuart, a nonagenarian, will be assisted by members of the Winnetka auxiliary of the hospital, and hospital volunteers from Winnetka, Glencoe, and Kenilworth.

These parties are called "silver teas," for the guests are encouraged to leave a bit of silver for the hospital in thanks for the hospitality of the afternoon. At Mme. Stuart's there will be a handsome silver bowl in the hallway where guests may leave checks and "folding money" as well as clinking coins. Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer, president of the American Medical association and head of the Presbyterian hospital department of urology, will speak on socialized medicine and tell how, if any, it would affect a hospital such as the Presbyterian.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and Mrs. John Dern will assist Mme. Stuart as hostesses today. Hospital board members who will pour include Mrs. Elven Berkheiser, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, Mrs. George A. Macdonald, and Mrs. James L. Garard. Mrs. Kellogg Speed of Highland Park is chairman of the Thanksgiving Offering committee for the hospital.

News of Newcomers

When the Hayden B. Harrises arrive in St. Paul, Minn., on Tuesday to spend Thanksgiving with their sons and families, they will be introduced to their fifth and newest grandchild, Susan Valeria Harris, the first child of Huntington Harris and the former Mary Hutchison. Susan was born on Nov. 9 in St. Paul, where the young Mrs. Harris has been living with her husband's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Small Harris, while he was in South Africa and Italy. Huntington Harris returned only a short time ago to join his family for the holiday. John Colville Hutchison of Chungking, China, and Mrs. Hutchison of England are the baby's maternal grandparents.

The senior Harrises, former Chicagoans, stopped here over the week-end on their way to St. Paul, and will return the end of the week for another visit before leaving for their home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Payne Bent II. [Alice Edwina Babst] of Greenwich, Conn., formerly of Chicago, became the parents recently of a daughter in Doctors hospital in New York. Mrs. Bent is the daughter of Earl D. Babst of New York and the late Mrs. Babst.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin H. Kiplinger [Mary Louise Cobb] are being congratulated on the birth of their first child, Todd Lawrence, on Nov. 10, in Evanston hospital. Mr. Kiplinger has just been released from the navy air forces, in which he was a lieutenant. He and Mrs. Kiplinger and the baby are living in Winnetka with her parents, the Evelyn P. Cobbs, until they move to Washington, D. C., the first of the year. Willard Kiplinger of Washington and Mrs. Irene Kiplinger of Toledo, O., are the baby's paternal grandparents.

On Today's Calendar

Among the many Vassar alumnae who have made reservations for the Chicago Vassar club's luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in the Arts club is a newcomer to Chicago, Mrs. Geddes Carrington. Hostesses today at the first large Vassar party since the war will be Mrs. Robert Wilcox, Mrs. William Beck Morse, Miss Dorothy Wrigley, and Miss Anne Ryerson. Mrs. Harold Pulsifer, president of the club, will preside. The speakers will be Miss Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of the Chicago Housing authority; Miss Jean Faricy, and Mrs. Peter Brandsness.

The money which the woman's auxiliary and members of the guilds of the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth will raise at their annual bazar and luncheon today will be used toward the new parish house which the church will erect as a memorial to men of the parish who gave their lives in World War II. The benefit, which will be open to the public, will be held from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. in the Kenilworth club. Mrs. Jesse H. Barnes and Mrs. A. G. Philips are co-chairmen.

The Margaret Etter creche will hold a membership tea at 4 p.m. today in the Arts club. Mrs. Peter D. Riednour II., chairman of the membership committee, and her assistants, Mrs. Thomas M. Smyth and Mrs. William Callison, will receive along with the officers of the creche, which is headed by Mrs. Leland R. Newell. Mrs. John H. Kraft and Mrs. John S. Nash will pour.

Opera Stars and Enthusiasts Mingle at Cocktail Party Given After Close of Season in Chicago

More Technical Display than Musical Depth in Artur Rubinstein's Orchestra Hall Recital

ONE of the more unreasonable quirks of human nature is to thrust some one on a pedestal and then feel aggrieved if he falls off. But when an artist before the public is so held up for admiration, it is at least partly his own fault. For example, I am convinced it was not in my imagination alone that Artur Rubinstein's stature had grown these last few seasons until it was taking on a solidity, almost a grandeur that made even his stupendous technique what any such technique should be, a means to the end of music. So when his Orchestra hall recital fell below that standard yesterday, it was disappointing. Much of Mr. Rubinstein's playing seemed to have reverted to purely technical display, and not all that display was perfection.

It was typical of his day that he sounded better in Liszt than in Beethoven. He began with two sonatas, the third, in E flat, of Beethoven's opus 31, and Liszt's in B minor, dedicated to Schumann. And tho he recently recorded a superb performance of the "Appassionata," yesterday's Beethoven, smooth as cream on the pianistic surface, caught little of the joyously fanciful character of the music.

The Liszt was masterfully played in the grand style, almost as if the Abbé himself were making that piano stand up on its hind leg, and while much of it was a glowing tribute to romanticism, not even Mr. Rubinstein could hide the fact that a great deal of it said nothing at all, at length.

The Chopin group was a puzzle. Last season Mr. Rubinstein played a Chopin recital of such breadth and nobility of utterance it actually seemed a plea for his native land. Yesterday he whirled over swift surfaces, evoking a wondrous richness of tone, a headlong, cascading brilliance, a silky spill of scales—and sometimes a muddled texture that muffled the inner voices in a cloud of confusion.

As aftermath, his flair for the Spanish idiom blazed briefly in his way with the "Dance of Fear" from Manuel de Falla's "Love, the Magician," and he played Gershwin's melancholy second prelude with a brooding distinction that acknowledged and substantiated its right to be heard on such a program. And then, because one of Mr. Rubinstein's delights is to pretend a piano is an orchestra, he played his own arrangement of the "Dance of the Seven Veils," from Strauss' "Salomé." As a technical adaptation it was a prodigious performance. But like so many orchestral performances of that deeply violent music, it overlooked the orgiastic morbidity that is the true nature of the score.

Notes

Hazel Peterson, a soprano from Milwaukee, won the second annual auditions of the Musical Arts Song Circle series, and will appear in recital at Orchestra hall Jan. 29. . . . For its first New York week, starting next Monday, the Metropolitan Opera will offer "Lohengrin," "Fidelio," "Rigoletto," "Der Rosenkavalier," "The Magic Flute," and "La Boheme." . . . Jerome Robbins is working on a musical about his experiences with Ballet Theater. It will be called, "Look Ma, I'm Dancing."

N.U. Opera Opens Tonight

The first opera to be presented by Northwestern university will be given today and tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. in the Cahn auditorium on the campus. The Northwestern a cappella choir will perform Smetena's comic opera, "The Bartered Bride." About 175 students will participate in the show.

Holy Name Societies Hear Stritch Plea to Aid Returning Yanks

Archbishop Stritch yesterday asked the archdiocesan Holy Name union to expand its program to assist the archbishop's veterans' committee in reëstablishing service men in civilian life. Speaking at the union's annual meeting in the Palmer House he urged that its military program be continued "until the last Catholic has been returned from the services."

Pointing to the rising divorce rate, Archbishop Stritch asserted that the Holy Name societies, being made up of laymen, could make a valuable contribution to the stability and sanctity of family life. He asked the societies to undertake studies during the year on the subject of ideal Catholic family life. He also announced that the Chicago Holy Name union had been affiliated with the National council of Catholic men. John Zvetina union president, presided.

Varied Concert Reminiscent of Chautauquas!

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

A variety concert, similar in style and purpose to those of many a well remembered small town summer evening in a Chautauqua tent, was given in Kimball hall last night by the Fairman octet before a large and apparently thoroly approving audience. The voices in the group—Nancy Carr and Beverly Watts, sopranos; Vera Jeske and Julia Sturges, contraltos; Lawrence Veit and William Balhatchet, tenors; Richard Schreiber, baritone, and Percy Fairman, bass—range from fair to excellent, and form an ensemble whose vocal quality alleviated the hodge-podge of program construction.

The choral sections of the program stressed the religious motif, and the opening set of pieces by Handel, Bach, and Martin, was to be commended for its smoothness of ensemble and the attractive freshness of the voices.

The next group endeavor—which might, for want of a better name, be called a streamlined version of Mendelssohn's "Elijah"—was successful according to the degree of the listener's lenience toward such "treatment." This consisted of a narration, with three gestures, by Mr. Fairman, of certain portions of the "Elijah" text, mainly that of the arias, interspersed with some of the choruses and ensembles reduced to octet size. The singers did their musical job well; but as we hinted before, it's all a matter of taste.

In and around these community efforts, four of the singers and the accompanist dashed on and off to perform solos of all styles and descriptions. Julia Sturges revealed a promising contralto voice hampered by an immature musical approach to Grieg's "Im Herbst" and the Seguidilla from "Carmen." Clara Friend played a Brahms Intermezzo and Rhapsody on the piano a bit nervously, so that they lacked the fine authority of her accompaniments. Lawrence Veit hammered at his tenor voice in Grieg's "Ich liebe dich" and "E lucevan le stelle" from "Tosca," as if determined then and there to free it from the constriction which inhibits its flexibility.

But it was Nancy Carr's soprano voice in Donaudy's "Spirate Pur, Spirate" and "Pleurez, pleurez, mes yeux" from "Le Cid" that made this reporter happiest by realizing the bright promise of her last season's debut. Miss Carr's voice and musical attainments have both reached a stage where she might justifiably cast eyes at the opera house. Too late for review, Richard Schreiber was also scheduled to sing songs for baritone.

Religious Seminar Leader to Address Church Federation

Dr. Ruth I. Seabury of Boston, who was in Chicago this fall as director of an international seminar at the Chicago Theological seminary, will be the keynote speaker on Friday at a meeting of the Women's division of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago. The assembly, to be held at 2 p. m. in the Chicago temple, 77 W. Washington st., is open to all interested women. A preliminary session for delegates is scheduled at 1 p. m.

Mrs. George L. Robinson, program chairman, arranged for the appearance of Dr. Seabury, who is secretary of the American board of Congregational Christian churches. The study course which Dr. Seabury conducts at the theological school has been designated "A Venture in Christian Internationalism" and has brought 10 Christian leaders to the United States for a year of fellowship deputation work and study. An equal number of American church leaders meet with the foreign representatives from India, Honduras, Syria, Mexico, China, France, and West Africa.

"With Bated Breath"

By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

INSTALMENT XIII.

A NEAR MISS

Geoffrey Treadgold was just closing up his office when Dr. Bruce appeared.

"Who's this?" he asked. "Well, I won't bar you out, my boy. Make it brief, tho, my dinner will be spoiling. Is it a professional call?"

"You're not going to charge me seven sixpence, Geoffrey old man, if that's what you're after," Bruce pushed his uncle's friend and chess opponent back into the office. "I'm rushed, too, I shan't even sit down. What's this miracle, not sherry?" For Mr. Treadgold, Solicitor, was opening up a green safe.

Geoffrey Treadgold chuckled. "Actually, my dear Cam, this prince of beverages hails, believe it or not, from no less a place than the famous Bolles cellar. One of a round dozen bottles little Erica Bolles sent me last Christmas."

"I've come to sound you about this same Miss Erica Bolles."

The eyes twinkling with geniality had all of a sudden become small flint scales. "O, drop your castiron shutters! You don't suppose I'd come here asking anything but the most ordinary stuff, do you? I'm not quite so big a fool."

Mr. Treadgold filled two delicately cut old wine glasses. "What is it you want to know?"

"Before I ask you," Bruce said, "I'll tell you why. Erica Bolles is my patient. I don't say that a bit of simple information just now may be the means of averting a serious catastrophe, but——"

"Good God! You're not by chance referring to that singularly nasty soldier mishap?"

"That's as may be. The point is, these two ladies are your clients."

"Stop," Geoffrey Treadgold set down his glass. "The Misses Bolles were my clients. Erica still is. Several years ago the elder lady saw fit to remove her affairs in toto from my hands."

Bruce gaped. "Maud did that! In heaven's name why?"

"For no reason worth citing. Call it a disa[illegible]—a clash of wills. As you [illegible] realize, the senior Miss Bolles is a woman of strong opinions. I offended her, she simply walked out. Well?"

Bruce could not see that this development altered matters. "My question is this: Just how did old Simon, the father, leave his money?"

"No secret about that. To his two daughters. In equal shares."

"Good. And what happens if one of them dies?"

"If she dies intestate, the surviving sister falls heir. There's nothing, however, to prevent either sister from executing a contrary will."

"I see," Bruce pondered. "Looks, doesn't it, as if Simon considered his younger daughter amply qualified to manage her own affairs."

"Entirely so," Treadgold confirmed. "When the woolen show liquidated—it had been moved up to Lancashire, you know, after the fire—Simon put all his fortune into rock solid bonds. Any numbskull can sit back and draw fat dividends at regularized intervals."

"I dare say. Not so fat now, I take it?"

"Well! Income tax slices it down, naturally; but offhand one may say that only a social earthquake is likely to send their ship on the shoals. Was that all?"

"Substantially, yes. Do you happen to know what man of business Maud now employs?"

"I do not,"—stiffly. "For all I know she may be dispensing altogether with legal assistance. Any good my asking just what maggot you've got in your medical brain?"

"Not the slightest. O, one further detail: Has Erica made a will?"

"Has she! In my time alone, Erica has made three."

"Three wills!" Avis, in the car, fended for air. "And you say she's made bonfires of the lot?"

Only when the words were uttered did their full sense burst on her. If the third and last will had been destroyed, then Erica was intestate now. Meanwhile the man at the wheel was steering a steady course thru the town. Only at the final loop before Turrets did he halt, cut off his engine. In the hush a couple of gunshots popped like firecrackers.

"It's not good enough," he stated. "My advice is, clear out."

"What for?"

"See here, Avis," annoyedly.

"But there's been one go at poor Erica. The next try may come off. Aren't you thankful I'm on this spot?"

"Not quite so fast. I'm wondering if you fully appreciate Maud's position in this locale? Every charity fawns on her, she's the heaviest subscriber to the church——"

"Hospital too, I imagine?"

"Undoubtedly," Bruce rasped. "Tho she no longer retains a stranglehold on the board. I merely point these facts out to you in order that you may think twice before you set Erica's sister against you."

"Then," Avis triumphed, "you do believe Agatha Trimble was framed!" He did not reply. "Yes," she said softly, "and if Maud discovers I've been hobnobbing at Heath Villas, my number will be up. I'm getting out here, in case we're caught conspiring." Avis slid nimbly to the ground. "You're already in Maud's black book, aren't you? Well, she's paying me to keep watch over Erica. She'll get her money's worth—and how!"

Barely 200 yards to go, but warm comfort in her knowledge that the man in the rear had only turned and was waiting till she had got safely inside. The sharp pop-popping from the surrounding fields had come to an end. As she sped thru the gray gauze of evening she heard not a sound. Not till she had set foot within the gate.

Zip!

The thundering impact loosened every tooth. Her hat, blasted from her head, flew skittering up the drive.

Robin rounded the house from the back, whistling to his dog. Seeing her stooped over the gravel he asked if she had lost something. Then, as she straightened up: "That's not blood on your chin, is it?" he accused.

She touched stinging wetness, laughed shakily, and held out her hat. "That's funny, the bullet went here."

Thru the mist soaked gloom she saw him scowl in total disbelief at the pair of neatly drilled holes penetrating the high felt crown. "Bullet? Did you say bullet?" At the sound of a deprecatory cough he looked angrily past her to Oscar Moravian's muffler wound figure at that moment sliding in at the gate. "How did you get out here?" he demanded. "I left you inside."

"A wild gunshot, one imagines," Moravian murmured gravely, ignoring the young man's implication. "An exceedingly near miss!"

Avis said: "Yes, and for you too."

With Thanksgiving just a few days away, it's high time to turn your thoughts to stuffings for the festive fowl. A good stuffing is one that is lightweight and well flavored, but somewhat bland. You don't want the seasoning to overpower the delicate fowl flavor.

White bread is the most commonly used filler, but other breads or starchy substances like crackers, rolled oats, or rice, may be used. Bread about two days old cut into one-half to one inch cubes is best, since soft or finely crumbed bread results in a heavy, soggy stuffing.

Another reason for a compact, indigestible mass is overfilling the cavity of the bird. Stuffing expands during cooking, and extra space should be left. A good way to estimate the amount of stuffing needed is to allow one cup for each pound of bird.

Probably the most popular stuffing is the one made with bread and seasoned with sage, onion, and celery, but for this special occasion, why not try a special stuffing? Here are some favorite ones.

Holiday Stuffing for Chicken
[Six pound fowl]

3 cups stale bread, cubed
½ cup broken nut meats
1 3-oz. bottle stuffed olives, sliced
½ cup chicken or turkey stock
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped mushrooms
3 tablespoons melted butter
¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¾ teaspoon salt

Prepare bread cubes, nutmeats, and olives and add stock. Cook onion, celery, and mushrooms in butter and add seasonings. Add to bread mixture and toss lightly. Stuff into fowl and roast as usual. For turkey stuffing, double or triple amounts.

Oyster Stuffing for Turkey
[Small turkey]

5 cups stale bread, cubed
1 teaspoon mixed dried powdered herbs
1 pinch grated nutmeg
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons butter
1 pint oysters
2 eggs, well beaten

Mix bread with herbs, salt, and nutmeg. Drain liquor from oysters and bring to boil. Add bread and butter. Heat oysters in double boiler until edges curl, then mince and add to bread mixture. Add beaten eggs and stuff into fowl.

Fruit Stuffing for Goose or Duck

2 cups chopped cooked prunes
2 cups chopped apples
3 cups stale bread, cubed
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup pineapple juice

Combine fruits lightly with bread, and add enough pineapple juice to moisten. Blend ingredients lightly and stuff into fowl.

Equal amounts of halved, cooked apples and whole cooked prunes may be used to stuff a goose or duck without the addition of other ingredients. Half a cup of blanched almonds may be used with the fruit, if preferred.

Sausage Stuffing for Turkey
[16 pound fowl]

2 loaves stale bread, cubed
1 pound fresh pork sausage
1 cup chopped onions
1 teaspoon salt [more if needed]
⅓ teaspoon sage

Remove bread crusts and cut into cubes of uniform size. Fry sausage and onions together until sausage is cooked and onions are brown. Stir frequently while cooking. Add bread, salt, and sage and toss lightly. Stuff into fowl.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Spiced Date Bars
[Makes 16]

1 egg yolk
¾ cup brown sugar
¼ cup molasses
½ cup sour cream
1½ cups flour
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup chopped dates
1 egg white
½ cup confectioners' sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Mix egg yolk, brown sugar, molasses, and cream; add sifted dry ingredients, nuts, and dates and beat until smooth. Spread in a greased baking pan, 8 by 12 inches, and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 15 minutes. Beat egg white until stiff; gradually beat in sugar, salt, and flavoring. When cool ice and cut into 16 bars.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠— ♥QJ42 ♦Q7643 ♣Q1072

What is your response?

A.—Pass. While an occasional game will be lost in this manner such procedure is bound to be more profitable in the long run. No satisfactory bid is available. To respond with one no trump with a void suit is hardly desirable, and a bid of two of a suit is out of the question with but three queens. Furthermore if you act it is more than likely that partner's next call will be a spade rebid. The pass has the further advantage of occasionally inducing fourth hand to reopen the bidding, which would afford you an opportunity to act appropriately.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠72 ♥QJ104 ♦Q10 ♣AQ1063

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. Despite partner's minimum rebid, hope for game should not be abandoned. When you regard your diamond holding as promoted by reason of partner's bid in that suit, your hand is the equal of an opening bid and game should therefore be likely.

Q. 3—Partner opens with two no trump and you hold:

♠Q752 ♥K973 ♦KQ54 ♣K

What is your response?

A.—Six no trump. Simple arithmetic will reveal that the opposition cannot have more than one trick. Partner holds five and one-half and you have over two. Or on a point count basis, partner has a minimum of 22 and you have 13. That gives your side at least 35 of a possible 40.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠10952 ♥K975 ♦AKQ9 ♣7

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	2 spades
Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Tho partner has a minimum, you have enough to undertake a game contract. If you should bid only three hearts that would be a mere competitive bid and opener would not be under obligation to proceed to game. When you consider the value of the singleton club you have more than the equivalent of an opening bid and there should be no question as to game. You have the additional comfort of knowing that partner can hardly have more than one spade, since both opponents have bid them.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠K108 ♥Q10985 ♦K105 ♣J9

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds or three hearts. The important consideration is that you must make one mild effort to get to game. When the king of diamonds is looked upon as a full trick, you have the equivalent of about two honor tricks and a five card suit which in view of partner's opening bid and raise should give you some sort of chance for game. If partner has already shot his full bolt he need not go on to game, but if he has a sound hand he will take you on.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠K974 ♥1095 ♦AQ ♣AQJ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump with four spades as our second choice. While ordinarily with a doubleton and four trumps we prefer the major suit game, in this case the doubleton consists of two high cards and since it is very probable that partner has the king of that suit the shortness will likely not come into play. Hands of this type frequently reach for nine tricks, but not for 10, particularly if Spades happen to break badly.

Q. 7—As North you hold:

♠J5 ♥KQ2 ♦Q104 ♣AKQ95

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has indicated a strong hand by making it impossible for you to return to two diamonds. Such a sequence of bids is referred to in certain circles as a "reverse," but regardless of the term such a sequence of bids should not be adopted by the opener unless he is prepared to be taken back to three of his first suit, which means that he must have a powerful hand. Our preferred bid is six no trump, tho we will accept a five no trump bid with a rather aggressive partner.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠A1075 ♥KJ4 ♦AJ92 ♣J3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Sinc you have the equal of an opening bid and partner has opened and jumped, a slam is highly likely. The recommended bid is three spades, to allow for the occasional hand where partner holding a four card biddable spade suit has preferred to suppress it in favor of the no trump jump. If partner goes on to three no trump as may be expected you should then raise the no trump in proportion to the known habits of your partner. If he is very conservative you might bid the slam yourself, if he is aggressive you should raise to four or five.

The Years Roll Back at Merry Olds Pageant

A 50 year panorama of man's prized material possession—his automobile—and woman's cherished fashions was witnessed by 18,000 persons yesterday at the Parade of Fashions show in the Museum of Science and Industry. There were a style show, movies, lectures, and a radio program, sponsored by the museum as part of the golden jubilee program celebrating 50 years of automotive progress. The day was designated as "Oldsmobile day."

Trends of woman's styles, both old and new, were demonstrated by a stage show in which a business girl of 1900, garbed in rust taffeta and black lace, appeared to dream about the future.

In contrast to the cumbersome costume of the dreamer's day, models showed how modern work dresses can be reconverted quickly for evening wear by changing accessories.

Models for the present day dresses were Miss Jean Higgins, 22, secretary for an oil company; Miss Willie Sephan, 22, secretary for a life insurance company, and Mrs. Mary Sim, 24, an office worker.

Three automobiles made in 1903 took service men for short rides around the museum grounds during the afternoon. Visitors saw 150 old cars, including a five passenger 1900 Mobile Steamer, which cost $1,000 and was advertised as having "a smooth, flexible flow of power without the necessity of shifting gears" and a 1910 Oldsmobile Limited, which cost $5,000, had 42 inch tires, and boasted in advertising that it had "a look of amplitude with adequate, luxurious power."

A Gift for Ellen Mary

Ellen Mary was 2 today,
So all alone by myself,
I wandered about from store to store,
My eyes searching every shelf;
For I wanted to buy her a present, you see,
With no outside help whatever,
So that when they'd see it they'd all exclaim,
"But really now, isn't he clever?"

And that is exactly what they said
When they saw the little blue dress
That I had selected to go with her eyes,
[I was proud of it, I'll confess];
"But how did you ever?" they raptly inquired,
"Get that match so perfect and true?
It's the very identical shade of her eyes,
That lovely, deep, deep blue!"

But I didn't tell them how simple it was—
I merely glanced up at the skies,
And that heavenly blue was the same, I knew,
As Ellen Mary's eyes!

FENWICK BEATS ST. GEORGE, 18-6

Friars Gain Title Berth Thru Play-Off Victory

BY DAVID CONDON

Fenwick High school's football team, 1944 Catholic league north section champion, yesterday captured the south section crown by defeating St. George, 18 to 6, before 15,000 in Soldiers' field.

The game was the second between the elevens this season, a previous meeting resulting in a 7 to 7 draw which necessitated the play-off. Fenwick's next stop on the route it hopes will lead to its first all-city title since 1936 will be against St. Ignatius, north section winner, for the league championship next Sunday in Soldiers' field. The winner then will play the City league champion Dec. 1 for the all-city title in the Kelly Bowl.

Two important factors stood out in the Fenwick victory — the running performances of Roger [Moose] Brown, veteran half back, and the equally important play of the stalwart Friar line.

Brown Is Individual Star

Brown scored all the Friar touchdowns and repeatedly broke away for long gains. The line accomplished the difficult job of halting Larry [Red] Coutre, speedy Dragon back who already has been ranked as one of the better performers in the state.

So completely was the red-haired star halted that only once, in the second quarter when he scampered from the Fenwick 29 to the 10, did he look like the Coutre who had averaged more than 12 yards per try in 98 attempts previous to yesterday's play-off game. Even this gain was nullified when the play was called back and the Dragons assessed 15 yards for clipping.

Neither eleven was able to accomplish much thruout the first two periods, the contest being scoreless at half time, appearances indicating a hard fought struggle that might end in another tie, possibly without score.

Penalties Hurt Dragons

This changed soon after the kick-off opening the third quarter with penalties setting up the first Friar score. Fenwick kicked off and Coutre returned to the 21. A line play failed and a holding penalty set the Dragons back to the 6. Al Brennan's punt rolled dead on the 30 and Fenwick took over. Dick Martin failed to gain, then slashed to the 18. Two consecutive offside penalties moved the ball down to the 8, from where Bill Crowley smashed to the 4. The St. George line broke thru on the next play and it appeared as if Brown was trapped for a loss. He dropped back, ran wide to right end, and cut down the field to score standing up. Frank Consago missed the point and Fenwick led, 6 to 0.

Scores on Long Run

The Friars added another touchdown immediately thereafter, Brown going 43 yards around right end. Consago again missed the attempt and Fenwick led, 12 to 0.

St. George's touchdown came midway in the fourth period on a multiple lateral play with no one certain exactly what happened. Bob Boller broke out of a melee and ran 60 yards to score after it looked as tho the play had been stopped. The action developed from the St. George 19 yard line where Boller had been downed after taking Martin's punt.

Brennan took the ball from center, and lateraled to Coutre. Coutre flipped to Don Dufek, who continued near the 40 with the Fenwick defense pressing him to the sideline. Somewhere along the route, he lateraled to Boller, who broke out of the mass on the 40 and continued his lonesome way for the touchdown.

In the closing minutes Brown cut thru tackle to cross from the 5. The try for the point failed.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Blackhawks led the Detroit Red Wings 1 to 0, 2 to 1, and 3 to 2 last night, but thereafter everything turned red and at the end the Detroiters were the victors, 5 to 3. A crowd of 18,186, which lifted the total for four home games to 74,658, was on hand to see this first Chicago Stadium loss for the Hawks, the second triumph of the Detroiters over Chicago in four nights.

The old practice of showering debris from the shelves was resumed even before the Hawks fell in arrears, once causing Referee Bill Chadwick to threaten to order the teams from the rink. Tho Chadwick's work displeased the fans the inadequacies of the Hawk defense, other than Goalie Mike Karakas, were the main source of most of the Hawk failure.

Detroit's victory enabled the Red Wings to tie the Montreal Canadiens for the league lead. Each has seven victories and two losses.

Starts Like a Hawk Night

Things started off like it was to be a great night for the Chicago fans. Pete Horeck scored the first goal when the game was only 29 seconds old. Red Hamill went across the middle of the Detroit blue line, swerved to his left, took a shot and before Goalie Harry Lumley could clear the rebound Horeck jammed the rubber into the cage.

Shortly after the opening goal Horeck was thrown into the penalty box and Carl Liscombe scored the first tying goal from far out, after Karakas had been knocked down. The time was 2:45.

The Hawks took a 2 to 1 edge in 7:16 of the first period on a spectacular shot by Bill Mosienko, with Max Bentley assisting.

The 2 to 1 count stood until 8:45 of the second period, when Bill Quackenbush tied the score from 6 feet out, after Flash Hollett had bounced a shot off Karakas' boots.

Last Lead for Hawks

A long shot by George Allen from the left boards, after Doug Bentley had sent the puck in with a carom drive around the end boards gave the Hawks their third and last lead in 13:02 of the second period.

The score became 3 to 3 in 14:44 of the middle period, when Joe Carveth scored on a long one after taking the puck from Quackenbush.

Liscombe scored what proved to be the winning goal with his second marker of the evening. It was effected on a breakaway when the Hawks were executing a power attack. Liscombe easily outskated the Hawk defense for an unchallenged shot. The time was 1:34 of the final period.

Detroits' Defense Strong

The goal the Wings didn't need was scored by Gerry Couture, who also got back of the Chicago defense after getting the rubber from Adam Brown. The time on this one was 8:32.

Thereafter the strong Detroit defense smothered the Hawks completely while the offense made things miserable for Karakas, tho the Wings couldn't quite fatten their already adequate advantage.

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The New York Giants dropped Detroit into second place in the National Football league's Western division race by scoring an upset victory over the Lions, 35 to 14, in the Polo Grounds today.

The defeat was the second for Detroit and the victory, achieved almost entirely thru forward passes, the second of the season for New York.

The Lions will meet the Cleveland Rams, leaders in the west, Thursday and must win to keep their title hopes alive.

Hovious Sparks Giants' Attack

Junior Hovious, who less than a month ago rejoined the Giants after his discharge from the army, took over the left half back duties for the Giants and to the surprise of the Detroiters as well as the 34,460 paying customers, tossed 19 passes and figured in all of the Giant tallies. The former Mississippi star completed 10 of them, mostly to Frank Liebel.

Each team scored a touchdown in the first four minutes, Sam Fox's interception of Dave Ryan's pass setting up the Giants' first touchdown. After a Hovious to Ward Cuff pass of eight yards brought it to the Lion 4, Steve Filipowicz plunged over on the third try.

Bob Westfall's 18 yard pass to Ryan and the latter's 45 yard run after eluding Cuff, safety man, followed almost immediately.

Westfall, former Michigan full back, plunged for the second Lion score early in the fourth period, but the Giants had built up a big margin in the second on a pair of touchdowns, both manufactured by Hovious to Liebel passes. The second tally came from 52 yards out, the throw being for 31 yards.

Two Catch Ball at Same Time

A Hovious to Liebel pass for a 40 yard gain set up the first of the New Yorkers' touchdowns in the final quarter, altho it was scored by Fox on a toss from the Mississippi star.

The final scoring drive got under way when Hovious again passed to Liebel, who caught the ball simultaneously with Elmer Hackney of the Lions. With their arms entwined around the ball, they both fell to the ground and turned a flipflop. The referee ruled the ball belonged to Liebel, and the Giants sent Howie Livingston on a 16 yard jaunt on the next play. Two plays later and he was across. Statistics:

Hoosiers May Be New Note in Old Refrain

BY WILFRID SMITH

Western conference football competition comes to the ultimate Saturday much as it did a year ago with the important exception that Indiana university has an excellent opportunity to gain its first title. The undefeated Hoosiers, who added Pittsburgh to their list last Saturday, 19 to 0, meet Purdue in Bloomington. If they are victorious, the Big Nine gonfalon will fly from the Indiana flagpole.

The championship script is repetitious, however, in that Michigan and Ohio State thetoretically have a title battle for themselves in Ann Arbor. If the Hoosiers should lose to Purdue, then the winner of the Ohio State-Michigan game will win the championship. Last year, under the same circumstance, the Buckeyes whipped Michigan for a ninth consecutive victory in an undefeated campaign.

Hoosiers Tied by N. U.

If Ohio State again whips Michigan the Buckeyes will have six conference victories against a defeat by Purdue. Michigan, playing a six game schedule, can win the title with five victories despite its defeat by Indiana. The Hoosiers can not tie Michigan because Northwestern held them to a 7 to 7 score back in September and Ohio State has the additional advantage of its seven game schedule.

So much for the alignment for the concluding week of the season. The news of last Saturday was Iowa's defeat of Minnesota which climaxed one of the most unusual seasons any team ever had. The Gophers began as co-favorites for the conference title with Ohio State on the basis of veteran material. They opened their title quest with a 30 to 7 defeat of Northwestern.

Thereafter, Minnesota lost to Ohio State, Michigan, and Indiana. In the latter game the Hoosiers' 49 points set a record for the debit side of the Minnesota ledger. Then, last Saturday the Gophers yielded to Iowa's fourth period rally and lost 20 to 19. It was Iowa's first conference conquest in 17 games.

Hoosiers' Defense Strong

Other midwestern games followed predictions. Ohio State finally punctured Illinois' defenses to take a convincing 27 to 2 victory in preparation for the battle with Michigan this week. The crowd of more than 70,000 was the third that size in the Buckeyes' stadium this season.

Indiana limited Pittsburgh to 18 yards by rushing. A week earlier Minnesota was held to 20 yards, so here is evidence of the ground defense Purdue will meet in Bloomington Saturday afternoon. Purdue was vulnerable to Michigan's air attack last Saturday with Pete Elliott doing the pitching since Capt. Joe Ponsetto is absent because of injury.

Irish Secondary Strong

The value of backs who can travel on their own after clearing the line of scrimmage never was more thoroly demonstrated than in Notre Dame's 34 to 7 victory over Northwestern. The Wildcats surprised with the efficiency of their line attack—they made 11 of their 17 first downs by rushing—but no Northwestern runner could escape the secondary for long runs. Thus the Wildcats had 56 rushing plays to Notre Dame's 39 but the Irish did all the scoring until the last quarter.

Great Lakes ran over Fort Warren Saturday 47 to 14 which points to trouble for Notre Dame in the final game of the season Dec. 1 at the navy training center.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18—Washington's Redskins today retained full ownership of first place in the eastern division of the National Football league with a 28 to 21 victory over a Chicago Bear eleven which, for quite a stretch this afternoon, looked like the old Bear team which once ran the Redskins into the ground here by a slight margin of 73 to 0.

The Bears, led by Sid Luckman, Ken Kavanaugh, George Wilson, and their old time buddy, George McAfee, were out in front, 21 to 14, at the outset of the final quarter. Then the orchestra with which George Preston Marshall embellishes his contests, having spent the afternoon in playing dirges, burst into gleeful melody as his young men ran up 14 points in the final quarter.

Bagarus Sparks Redskins

Most of the 34,788 citizens who crowded into Griffith stadium were right happy about the whole business, altho a few Chicagoans were rather curious about the wandering line chain holder who managed to be looking out of the window just as the Bears were about to make a first down inside the Washington 18 yard mark with two minutes to go.

Outstanding performer this afternoon was a former second string quarter back from Notre Dame, by name Steve Bagarus.

Bears Score on Pass

The first quarter 7 to 7 deadlock was the result of the most interesting quarters of the season. Bob Margarita touched off the opening score with a pass interception which he proceeded to move to the Redskin 27 yard mark before he was finally detained. Sid Luckman pitched to George Wilson, who went on to the Washington 15 yard mark. This advantage was soon nullified by two penalty assessments against the Chicagoans, one for defensive holding and the other for off side. Luckman then began a passing session which finally was frustrated on the Redskins 7 yard stripe.

Johnny Schiechl then burst thru to block on the Redskins 33, a punt by Dick Todd, and on the next play Luckman passed to Ken Kavanaugh for a touchdown which Ken fielded on the four yard mark before jogging over. Pete Gudauskas added the extra point.

Washington bounced back with a touchdown on the ensuing kick-off, traveling 72 yards in the course of same. Bagarus was the author of much of this quickly profitable movement, not to mention Joe Aguirre. The two of them caught Sammy

BY EDWARD PRELL

The Cleveland Rams found the cellar dwelling Chicago Cardinals unwilling allies at times yesterday in their headlong dash for a first National Football league Western division championship.

On three occasions the Cardinals became so menacing that they raised false hopes among the 17,023 who sat in bright sunshine in Comiskey park, but at the finish the gifted young Ohio eleven had definitely overcome spotty opposition for a 35 to 21 triumph. This gave the Rams a clear title to first place in the west, and the Cards their eighth defeat in nine games.

May Clinch Title Thursday

The Rams can be champions long before the sun sets on Thanksgiving day when they play the second place Lions a morning game in Detroit. The Lions, tripped yesterday by the Giants in New York, must beat the Rams Thursday to get back in the Western race. Each has two games remaining.

The Rams threatened to make yesterday's game a runaway by taking a 14 to 0 lead in the first quarter. Thereafter an exchange of touchdowns developed and the Cards twice reduced Cleveland's lead to seven points.

Benton Best Pass Catcher

Paul Christman took the star role in the aerial show with 19 completions in 44 passes. He had a run of eight straight late in the second quarter and early in the third period. Bob Waterfield was more frugal with his pitches, the Rams firing 20 and connecting on a dozen. But he had the best pass catcher on the field, big Jim Benton, who took one throw for a touchdown and two other long ones which put the ball within plunging distance of the Chicago goal.

The Rams went 66 yards for their first touchdown after stopping the Cards' first penetration. Fred Gehrke, who wrecked the Green Bay Packers last week with two long touchdown runs, started the Rams' explosive T formation attack by running 16 yards. Benton reached for Waterfield's high pass and skidded to the 4 yard line. The Rams showed some goal line hesitation, but Waterfield finally passed to Steve Pritko for the touchdown and then kicked goal.

West Recovers Chicago Fumble

When Ernie Bonelli, Card back, fumbled shortly after the Ram kick-off, Pat West recovered on the Chicago 40. On third down Pritko took Waterfield's short pass and hiked to the 21. Then Gehrke ran wide

CLIPPER SMITH VOTES ARMY'S TEAM GREATEST

Even Rates Cadets Over Four Horsemen

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The arguments have started whether Army's unbeaten and untied cadets are the greatest college football team ever assembled.

One vote for the affirmative side comes from Maurice [Clipper] Smith, former Villanova coach recently discharged from the marines after service as a captain.

After watching the cadets chalk up their 17th straight victory yesterday by swamping Pennsylvania, 61 to 0, he termed the West Pointers the greatest team of the century.

Smith a Pupil of Rockne

Smith, recently signed as coach at the University of San Francisco, effective next year, is a former star lineman under the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and is a veteran of more than 20 years' coaching.

"Army is better than any other team I ever saw," said Clipper. "The way Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard and the other boys work that T formation is marvelous. Their explosive speed is a delight to watch. And their lightning alertness on pass defense is phenomenal. They are durable, too. They never get hurt. They can have an off day and still win."

May Never Be Answered

Smith pointed out the question of Army's greatness may never be answered because it's "like saying Jack Dempsey, at his prime, could whip Joe Louis," but he picked the cadets over such standout teams of other years as 1924's Four Horsemen of Notre Dame; the wonder California teams, under Andy Smith; Southern California, under Howard Jones; Michigan of the Fielding Yost era; Minnesota's prewar power houses; the Texas Aggies of John Kimbrough's day, and Pittsburgh when Marshall Goldberg starred for the Panthers.

Against Army, Smith doesn't think Navy has a chance, but added that Alabama and the Oklahoma Aggies, both unbeaten and untied, might give the cadets some opposition because of their stars, Harry Gilmer and Bob Fenimore, respectively. The cadets are not scheduled to play either Alabama or the Aggies.

AUSTIN, SCHURZ FLIP COIN TODAY FOR TITLE BERTH

The flip of a coin in the office of August H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the board of education, today will decide whether the Schurz or Austin High School football team will oppose Tilden Tech for the City league championship in Soldiers' field Saturday.

Austin and Schurz played a 7 to 7 tie in the semi-final playoffs Saturday, while Tilden defeated Fenger, 30 to 19. Representatives of Austin, Schurz and Tilden will attend today's meeting, at 10 a. m. Following the toss, Coach Chuck Harvey of Tilden and the coach of the winning team, will select officials for the championship game.

Work of Art

"Some have the gift of song,
And some can write or paint,
But I've no time for art,"
A mother voiced her plaint.

But with consumate skill
She formed her daughter's heart—
This mother who complained
She had no time for art.

O, wistful mothers all,
Too busy thru the years:
On work conceived in love

Worlds Boxes Chaney in Marigold Ring

Clayton Worlds, 1941 city Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, and Collon Chaney of Indianapolis will meet in a 10 round return bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace st.

Worlds, who stands 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 196 pounds, is quite proud of his skill, which has enabled him to score three straight victories. However, he can hardly be smug about what he will do against Chaney. The latter is fully conscious of the fact he dealt Worlds his last previous defeat and doesn't see why he can't duplicate the achievement in this evening's encore.

Larry Jenke, Cincinnati 155 pounder, who knocked out Johnny O'Hara in the Marigold arena two weeks ago, will try his luck against Al Jackson in a five round semi-windup.

Other bouts:

Mel Workman vs. Bob West [5]; Hank Okura vs. Butch Maxwell [4]; Oliver Cobbins vs. Oscar Williams [4]; Willie Gaines vs. Curtis Filer [4].

Frank Maniaci and Stan Buresh will be pitted against Zack Malkov and Sid Hayes in an Australian tag team match featuring a wrestling show tonight in White City, 63d st. and South Park av.

LESLIE FACES BARTOLO

New Orleans, La., Nov. 18 [AP]—Jock Leslie, Flint, Mich., featherweight, a Golden Gloves graduate, will meet Champion Sal Bartolo, Boston, in a 10 round nontitle match tomorrow night in the Coliseum. Leslie, 21 years old, has scored six consecutive victories.

RAMS INCREASE LEAD; WIN OVER CARDS, 35 TO 21

Christman's 35 yard pass to Ed Rucinski put the Cards on the Rams' 32 as the quarter ended. Bill Dewell stopped this rally on the third play of the second period when he fumbled after taking Christman's pass on Cleveland's 40. Waterfield fumbled on the first play, the ball bouncing back to the Rams' 9, where Chet Bulger, a tackle, picked it up for a surprise touchdown. Joe Kuharich kicked the first of three extra points.

Gehrke Intercepts Pass

The Rams came right back when Gehrke intercepted Christman's pass and returned to the Cards' 48. Jim Gillette raced 36 yards to the Cards, 16 and after Gehrke lost 5 yards, Waterfield pitched to Benton in the corner. Big Jim stepped over.

After the kick-off Christman started his pitching streak, completing six straight for 78 yards and a score. Rucinski took the first two for 22 and 1. Dewell caught the next one for 10. Then followed one to Rucinski for 13, and another to Cantor for 11 to the Rams' 21. Riley Matheson, Cleveland guard, deflected Paul's next pass, Jim Poole catching it on the 8 and running over. This sliced Cleveland's advantage to 21 to 14.

Rams Go 61 Yards in 4 Plays

Midway in the third period the Rams scored in four plays in a quick 61 yard strike. Gillette got 6, then picked up 10 to the Cards' 45. Pritko took a 9 yard pass. With the Cards expecting a plunge for first down, Waterfield fired the ball to Benton under the goal posts, and his kick boosted the lead to 28 to 14.

On the first play of the fourth quarter Rucinski leaped for Christman's pass on the Ram's 22 for a 24 yard gain. Frank Seno captured a third down pass and ran 5 yards to the 6. On third down Christman passed to Rucinski in the end zone.

Lead Too Thin, They Score Again

For the third time the Rams deemed a seven point lead too skimpy. Tom Colella returned the kick-off to his 35 and in seven plays Cleveland scored again, Greenwood going over from the 6. Statistics:

PACKERS DEFEAT YANKS, 28 TO 0; HUTSON GETS 10

33,000 Jam Fenway Park to See Game

Boston, Mass., Nov. 18 (AP)—With Veteran Don Hutson having customary pass catching success and Lou Brock ripping the line to shreds, the Green Bay Packers shut out the Boston Yanks, 28 to 0, in a National Football league game here today before 33,000 in Fenway park.

It was the largest paying throng in the history of Boston's professional football and the Yanks, while being held scoreless for the first time in their eight 1945 league starts, appeared feeble from start to finish, despite the ideal playing conditions.

Hutson, who remained out of the starting lineup, made an early appearance and, in addition to scoring one of Green Bay's four touchdowns caught five of the eight passes thrown at him for a total of 59 yards and made a 6 yard advance on his one end around dash.

Lipscomb Recovers Fumble

The Packers clinched their fifth victory of the campaign early in the opening period, after Tackle Paul Lipscomb set the stage for their first touchdown by recovering George Cafego's fumble on Boston's 28.

Lou Brock, who spelled Joe Laws at right half back, then ripped thru the Yanks' line twice for his first score, made from 19 yards out. Hutson then added the first of his four placement extra points.

Late in the second period, Bernie Crimmins ran 12 yards for a touchdown after intercepting a Cafego pass and with only 25 seconds left in the half, the Packers took to the air again and the sharp shooting Irv Comp tossed to Brock on Boston's 10 for a 50 yard gain before contacting Hutson in the Yanks' end zone.

Brock Makes Touchdown Drive

Their second fumble, midway thru the final, also was costly. While Scotty Gudmundson was attempting a pass, Lipscomb crashed thru and knocked the ball out of his hands. Clyde Goodnight recovered it for the Packers on the Yanks' 10, from where Brock made his second touchdown drive with the greatest of ease.

WILMAN BEATS BOMAR; FINAL EDGE, 447 PINS

Joe Wilman, runner-up to Buddy Bomar for the national individual match game bowling championship last year, defeated Bomar by 447 pins in their 28 game nontitle match concluded last night at Faetz recreation. Wilman scored 1,598 in the fourth and last seven game block to 1,394 for Bomar.

Wilman gained a lead of 146 pins in 14 games on his home alleys, Jackson Dearborn recreation, Saturday, and added 301 pins to his margin on Bomar's home lanes. Joe won yesterday afternoon's seven game block, 4,307 to 4,064. His 1,598 last night was high block of the series. Last night's scores:

Wilman—212, 248, 170, 255, 256, 246, 211.
Bomar—205, 200, 193, 221, 204, 193, 178.

Bomar is to meet Ned Day in 14 games at West Allis, Wis., next Saturday ,and 14 more at Faetz Sunday.

NED DAY WINS MATCH

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18 (AP)—Ned Day, former individual match game bowling champion, today climaxed a 60 game, $2,000 match against Tony Sparando of New York by scoring a 990 pin triumph over his eastern rival. Day trailed by 54 pins at the end of the first half of the match in New York last week, but picked up enough pins on his home alleys to finish with a total of 13,003 to 12,013 for Sparando.

Devore, Mills to Speak at Quarter Back Lunch

Head Coach Hugh Devore of Notre Dame, Athletic Director Doug Mills of Illinois and General Manager Charles [Chile] Walsh of the Cleveland Rams will be speakers at today's quarter back luncheon in the Morrison hotel.

Bagarus and Redskins Beat Bears, 28-21

Baugh's swift passes until they had progressed to the Chicago 30. Frank Akins then punched his way thru the right side of the Bear line to the 18, after which Bagarus made a handsome catch of a Baugh pitch for a touchdown.

21 Points in 2d Quarter

Came the second quarter and the explosion, producing 21 points, with the Bears' 14 points giving them a half time advantage of 21 to 14. The Chicagoans ignited this with a 71 yard parade, several factors being involved. Gary Famiglietti was a great help in this surge, as was the lately returned McAfee, who touched off the first move into Washington territory on the end sweep which wound up on the Redskin 42. Margarita collected five in an orthodox line thrust; then Kavanaugh maneuvered his lengthly frame back of Washington's Wilbur Moore on the Redskins 32, then just romped home for a touchdown.

The ever-ready Bagarus soon adjusted matters, after the Redskins took the following kickoff on their own 32. Baugh flipped a short pass to Steve and from there on the young man was a sight to see. He rambled thru the Bear defense without so much as a halt for a sandwich, for which he would have had time, the way he was driving the Chicagoans, as he dashed over the Bear goal line. Aguirre made it 14 to 14.

Shortly thereafter, Baugh was forced to punt to Margarita, the durable Bear returning from his own 40 to the Washington 41. Luckman unfurled his flinging talents, one pass being good to Wilson for 7 yards. Four plays later Sid tossed the ball to Wilson again. George fumbled, but the alert Margarita picked it up on the Washington 16, then kept going for another 10 yards. On second down, the Luckman-Wilson combination clicked again and the score became 21 to 1[illegible] when the infallable Gudaskas cam in to boot the extra point.

Bagarus Ties Score

The score became a 21 to 21 tie in the final session, thanks to the shifty Bagarus' punt runback to the Bear 22. Akins muscled his way to the four yard line, then Condit swept over the defensive right guard for a touchdown.

Bagarus hopped back into the picture again with a 21 yard return to the Chicago 39 yard line. On third down, Baugh threw a hard pass to Todd, who wasn't nalted until he reached the 9 yard mark. Akin drove thru for six, then Condit went over for the touchdown. Statistics:

Father Says Pat Harder Has Signed Card Contract

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18 (AP)—Martin A. Harder, father of Marlin [Pat] Harder, star full back at the University of Wisconsin in 1941 and 1942, who was released from the marine corps last week after 30 months of service, said today that his son had signed a contract to play professional football with the Chicago Cardinals. The ex-Badger, who was eligible for one more year of collegiate competition, is expected to join the Cards tomorrow.

Slovaks Beat Necaxas for Crown, 3 to 1

BY OFFSIDE

The Slovaks gained a berth in the major division of the National Soccer league by defeating the Necaxas, 3 to 1, yesterday in Sparta stadium in a playoff for the first division championship. The Rangers and the Chicago Sports club teams both are dropped into the first division from the major section.

The winners made two goals in the first period, Smitty Tomecek and Alex Bosseree scoring. Bosseree added the third goal before Henry Rivera counted for the Necaxas.

The Vikings completed their league schedule with a 5 to 0 triumph over the Schwabens in Winnemac park stadium. Don Bain scored the winning goal in the first period, after which George Nemchik and Jim McDermott made two apiece, all four within four minutes, in the final half.

Two goals scored by Maxie Pearlman and one by Dr. Julius Brant gave the Hakoah-Centers a 3 to 0 victory over the Milwaukee Bayerns in the Key Branch stadium.

VAN BUREN AND EAGLES DEFEAT STEELERS, 30-6

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—Steve Van Buren, the National Football league's leading ground gainer, scored his usual two touchdown quota today to power the injury riddled Philadelphia Eagles to a 30 to 6 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers before 23,838 fans.

Steve sparked the Eagles' first touchdown march late in the first period with Sonny Karnofsky scoring on a 12 yard race around his own left end. Roy Zimmerman placed-kicked the extra point to give the Eagles a 7 to 6 lead and they continued adding to the score from there on in.

Art Jones, Pittsburgh half back, suffered a twisted neck and shoulder on the last play of the game. He was rushed to a hospital, where X-ray pictures showed no fracture.

The Eagles' victory, coupled with the Washington Redskins' triumph over the Chicago Bears, set up next Sunday's game in Shibe Park here as the decisive Eastern division tussle. The Eagles need a victory to tie the Redskins. Lineup:

The undefeated Cole Lenzi middleweight football team yesterday posted its third victory in five games, routing the Wheaton Comets, 32 to 0, at Lenzi field in Hodgkins, Ill.

College Football's Fighting Men

Badgers' Rex John Veteran of Two Fronts

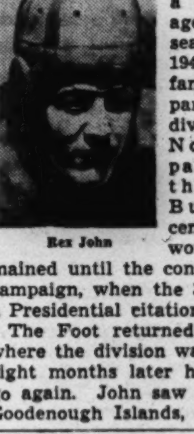
[Another of a series recounting thrilling war exploits of athletes who have returned to midwestern college gridirons. Today's hero is Rex John, University of Wisconsin tackle, whose home is in Manitowoc, Wis. He was a regular tackle on the 1938-'39 Badger elevens.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

SGT. REX JOHN was a two war man. He left the South Pacific a battle hardened and scarred veteran before the Japs gave up and he was in France, ready for more action, when the Germans surrendered.

Fights in Pacific Area, Then Is Shifted to Europe

John, called the Foot, because he is at the top among Western conference punters this season with a 43 yard average, went overseas in April of 1942 with an infantry rifle company in the '32d division. In mid-November he participated in the invasion of Buna. In December he was wounded but remained until the conclusion of the campaign, when the 32d was given a Presidential citation.



Rex John

The Foot returned to Australia, where the division was rebuilt, and eight months later he was on the go again. John saw action on the Goodenough Islands, and at Saidor and Aitape in New Guinea, winning the silver star.

Should Know Plenty About International Relations

He returned home in October, 1944, and in March of this year headed for the European war. He remained in France until V-E day. Then came his greatest thrill. As a reward for serving four years John was flown back to the United States in June.

He should be an apt student in his specialty—international relations. John will be graduated next June.

Lucas Named Head of Railway Bowling Group

C. H. Lucas of Congress Park, Ill., yesterday was named president of the American Railway Bowling association at the annual meeting in the Stevens hotel. G. H. West, Buffalo, N. Y., was elected secretary and A. F. Cisar, Berwyn treasurer. The association will resume its annual tournament in Columbus, O., next April after a four year lapse because of the war.

For the Dry-est Martini in the world!

Seagram's Ancient Bottle distilled dry Gin

Time-Honored "Ancient" Bottle
Temporary "Victory" Bottle

Golden as mellow candle-light is the color of Seagram's Ancient Bottle Gin. It's naturally golden because of Seagram's leisurely time-honored way of producing it. This results in a gin so smooth, so lacking in any permeating trace of juniper flavor that with it you can truly make "The Dry-est Martini in the World."

No covering flavors are needed, yet no ginny taste comes through. It is a gin so sippingly smooth that you will even enjoy it straight.

GOAL!

Knute Rockne said, "Give me a good, reliable punter, and I won't worry about my offense." Can't today's football players kick? Why is Lou Little a little sad? Maybe he remembers when guys really could boot the pigskin—17 field goals in one game! A 63-yard drop kick for a field goal! 97 points scored by a player who was never officially in the game. Only 3 field goals missed in two years of college football! How does toda[y] stack up? Read this true sports thriller . . .

ANXIOUS AUTO INDUSTRY HEARS NEWS OF PRICES

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—OPA's announcement of automobile prices for major manufacturers came tonight to an industry worried over its future and making no promises of when new cars in volume will reach the general public.

The industry was unprepared to comment formally on OPA's price schedules until, spokesmen said, the government agency made available the official figures on the price ranges to the individual companies. One source said this could be expected within two or three days.

In Upset Condition

At the very time the OPA's price lists were made public, the motor-car industry was described as still in an upset condition because of labor troubles, with production programs uncertain.

In the forefront were the threatened strikes of the CIO's United Automobile Workers union in support of its demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase thruout the industry. Rejecting the demand, the manufacturers claimed car price raises must ensue from boosted wages.

Announcement is Welcomed

The industry welcomed OPA's announcement of prices as at least setting out a guide-post whereby sales and production programs could be aligned. The manufacturers had been awaiting OPA's action.

Commenting on OPA Administrator Bowles' reference to 500,000 cars monthly by next June, George Romney, general manager of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, said in a statement that was the industry's estimate last August but expressed doubt as to its realization.

DEALERS DISAPPOINTED

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18 (AP)—William L. Mallon, president of the National Automobile Dealers' association, issued a statement tonight saying his organization was "disappointed but not surprised at Price Administrator Bowles' decision to cut the regularly established automobile dealer discounts by 2.5 per cent."

"Testimony presented before the house small business committee demonstrated clearly that OPA had never made a full and complete study of all automobile manufacturer and dealer costs," said Mallon. "This testimony is borne out fully by Mr. Bowles' official announcement of his decision made today."

SERVICE MEN'S REFUNDS

I understand the new income tax law exempts from tax the entire active service pay of enlisted men for all years beginning after Dec. 31, 1940. What provision is made for a refund of taxes paid on such income for years before the former $1,500 exemption was allowed?

M. A.

The clear intent of the revenue act of 1945 is to exempt enlisted personnel below the grade of commissioned officers from any tax liability for active service pay from the end of 1940 to the termination of the war as proclaimed by the President, tax lawyers say. They note an ambiguity, however, because the statute refers to pay during "the present war," meaning the war beginning Dec. 7, 1941. Salaries for December, 1941, probably were not paid before January, 1942.

Under a special provision, refunds or credits to such members for overpayments of taxes for 1941 and 1942, attributable to the change in the law, may be claimed at any time before Jan. 1, 1947. For this purpose the usual statutory limitation does not apply.

Under prior law the army and navy exemption in effect for 1943 and later years was $1,500 for all ranks, in addition to the usual personal exemptions. For commissioned officers this exemption remains unchanged. For 1942 only, enlisted men but not commissioned officers had a special exemption for service pay of $250 if single and $300 if married or head of family. Until this year's amendment, no part of the 1941 military compensation was excludable from gross income.

A SIDELIGHT ON THE Atomic Bomb

THE tick of the telegraph key in The Milwaukee Road station at Hanford, Washington, broke the between-trains quiet of a February day in 1943. Over the wire came a message that caused the agent on this peaceful branch line to doubt his ears. And little wonder! For the government was asking that the six hundred families of the Hanford and White Bluffs communities be moved up the tracks—lock, stock and barrel.

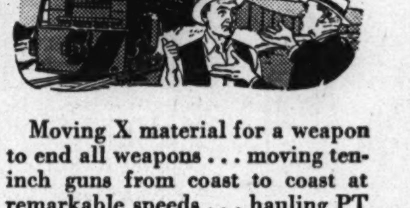
Now, at last, the story may be told. The flash to Hanford was only the beginning. Government removal orders finally resulted in the abandonment of 600 square miles of land in the Priest Rapids and Richland areas of the Columbia River Valley. More than 1,800 families, with their goods and chattels, were re-located by The Milwaukee Railroad's Agricultural Development Department and other agencies.

So the way was cleared for what was originally called the "Hanford Project." The vast extent of this project may be gauged through the fact that between April 1, 1943, and July 31, 1945, The Milwaukee Road delivered 41,633 carloads of freight ... equal to a freight train 350 miles long ... at re-located Hanford.

Most of the scientific equipment and industrial material was hauled westward over the electrified route of The Milwaukee Road, through the ranges of the Rockies, and then into the Saddle Mountains that flank the Cascades on the east. From Beverly, Washington, on the main line, a steady stream of oddly assorted freight moved twenty-one miles down the branch to Hanford, where it was delivered to a short-line railroad operated by the government in the restricted area.

Few indeed, other than The Milwaukee Road men who operated the heavy freight trains, had any knowledge of the magnitude of the development that was under way. The production of a new weapon, the impact of which would smash all existing concepts of war and peace, was a well guarded secret.

Only America's railroads had the capacity and flexibility which enabled the government, science and industry to marshall the nation's resources anywhere, in any quantity, for any undertaking, no matter how gigantic.



Moving X material for a weapon to end all weapons ... moving ten-inch guns from coast to coast at remarkable speeds ... hauling PT boats from factory to sea ... speeding millions and millions of our fighting men to their destinations ... or carrying boat loads of servicemen's Christmas packages to transoceanic ports are examples of the wide variety of jobs which only the railroads are capable of performing.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

GRAIN TRADING BOOMS, PRICE RISE PERSISTS

Futures Sales Set Peak Since 1937

Prosperity has returned to La Salle st. grain brokers along with the large advance in prices of farm commodities which has proceeded with only minor interruptions since early this year.

Transactions in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade during the first 10 months of 1945 rose to 6 billion 156 million bushels, the largest total since 1937, Commodity exchange authority figures show. This volume exceeded by 29.3 per cent the 4 billion 762 million bushel trade during the corresponding 1944 period.

Expands Despite Handicaps

Brokers consider the volume of business remarkable because trading in wheat, corn, and barley futures has been curtailed recently by price levels at or only slightly below office of price administration ceilings. In addition, trading in soybean futures which totaled 194 million bushels in 1942, has been discontinued.

Turnover in rye futures is expected to set a new exchange record, with the total of 2 billion 794 million bushels to Nov. 1 about 100 million bushels more than a year ago. Trade in oats futures in 10 months aggregated 1 billion 130 million bushels, more than double the turnover last year and the largest since 1925.

European Need Is Basis

Development of a world shortage of bread and feed grains thru the vast European demand for foodstuffs has furnished the background for the heavy trading in grain futures in recent months, brokers said. European countries which imported 750 million bushels or more of grain annually before the war harvested 1 billion 633 million bushels less wheat and other grain this year than normally because of war and unfavorable weather.

Advances in grain futures prices on the board of trade this year have been sensational. December wheat rose 31¼ cents a bushel from the low of the year and oats 26 cents despite record domestic harvests of both grains. The upturn in wheat was checked at $1.80½, the ceiling price.

Rye Leads in Rise, Volume

Rye has been the market leader, both in price advances and volume of trading. December last week sold at $1.90¼, a climb of 88⅛ cents from its low. Cash rye has advanced faster than futures and was quoted 25 cents above cash wheat last week, the first time it has brought such a premium since 1921.

A corn crop of 3 billion 70 million bushels, 637 million above the 1934-'43 average was harvested this year, but cash corn prices have held at the ceiling for several months. This 10 year average figure, however, includes the extremely small yields in 1934 and in 1936 when millions of bushels of Rumanian and Argentine corn were imported. The 1936 crop was about half of that harvested this year.

Pullman's Sleeping Car Profits Below Year Ago

The Pullman company yesterday reported net income from the sleeping car operations amounted to $6,409,745 in the first nine months of 1945, compared with $7,190,964 in the corresponding 1944 period.

OUTPUT PER WORKER GAINS TWO-THIRDS IN 40 YEARS ENDED IN '39

Output of the average employed worker in the United States was approximately two-thirds more in 1939 than in 1899, the National Bureau of Economic Research said yesterday in reporting results of its investigations into production, employment, and productivity in American industry.

Total product of the American economy increased approximately 200 per cent in the 40 year period surveyed and the numbers of workers increased 75 per cent. Almost every industry engaged in producing and transporting physical goods reduced the number of workers per unit of product. In agriculture, manufacturing, and in public utilities, the reduction was about half. In mining it exceeded 50 per cent. Average reduction for the four industries was 58 per cent and when measured by man hours, about 65 per cent.

"Both percentage computations, however, understate the decline because they fail to take account of the improvement in the quality of product," the report said. "Nor do they measure additional gains from greater economies in materials and fuel consumption."

MUNICIPAL BOND ISSUES MOSTLY WIN IN ELECTION

The Municipal Finance Officers association said yesterday reports indicated 90 per cent of proposed bond issues voted on in Nov. 6 elections won approval. It said reports covered about half the 200 million dollars of bond issues submitted to the voters.

Pennsylvania's 50 million program was the largest single item, and passed by a vote of 300,718 to 81,844. San Francisco voted a 20 million airport issue by a majority of five to one. Ohio voters authorized more than 65 million for government and school buildings, and other civic improvements.

I. B. A. WILL HEAR SNYDER SPEAK AT CONVENTION

Reconversion Director Snyder and two other nationally known persons are scheduled to address the 34th annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America which will be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel Nov. 25 thru Nov. 28. Names of the two others will be disclosed later.

Sunday, the opening day, will be devoted to registration, committee meetings, and an early evening "get-together" reception. General business sessions start Monday. Snyder will speak at the dinner Tuesday night.

Wednesday's schedule includes installation of new officers, final committee reports, and the inaugural address of the incoming president, Charles S. Garland of Baltimore. Garland was nominated by the board of governors last June.

NEW STATISTICS METHOD TERMED MORE ACCURATE

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Columbia university made public today a war-developed statistical method which it said analyzes data while they are being collected rather than afterward, reduces by about 50 per cent the amount of data needed, and eliminates a large proportion of errors to which conclusions based on sampling are liable.

The method, "sequential analysis of statistical data," is described in a report prepared for the office of scientific research and development and published by the Columbia University press. The information formerly was on the government's restricted list.

Army Surplus Building Supplies on Sale Today

Army surplus building materials and electrical and plumbing supplies will be placed on public sale today at Fort Sheridan, in building 64, Lt. Edward Stapel, officer in charge of property disposal at the post, said yesterday.

New Markets Forecast for Illinois' Coal

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP)—An attractive new market for Illinois coal is foreseen by the state geological survey which reported the output of numerous mines can be used in production of metallurgical coke.

Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the survey, predicted increased use of Illinois coal in making fuel for blast furnaces in the Chicago and St. Louis areas. Midwestern coke ovens use 12 to 15 million tons of bituminous coal annually, shipped from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and eastern Kentucky, he said.

Use Low Sulphur Coal

Leighton reported two years of research showed that some Illinois coals could be substituted for as much as 75 per cent of the eastern coal being used. Only coal with low sulphur content is suitable for coke.

The principal low sulphur coal area of Illinois centers around Franklin county and extends to portions of Jefferson, Perry, and Williamson counties, he said. Smaller fields of relatively low sulphur coal are situated in Vermilion, Woodford, and Madison counties. The report suggested Saline and Williamson county coal of higher sulphur content may be considered as "small percentage constituents of blends."

The report urged further study of the use of higher sulphur content coal because "Illinois has larger reserves of high volatile bituminous coals than any other state east of the Rockies."

Study Financed by WPB

The experiments were started in 1943, prompted by war time transportation problems and the depletion of Appalachian coal reserves. They were financed by WPB's office of production research and development.

"Rail frate rates to the Chicago area favor southern Illinois coals over the Appalachian coals by more than $1 a ton," the report said.

PREDICT BOOST SOON IN SOME STEEL PRICES

Await Government Policy Discussions

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18 (AP)—The trade publication Steel today predicted the office of price administration would authorize an increase in some steel prices within a week or 10 days.

"Under increased pressure to act on steel makers' request for an advance up to $7 per ton entered several months ago it is reported that action deferred for weeks will be taken as soon as top government officials decide policy and details are worked out," said the magazine.

Would Be for Accumulated Costs

"Some time ago it was indicated OPA favored granting increases averaging $2 to $2.25 per ton. Whatever increases are allowed will be to compensate for past accumulated higher wages and other production costs and will not take into consideration any possible wage increase which may stem from the current wage controversy in the industry."

It said backlogs continued to increase despite accelerating production with demand far in excess of available supplies in all major lines.

Curb Order Acceptances

"Steel makers have controled the buying situation to a great extent by restrictions on order acceptance and by quotas, relating sales to previous consumption by buyers," said the magazine.

"In sheets, which are most in demand, various producers are refusing to accept tonnage for shipment beyond the first quarter, which means, under present circumstances, that they are out of the market. In other products restrictions sharply limit order acceptance."

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

George W. Moyers

The International Minerals and Chemical corporation is establishing a foreign sales organization in Europe, Louis Ware, president, announced. George W. Moyers, manager of the phosphate division sales department, will direct the activities. Ware said the soil in Europe needs much phosphate and his company proposes to mine and ship it to Europe as fast as possible.

CHICAGO TITLE AND TRUST COMPANY
BENEFICIARY
Anyone who inherits anything under a will is a Beneficiary.
But too often there are unnamed Beneficiaries—relatives, friends, dependents, who manage to worm their way into a widow's inheritance. One sure way to protect your real beneficiaries, and exclude all others, is to establish a Trust for your loved ones. You thus provide business management and a continuation of your own wishes for those you benefit.
There are many, many forms of Trusts. One of our Trust Officers will gladly show you ways of adapting one to your needs.

THE LOGAN COMPANY
LOUISVILLE
THE Logan Company is definitely no "war baby." Established in 1776, as the Dow Company, its name was changed in 1923 but the operation is still the same.
We have divided our production into four divisions which enables us to avoid slack periods of employment. These four divisions are: conveyors, bedding, builders' iron (all except structural) and light metals (fire screens, etc.) By simply transferring our workers from one division to another we are able to maintain steady employment. During the war most of our material was produced for priorities and Government contracts. For this work we employed 550 people.
We have had very few conversion problems, with none at all in our conveyor division which accounts for practically 50% of our total production. There are slight problems in the bedding, builders' iron and light metals divisions but the solution of these will only require approximately 30 days when we are given a governmental go-ahead.
As soon as we get into full production we will employ around 600 people.

"PERSONNEL CONSULTANTS IN MANAGEMENT PERSONNEL"
We operate from coast to coast, in Canada, Mexico, and South America. We cater to the top executives only who can show a consistent earning record of over $5,000 per year. We are not to be confused with other agencies. Our operations are different. They are individualized to your own needs. We are interested in the individual not as collective group. No charge to you for our advertising service. We charge a reasonable fee only if we actually place you on a position.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION OF A PART OF OUTSTANDING FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS BEFORE MATURITY TO THE HOLDERS OF THE OUTSTANDING FIVE PER CENT BONDS OF THE MOUNT HOPE BRIDGE CORPORATION SECURED BY ITS MORTGAGE DATED JUNE 15, 1932

Notice is hereby given by the Mount Hope Bridge Corporation that it has exercised its option to redeem a part of its outstanding First Mortgage Five Per Cent Bonds on the fifteenth day of December, A. D. 1945, such bonds so to be redeemed being in the principal amount of $80,000.

In accordance with the provisions of said mortgage Mount Hope Bridge Corporation has notified the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company as trustee under said mortgage, of its intention to redeem such bonds and has requested the said trustee to proceed to draw by lot bonds in the principal amount of $80,000, and such trustee has drawn such bonds by lot for redemption in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage.

The distinguishing numbers of the bonds so drawn are as follows, namely:
X—22; 25
M—5; 7; 44; 65; 66; 73; 119; 123; 137; 185; 215; 284; 320; 332; 365; 449; 450; 494; 501; 536; 539; 561; 590; 611; 614; 620; 630; 657; 691; 695; 713; 714; 718; 745; 752; 786; 807; 809; 814; 820; 843; 844; 854; 864.
D—21; 27; 29; 40; 51; 102; 155; 164; 167; 170; 184; 196; 212; 220; 221; 274; 307; 313; 329; 342; 352; 376; 384; 407; 432; 443; 481; 484; 485.
L—10; 15; 21; 39; 49; 74.

The bonds bearing such distinguishing numbers will be paid for at the rate of 102 per centum of the par of said bonds, together with accrued interest to December 15, 1945. Holders of said bonds are notified to present them for payment at the principal office of the trustee, Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, at No. 15 Westminster Street, York, 46 Wall Street, New York City, Providence, Rhode Island—or at the principal office of The Commercial National Bank and Trust Company of New New York—on the fifteenth day of December, A. D. 1945, on which day all interest on said bonds will cease. Bonds so presented must have the coupons due on December 15, 1945, and at dates subsequent thereto, attached to such bonds.

MOUNT HOPE BRIDGE CORPORATION,
by R. F. Haffenreffer,
President.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS. IN THE ESTATE OF MINNIE E. HUGHES late of the City of Chicago, in the State of Illinois, Widow.

All persons having claims against the estate of Minnie E Hughes, late of the City of Chicago, in the State of Illinois, Widow, deceased, who died on or about the 9th day of July, 1944, are hereby notified to send in to the undersigned personal representative of the said deceased on or before the 15th day of December, 1945, full particulars of their claims. Immediately after the said date the said personal representative will distribute the assets of the said deceased having regard only to the claims of which it shall then have notice.

DATED at Toronto this 8th day of November, 1945.
